

Carleton University Institute on the Ethics of Research with Indigenous Peoples

Carleton
UNIVERSITY

Canada's Capital University

Carleton University Institute on the Ethics of Research with Indigenous Peoples

Pijashig, Tunngasugit, Tawaw, Welcome to the Carleton University Institute on the Ethics of Research with Indigenous Peoples (CUIERIP).

CUIERIP is a week-long summer institute where Indigenous and non-Indigenous researchers learn about the ethics of research with Indigenous communities, particularly First Nations, Inuit and Métis in Canada. Participants learn in a collaborative environment and are led by Carleton faculty, research ethics professionals, and community-based researchers.

Whether you are a graduate student starting a new project or an experienced researcher who wants to return to the evolving field of Indigenous research ethics, you will leave CUIERIP with new perspectives and skill sets.

For information about registration, featured speakers, dates and funding, please visit www.carleton.ca/indigenousresearchethics/.

Questions regarding CUIERIP can be directed to cuiерip@carleton.ca.

