

SHORT BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION ON SPEAKERS

Gerard Delanty

<http://www.liv.ac.uk/sspsw/staff/biogs/delanty.htm>

Gerard Delanty is Professor of Sociology and Head of the Department of Sociology, Social Policy and Social Work at the University of Liverpool. He teaches courses on the sociology of European societies and contemporary European social theory. His most recent publications include Community (Routledge, 2003) and (with Chris Rumford) Rethinking Europe: Social Theory and the Implications of Europeanization (Routledge, 2005). He has edited the Handbook of Contemporary European Social Theory (Routledge, 2005), (with Krishan Kumar) Handbook of Nations and Nationalism (Sage, 2006) and Europe and Asia Beyond East and West: Towards a New Cosmopolitanism (Routledge, 2006).

Yvonne Galligan

<http://www.qub.ac.uk/schools/SchoolofPoliticsInternationalStudiesandPhilosophy/AboutUs/StaffProfiles/Galligan/>

Yvonne Galligan is Reader in Politics and Director of the Centre for Advancement of Women in Politics at Queen's University Belfast. Her teaching and research focuses on gender politics, with a current focus on East Central Europe. Her recent publications include Sharing Power: Women, Parliament, Democracy (co-edited with Manon Tremblay), Ashgate: 2005 "Equalising opportunities for women in electoral politics in Ireland", (with Kathleen Knight and Una Nic Giolla Choille) Women and Politics 26:1 (2004) , and Gender Equality Indicators for Northern Ireland: A Discussion Document, (with Esther Breitenbach). OFMDFM: 2004. She is Vice-President of the International Political Science Association and is Fulbright Scholar and Distinguished Scholar in Residence at the School of Public Affairs, American University, Washington D.C for 2005-06.

Randall D. Germain

<http://www.carleton.ca/polisci/Faculty/list/germain.html>

Randall D. Germain is Associate Professor of Political Science at Carleton University, previously a Senior Lecturer in International Politics at the University of Wales, Aberystwyth. His teaching and research falls within the area of international political economy, with a primary focus upon the political economy of global finance. He is an Honourary Fellow of the Political Economy Research Centre at the University of Sheffield, and is a co-editor of the Routledge/RIPE Series in Global Political Economy. His current research focuses on the regulatory apparatus of global financial governance and on the use of historical reasoning in IPE theory. His most recent publications include The Idea of Global Civil Society: politics and ethics in a globalizing era, (co-editor with Michael Kenny), Routledge: 2005; and „Globalizing Accountability within the International Organization of Credit: financial governance and the public sphere", Global Society, Vol. 18, no. 3 (July 2004).

Justin Greenwood

<http://www.rgu.ac.uk/abs/staff/page.cfm?pge=5373>

Justin Greenwood is Professor of European Public Policy, and teaches EU and UK public policy as well as a module on 'Interest Representation in the EU' at each of the College of Europe campuses (Bruges, Belgium and Natolin, Poland) where he serves as a visiting Professor. His current research focuses on the role of organised civil society interests in EU democratic development. His most recent publications include Interest Representation in the EU, (Basingstoke: Palgrave Macmillan, 2003), Inside the EU Business Associations (Basingstoke: Palgrave, 2002); editor and co-author of The Challenge of Change in EU Business Associations (Basingstoke: Palgrave Macmillan, 2003); and Social Partnership in the European Union (ed., with H. Compston, and co-author) (Basingstoke: Palgrave, 2001).

Achim Hurrelmann

<http://www.zes.uni-bremen.de/homepages/hurrelmann/index.php>

Achim Hurrelmann is Research Associate at the Centre of Social Policy Research, University of Bremen (Germany). He is also involved in the university's interdisciplinary research centre "Transformations of the State (TranState)". His research focuses on questions of constitutionalism and on the legitimation of democratic governance, particularly in the European Union. Some recent publications are: Verfassung und Integration in Europa: Wege zu einer supranationalen Demokratie (Frankfurt/New York: Campus 2005); (with Z. Krell-Laluhová et al.) "Is there a Legitimacy Crisis of the Nation State?", in: European Review 13:1 (2005), pp. 119-137; "Constitutional Democracy and Social Integration: Models of Constitutionalism in the EU Reform Debate", in W. Loth (ed) La Gouvernance Supranationale dans la Construction Européenne (Bruxelles: Bruylant 2005), pp. 309-338.

Abby Innes B.Sc. (Econ.) Ph.D.

<http://www.lse.ac.uk/people/innes@lse.ac.uk/>

After graduating from the London School of Economics in 1991 Abby Innes worked as Assistant to the General Secretary of the Czechoslovak Federal Foreign Office and in the Office of the Czechoslovak Government as part of a PHARE team. From 1992-1993 she worked in the European Industrial Development Programme at the Policy Studies Institute, London. She wrote her doctoral thesis (1994-7) on the partition of Czechoslovakia and spent 1995 in Prague (based at CERGE) and 1996-7 as a Visiting Scholar at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT). Abby joined the European Institute of the LSE as a lecturer in September 1997, where she teaches Master's courses on the political economy of post-communist transition and doctoral research seminars on European politics and policy. From 2001-2 she was a Jean Monnet Fellow at the RSCAS at the European University Institute, Florence. Recent publications include; 'Party Competition in Post-communist Europe: The Great Electoral Lottery' (2002) Comparative Politics, October, Volume 35; Czechoslovakia: The Short Goodbye, Yale University Press (2001), and with Anna Grzymala-Busse, 'Great Expectations: The EU and Domestic Political Competition in East Central Europe', in East European Politics and Societies, Winter, Volume 17 (2003). Her current research is on democratic consolidation in Central Europe.

Lawrence LeDuc

http://www.chass.utoronto.ca/polsci/faculty_staff/ourfaculty/lawrence_leduc.htm

Lawrence LeDuc is Professor of Political Science at the University of Toronto. His publications include The Politics of Direct Democracy (2003), Comparing Democracies (2002, 1996), Absent Mandate (1984, 1991, 1995), How Voters Change (1990), and Political Choice in Canada (1979, 1980), and articles in journals such as Electoral Studies, Party Politics, the Journal of Elections, Public Opinion, and Parties, the Canadian Journal of Political Science, the American Political Science Review, the British Journal of Political Science, Comparative Political Studies and the European Journal of Political Research. He is a member of the editorial boards of Electoral Studies, the Journal of Elections, Public Opinion, and Parties, and the European Journal of Political Research, and a member of the expert groups on direct democracy and political participation of the International Institute for Democracy and Electoral Assistance (Stockholm). He was Visiting Professor of Political Science at Central European University during the 2003-04 academic year.

David Ost

<http://www.hws.edu/news/experts/displayexpert.asp?expertid=54>

David Ost is professor of political science at Hobart and William Smith Colleges in Geneva, New York, and occasional visiting professor at Warsaw University and Central European University. He has written extensively on political economy and democratization in East-Central Europe, with a particular focus on labor and social movements in Poland, and more recently on eastern European international relations. He is the author of Solidarity and the Politics of Anti-Politics, and the recent (2005) The Defeat of Solidarity: Anger and Politics in Postcommunist Europe. He is also co-author of Workers After Workers' States, European Politics in Transition, and translator and editor of Adam Michnik's book The Church and the Left. He has published widely in scholarly and popular journals, such as The Nation, Dissent, Telos, Tikkun, Politics and Society, European Journal of Social Theory, Theory and Society, East European Politics and Society, European Journal of Industrial Relations, and elsewhere.

Jon H. Pammett

<http://www.carleton.ca/polisci/Faculty/list/pammett.html>

Jon H. Pammett is Professor of Political Science and Associate Dean of Research and Faculty Development, Faculty of Public Affairs and Management, Carleton University. Prof. Pammett is one of Canada's premier specialists on survey research. He participated in the design of the Canadian National Election Studies of 1974, 1979 and 1980, and other surveys of more recent elections and referendums. These have resulted in numerous books and articles, including Political Choice in Canada and Absent Mandate: Interpreting Change in Canadian Elections; he is co-editor, with Chris Dornan, of The Canadian General Election of... series, most recently The Canadian General Election of 2004 (Dundurn, Toronto). Pammett has led Canada's participation in the International Social Survey Programme (ISSP) since 1998. He has edited, and contributed to, books using ISSP data on Social Inequality in Canada and Environmental Attitudes in Canada and Around the World. Recently, Pammett's current research on the nature of democratic participation includes a number of reports and articles for Elections Canada, including Explaining the Turnout Decline in Canadian Federal Elections: A New Survey of Non-Voters and Confronting the Problem of Declining Voter Turnout Among Youth. (with Lawrence LeDuc).

Tapio Raunio (Will not be present at the conference)

<http://www.uta.fi/laitokset/politiikka/staff/raunio.html>

Tapio Raunio is Professor of Political Science at the University of Tampere in Finland. He has published articles on various aspects of European integration in journals such as the European Journal of Political Research, Journal of Common Market Studies, Party Politics, and Scandinavian Political Studies. Recent monographs include Politiska partier i den europeiska författningen (& Karl Magnus Johansson, SNS Förlag, 2004) and Finland in the European Union (& Teija Tiilikainen: Frank Cass, 2003). His current research interests are the role of parliaments and parties in European integration and the Finnish political system.

François Rocher

<http://www.carleton.ca/polisci/Faculty/list/rocher.html>

Dr. Rocher is Professor of Political Science at Carleton University. His research interests include constitutional politics in Canada, Canadian identity, Canadian federalism, citizenship, and Québec nationalism. In 2001-2002 he was President of the Société québécoise de science politique and from 2002-2005 Director of the School of Canadian Studies at Carleton University. His most recent publications include: "Questioning Constitutional Democracy in Canada: From the Canadian Supreme Court Reference on Quebec Secession to the Clarity Act", in Alain-G. Gagnon, Montserrat Guibernau and François Rocher (eds.); The Institutional Accommodation of Diversity, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 2004, forthcoming (with Nadia Verrelli); "The Evolving Parameters of Québec Nationalism", in MOST, Journal on Multicultural Societies, Vol. 4, no. 1, 2002, <http://www.unesco.org/most/vl4n1rocher.pdf>; and "At a Juncture? For a New Understanding of Federalism and Citizenship in Canada", International Journal of Canadian Studies, 22, Fall 2000, 37-66 (with Ann-Marie Field).

Jo Shaw

<http://www.law.ed.ac.uk/staff/view.asp?ref=88>

Jo Shaw has been the Salvesen Chair of European Institutions at the University of Edinburgh since 1 January 2005. Previously she was Professor of European Law and Jean Monnet Chair at the University of Manchester (2001-2) and Professor of European Law and Jean Monnet Chair of European Law and Integration at the University of Leeds. She served as Director of the Centre for the Study of Law in Europe between 1995 and 2001. She is Chair of the University Association for Contemporary European Studies (2003-2006) and is on the Editorial Board of the European Law Review. Professor Shaw's teaching and research focuses on the field of the EU constitution and institutions, particularly in socio-legal and interdisciplinary perspective. Her recent publications include: 'Legal and Political Sources of the European Constitution', (2004) 55 Northern Ireland Legal Quarterly 214-241; 'Europe's Constitutional Future' [2005] Public Law Spring.132-151; and (with Lars Hoffmann), 'Constitutionalism and Federalism in the 'Future of Europe' debate: the German dimension', (2004) 13 German politics 625-644.

Jennifer Smith

http://is.dal.ca/~poliwww/jsmith_bio.html

Jennifer Smith is Professor and Chair of the Department of Political Science, Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia. She teaches in the areas of comparative government; comparative federalism; Canadian government and politics; and constitutional issues in Canadian politics. She is a member of the advisory board of the Institute of Intergovernmental Affairs at Queen's University and the board of the Canadian Study of Parliament Group. Professor Smith's recent book, Federalism (Vancouver: UBC Press, 2004) is part of the multi-volume Canadian Democratic Audit project. Other recent publications include "Atlantic Canada at the Start of the New Millennium" in Harvey Lazar and Hamish Telford, eds., Canada: The State of the Federation, 2000-2001 (Montreal and Kingston: McGill-Queen's and the Institute of Intergovernmental Affairs, Queen's University, 2002), 141-162; "The Stanfield Government and Social Policy in Nova Scotia: 1956-1967," Journal, Royal Nova Scotia Historical Society, Vol. 6, 2003, 1-16; (with Peter Aucoin and Geoff Dinsdale) Responsible Government: Clarifying Essentials, Dispelling Myths and Exploring Change (Ottawa: Canadian Centre for Management Development, 2004).