

Course Outline

COURSE:	LAWS 3602 A - INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS
TERM:	Fall 2010
PREREQUISITES:	1.0 credit from: LAWS 2105, LAWS 2502, LAWS 2601, LAWS3503, LAWS3503 [1.0] (no longer offered), LAWS 3509, LAWS 3603 (no longer offered), LAWS 3603 [1.0] (no longer offered).
CLASS:	Day & Time:	Monday 8:30am – 11:30am
	Room:	Please check with Carleton Central for current room location
INSTRUCTOR:	Professor Rueban Balasubramaniam
CONTACT:	Office:	D487 Loeb
	Office Hrs:	Mondays, 1:30-3:30pm by appointment
	Telephone:	613-520-2600 ext 8809
	Email:	Rueban_Balasubramaniam@carleton.ca

"Students with disabilities requiring academic accommodations in this course must contact a coordinator at the Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities to complete the necessary Letters of Accommodation. After registering with the PMC, make an appointment to meet and discuss your needs with me in order to make the necessary arrangements as early in the term as possible, but no later than two weeks before the first assignment is due or the first test requiring accommodations. For further information, please see: http://www.carleton.ca/pmc/students/accom_policy.html . If you require accommodation for your formally scheduled exam(s) in this course, please submit your request for accommodation to PMC by November 15, 2010 for Fall exams and March 12, 2011 for Winter exams. For Religious and Pregnancy accommodations, please contact Equity Services, x. 5622 or their website: www.carleton.ca/equity

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The attempt to secure the international protection of human rights can be viewed as an attempt to internationalize a liberal model of the rule of law that takes rights seriously on the basis that the duty to take rights seriously is immanent in that model. However, post 9/11, liberal democracies like the United States and Canada have sought to claw back their commitment to protecting international human rights. This behavior raises pivotal questions about the extent to which liberal democracies and the liberal rule of law possess the conceptual resources with which to further the project of affirming international human rights norms. We will explore these questions principally through an examination of a debate between Oren Gross and David Dyzenhaus about the limits of the rule of law in states of emergencies (especially in liberal democracies).

REQUIRED TEXTS

All readings for this course will be posted on Web CT. (Many of them come from the same book – Victor Ramraj ed. Emergencies and the Limits of Legality, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2008 – and you are welcome to purchase the book or borrow it from the library.)

COURSE REGULATIONS

- 1) Assessment deadlines are absolute so there are no late penalties and no extensions; any late work automatically receives a grade of 0.

The primary mode of assessment in this course involves the writing of Critical Response Papers. Response Papers are short critical essays (no longer than 1000 words). You will be expected to write four such papers about readings in this course. Your final grade will be calculated by combining the marks achieved in your two best papers of the four.

A Response Paper is not a mere summary of a particular reading. Rather, you must build a critical argument that sets out and develops a thesis while simultaneously engaging the text of that reading. This is challenging because the readings are complex and because you must achieve all this in a very compressed space. To write a good Response Paper, you must show that you can closely read text, advance a clearly formulated thesis, set out a systematic account of a thinker's argument, and justify your thesis through a set of logically connected reasons.

Do not underestimate the difficulty of writing Response Papers. Some students think that it is easy to write Response Papers because a Response Paper is short. This belief leads them to write papers in the last minute. Some make the worse mistake of thinking that since the final grade for this course is tabulated by reference to your two best papers, it suffices to write two papers (taking a grade of 0 on the other two). I would strongly advise against this approach. It is not unusual to spend a lot of time drafting Response Papers to properly distill your thesis and to set out it out in a clear manner. In this spirit, I strongly urge you to write all four Response Papers and hand them in a timely manner to receive my comments. In my experience, students tend to find the first two very difficult but they improve quite dramatically over the last two papers if they have taken the comments I have made about their earlier Response Papers seriously. In short, it is in your interests to practice writing as many of these papers as possible.

In addition, I will I run several workshops about how to write such papers that focus on developing the skill-set that you need to utilize. It is therefore imperative that you attend all lectures and arrive prepared to participate during lectures where participation entails that you bring a copy of the readings, your notes, as well as questions that you have in mind to ask during lectures. In this regard, classes will not be run in a typical lecture style. Rather, we will engage in small group discussion and wide class discussion as we work through the readings. Although I will not take attendance because of the size of the class, my counsel is that you regularly attend class and meaningfully participate in these discussions and workshops. Students who usually do well are usually regular in attending class.

All papers are to be submitted to the Law Department Drop Box on the dates stipulated below and are not to be handed in to me personally. I will treat the Law Department stamp as conclusive evidence of timely submission. If the stamp does not indicate the relevant date required in the outline, I will automatically impose a mark of 0. There are no extensions. In addition, the relevant deadlines for submitting essays are as stipulated on this outline and not on the undergraduate calendar. This also means that your final Response Paper must be handed in on December 3 as stated below and not on any later date.

My rationale for this strict approach towards deadlines is that since your final grade ultimately depends upon the two best response papers that you produce, there is a degree of flexibility built into the assessment scheme.

Please ensure that you keep electronic copies of your Response Papers and note that I do not accept emailed assignments. I require physical copies handed in at the Law Department Drop-Box.

2) Plagiarism

Please familiarize yourself with Carleton University's policies on plagiarism. Plagiarism is a very serious offence and can lead to a permanent blemish on your record. If you are having difficulties in trying to write response papers, contact me early to deal with this.

3) Email Etiquette

Please state your name and student number in the headings of all emails that you send to me and please ensure you use your connect account. Before you email me, ask yourself whether you have a reasonable and clear question. If your query relates to an administrative issue that can be answered by looking at the course outline, then please confer with the outline. If your query relates to substantive issues about the material, please ask a very specific question rather than something that requires me to repeat something that you can easily figure out with a bit of reading or by asking somebody else. I will usually respond to your emails within 48 hours of receiving it although I do not check emails on weekends and public holidays and not after 4pm on week days, so if you email me after that time with an urgent matter, it will not be read until the next day.

EVALUATION

(All components must be completed in order to get a passing grade)

The course evaluation is built around Response Papers. A Response Paper is a short critical essay of no longer than 1000 words (or about 4-5 double spaced pages) that construct a critical analysis of a particular reading. It must be written in an essay format and attempt to articulate an argument. It is not a mere summary of the reading. Your argument should focus on an aspect of the reading or the argument made in the reading as a whole. It must show evidence of critical thought. Each paper is marked out of 50 marks and your final grade will be tabulated by combining the marks achieved in your two best Response Papers to produce a mark out of 100. Again, I urge you to write all four papers because they are not going to be easy to produce. Therefore, the more practice you have at them, the better your chances of doing well in this course. Below I have stipulated which readings you are to write about and the requisite deadlines for submitting these papers.

- 1) Response Paper 1: Oren Gross, "Should Responses to Violent Crises Always be Constitutional?" (2003) 112 Yale Law Journal 1011-1134 due on October 1.
- 2) Response Paper 2: David Dyzenhaus, "The State of Emergency in Legal Theory" in Victor Ramraj, Michael Hor, and Kent Roach (eds.) Global Anti-Terrorism Law (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2005), 66-89 due on October 22.
- 3) Response Paper 3: Oren Gross, "Extra-Legality and the Ethic of Political Responsibility" in Victor Ramraj ed. Emergencies and the Limits of Legality (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2008), 60 - 94 due on November 5.
- 4) Response Paper 4: Analyze any of the essays from the last four weeks of class (starting with Terry Nardin's article and ending with C. L. Lim's article) due on December 3.

SCHEDULE

1. Sep 13 Introductory Class
2. Sep 20 Oren Gross's Critique of the Business as Usual and Accommodation Models for Emergencies
Req'd reading: Gross, Oren, "Should Responses to Violent Crises Always be Constitutional?" (2003) 112 Yale Law Journal 1011-1134.
3. Sep 27 Gross's Extra-Legal Measures Model
Req'd reading: Oren Gross, "Should Responses to Violent Crises Always be Constitutional?" (2003) 112 Yale Law Journal 1011-1134.
4. Oct 4 David Dyzenhaus's Legality Model
Req'd reading: David Dyzenhaus, "The State of Emergency in Legal Theory" in Victor Ramraj, Michael Hor, and Kent Roach (eds.) Global Anti-Terrorism Law (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2005), 66-89.
5. Oct 11 No Classes due to Thanksgiving Holiday.
6. Oct 18 Gross's reply Round 1.
Req'd reading: Oren Gross, "Stability and Flexibility: A Dicey Business" in Victor Ramraj, Michael Hor, and Kent Roach (eds.) Global Anti-Terrorism Law (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2005), 90 – 107.
7. Oct 25 Dyzenhaus's Counter Attack
Req'd reading: David Dyzenhaus, "The Compulsion of Legality" in Victor Ramraj ed. Emergencies and the Limits of Legality (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2008), 33 – 59.
8. Nov 1 Gross's reply Round 2
Req'd reading: Oren Gross, "Extra-Legality and the Ethic of Political Responsibility" in Victor Ramraj ed. Emergencies and the Limits of Legality (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2008), 60 - 94.
9. Nov 8 Emergency Logic
Req'd reading: Terry Nardin, "Emergency Logic: prudence, morality, and the rule of law" in Victor Ramraj ed. Emergencies and the Limits of Legality (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2008), 97-117.
10. Nov 15 The Political Constitution
Req'd reading: Mark Tushnet, "The political constitution of emergency powers: some conceptual issues" in Victor Ramraj ed. Emergencies and the Limits of Legality (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2008), 145 - 155.
11. Nov 22 International Emergencies and Jurisdictional Politics
Req'd reading: Kanishka Jayasuriya, "Struggle over legality in the midnight hour: governing the international state of emergency" in Victor Ramraj ed. Emergencies and the Limits of Legality (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2008), 360-384.
12. Nov 29 Legal "Black Holes" in International Law
Req'd reading: C. L. Lim, "Inter arma silent leges? Black hole theories of the laws of war" in Victor Ramraj ed. Emergencies and the Limits of Legality (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2008), 385 – 407.
13. Dec 6 Classes Cancelled.