Academic Accommodations:

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: <http://carleton.ca/equity/>

Religious obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: <http://carleton.ca/equity/>

The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). Requests made within two weeks will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis. After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made.

Please consult the PMC website (www.carleton.ca/pmc) for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable).

You can visit the Equity Services website to view the policies and to obtain more detailed information on academic accommodation at <http://carleton.ca/equity/>

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one's own. Plagiarism includes reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else's published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one's own without proper citation or reference to the original source. Examples of sources from which the ideas, expressions of ideas or works of others may be drawn from include but are not limited to: books, articles, papers, literary compositions and phrases, performance compositions, chemical compounds, art works, laboratory reports, research results, calculations and the results of calculations, diagrams, constructions, computer reports, computer code/software, and material on the Internet. Plagiarism is a serious offence.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: This course will examine the history, structure, and place of correctional law within the Canadian criminal justice system. We will examine primary correctional statutes and legislation. The legal underpinning of major correctional programmes will be established. We will discuss the competing objectives of punishment, incapacitation and rehabilitation in the context of respect for the rule of law and human rights. The protection of the human rights of prisoners will be a primary theme, and we shall consider the role of judicial inquiries (notably the work of Louise Arbour as Commissioner 'Concerning Certain Events at the Prison for Women in Kingston') in protecting these rights. We shall also address the human rights situations concerning correctional staff, and especially with respect to women working in prisons for men. While our primary focus is on Canada, we shall also be considering matters concerning imprisonment and human rights in international and comparative contexts.

This is a seminar course that expects students to participate in informed discussion of the weekly topics. Students should do required readings prior to class.

REQUIRED PURCHASE

FURTHER READING

Additional readings that may be helpful in getting started on your research paper are available on reserve at the library.

Students also should consult the websites of organizations and institutions dealing with prison-related matters. These include CAEFS – Canadian Association of Elizabeth Fry Societies; the John Howard Society; the Correctional Service of Canada; the Ontario Ministry of Correctional Services; the Church Council on Justice; and the Criminalization and Punishment Education Project (with members from Carleton University and the University of Ottawa). Concerning issues in the USA students can consult the website for The Sentencing Project (Marc Mauer). Additional suggestions will be provided in class both by the instructor and the students.

Further readings may be assigned in class. Students are also expected to consult additional academic sources in the course of preparing their research proposals and final assignments. The instructor can provide students with assistance in identifying sources relevant to their topic.

EVALUATION PROCEDURE

6% ATTENDANCE

20% IN-CLASS PRESENTATION: Student presentations - 15 minutes - will be based on individual chapters of Professor Jackson's book; and on articles in the Canadian Journal of Criminology and Criminal Justice, as well as additional sources. The presenting student will then lead a 10 minute class discussion of the topic. The presenter should provide a 1-2 page handout to the Instructor and to classmates.

The presentations will commence with the student providing a brief introduction to themselves and their research interests concerning law, prisons and human rights. The presentation should provide an informative and analytical discussion of the reading/s. The main point/s of the reading/s should be identified. The major strengths and insights of the reading should also be identified. The presenter can also identify any limitations of the reading/s.

The presenter should identify potential research topics arising from the reading/s.

The presenter should identify questions for group discussion (and these should be provided to students on the handout).

The presenter should have a written or typed set of notes to guide their presentation. However simply reading word by word from the notes is strongly discouraged, and may adversely affect the grade given by the Instructor to the presentation.

24% RESEARCH PAPER PROPOSAL (3-4 pages with a 2 page annotated bibliography). Due on February 13, at the beginning of class.

50% FINAL PAPER (15 pages of text, plus a bibliography. In addition to the title page, the paper should include a 'Table of Contents').

The final assignment will be due on Monday April 3, and should be submitted at the final class.

If you wish to have your paper returned to you with comments please provide an S.A.E. (stamped addressed envelope) with adequate postage.

Late assignments will be marked down by one half grade for each day that they are late. A medical certificate or other appropriate documentation will be required to support any request for an extension. Students must complete and hand in all assignments in order to meet the course requirements and to be eligible to pass the course.

It is your responsibility to be present in class and to submit assignments on time.

A hard copy of assignments must be submitted. Assignments are not to be submitted by e-mail.

Always keep a copy of your assignments.

A detailed schedule of individual class topics, and readings, will be available for students.

Out of class the Instructor will communicate with students primarily through cuLearn. Please monitor cuLearn for e-mail communications and postings of course-related information.
