The Balkans in Transition, 1918-1989

Fall 2014
Mondays 6:00 PM - 9:00 PM
Instructor: Dr. Mark Biondich

The seminar uses the concept of transition to understand the Balkan's encounter with modernity and Europe. On the occasion of the centenary of the Sarajevo assassination (1914), it will pay particular attention to the roots of modern political violence and democratization in the region since the First World War. Key periods to be examined include the interwar era and the period of communist rule, with an emphasis on political, social and economic themes.
