“Open book”, for the purpose of the exam, means that the following materials may be brought into the examination room: (1) any version of the Criminal Code or YCJA, including the Tustin and Lutes text; (2) your lecture notes (or any notes that you shared with a study group or that you have with the permission of their author), and (3) any material downloaded from the course website, including the instructor’s lecture notes and PowerPoint/Keynote slides; (4) any e-mails sent by the instructor. You may NOT make use of a computer during the exams, except with permission of the Paul Menton Center.

Grade breakdown: the exam that you do best in will be worth 60% of your final grade; the other exam will be worth 40% of your final grade.

TEACHING ASSISTANTS / MARKERS

There are normally 2 TA’s for this course. One TA has been assigned to the “B” section, while the other has been assigned to the “T” section. The TA’s have not been assigned as of the date of this handout, but I will provide contact information once I have it.

The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable). For Religious and Pregnancy accommodations, please contact Equity Services, x. 5622 or their website: www.carleton.ca/equity

DESCRIPTION OF THE COURSE

Students who have taken my section of Introduction to Criminal Law, Laws 2004 (or more recently, Laws 2301 and 2302), know already that I am a criminal defense lawyer who teaches from a practical perspective, as if it were a law school course. I consider this course, which I am teaching for the 8th time, to be an extension of the introductory criminal law courses. The focus will continue to be on jurisprudence and legal principles, i.e., the tools that lawyers use when defending or prosecuting young persons accused of crime, and the tools available to Judges who deal with youths. I will rely heavily on guest lecturers to help put the reading materials into real-life context.

I am experimenting this year with having no required or recommended textbook, other than the Tustin and Lutes text which is just an annotated version of the YCJA. Having said that, feel free to purchase a copy of Sherri Davis-Barron’s excellent recent text that I two years ago, or Nicholas Bala’s equally authoritative text which I have also used in past years. Because the YCJA is such a new piece of legislation that is still in the early stages of being interpreted by the courts (and reacted to by politicians), you will need to read various recent cases from the Supreme Court of Canada as well as provincial appellate courts, likely some of which have not yet been decided. I will direct you throughout the term to a number of recent decisions. In addition, I will rely on information available on the internet, including background papers at the Department of Justice (Canada) website, and statistics available there or at the Statistics Canada website.

We will begin the course with a brief review of criminal procedure generally: it is necessary to understand the general law before examining how the law is different for youths. We will then review the history of the Youth Criminal Justice Act, including its antecedents such as the Young Offenders Act and the Juvenile Delinquents Act. Reviewing the history of the law will involve comparing the changing philosophy with respect to youth crime. We will also rely on statistical information in order to appreciate the true magnitude of youth crime, as well as to observe the practical impact of the YCJA.

The bulk of the course will be taken up with procedures and considerations that relate specifically to youths, particularly sentencing.

My objective is that students finish the course with a practical knowledge of the Canadian criminal justice system as it relates to youths, and that students be capable of critically analyzing media reports on youth crime, including its “prevalence” and the notion that young people are dealt with too leniently. I do not expect students to agree with me on all points. Exams will be structured so that you will be tested on your knowledge of facts relating to youth criminal justice in Canada, and not on your knowledge of my opinions.

One final note regarding CUOL courses. It is wonderful that university courses can be provided to students other than via the traditional classroom lecture. This enables students to take courses that would otherwise be inaccessible to them because of distance, employment, family responsibilities and/or disability. The downside, though, is that the ability to see the lectures any time at one’s convenience causes many students to fall behind, saving up the lectures until just before the exam and then cramming them in during a marathon session. While this is better than nothing, I strongly discourage this strategy in this or any other course. Do your best to keep up with the lectures weekly, and avoid the temptation to fall behind. By all means, come to class whenever you like, whichever section of the course you are registered in.

I hope that you enjoy the course, and I look forward to hearing from you as we go along. Course-content-related questions sent to me by e-mail may be answered to the class as a whole so that all students have the same information.
