Course Description

This course is designed to introduce students to ethics and social issues by examining basic concepts of moral philosophy and applying them to concrete problems. We will begin by examining moral frameworks such as consequentialism, utilitarianism, deontology, and feminist ethics. We will evaluate them for their strengths and weaknesses, as well as examine how they employ a variety of argumentative devices and even errors in reasoning. After familiarizing ourselves with these frameworks, we will engage several debates of contemporary, practical relevance, such as legalizing drugs, racial and sexual discrimination, economic justice, and animal rights.
