

2010 Canada-Europe Public Lecture

Internet Privacy - Positions and Conflicts: Views from Europe and Canada

The lecture will address Canadian and European concerns about the release of personal information and the harvesting of data for commercial, employment and surveillance purposes.

Colin Bennett (University of Victoria) will present on the Canadian perspective, while Maria Farrell (writer and consultant in Internet policy development and communications, formerly with ICANN and the International Chamber of Commerce, Paris) will outline the situation as seen from Europe. The presentations will be followed by an open discussion.
