COURSE DESCRIPTION

Law, State and Constitution will examine the law relating to the state, and the Constitution, with a focus on the historical framework, federalism, and constitutional reform in Canada. We will review the role of the state, examining the Constitution with an emphasis on the federal system, its interpretation, change, and reform. Among other things, we will look closely at the text of the Constitution, the social forces responsible for its creation, and several early legal decisions responsible for its initial application. As well, we will review more recent Supreme Court rulings that deal with key areas of the Constitution in order to understand how that document has evolved as Canada has matured as a nation-state.

This class will be delivered on the basis of interactive lectures. Students will be expected to regularly attend classes; attempt to answer questions put to them and discuss the topics under consideration in a respectful and courteous manner. Students should read the assigned materials before attending the relevant class as the readings will serve as a departure point for the topics discussed each lecture.
