

"ENTANGLED HISTORIES FROM SEGREGATED ARCHIVES: WRITING A DE-GHETTOIZED HISTORY OF MARRIAGE IN A SOUTH AFRICAN COLONY"

A Talk by Nafisa Essop Sheik

Nafisa Essop Sheik received her PhD in African History from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor in 2012. She is Senior Lecturer in the History Department at the University of Johannesburg, and for 2018/19 she is the Cornell Visiting Professor in History at Swarthmore College. She works on gender, law and nineteenth century British colonialism in South Africa.

Date: Friday, March 15, 2019

Time: 1:00pm – 3:00pm

Venue: 433 Paterson Hall, Carleton University

For more information, please contact the Institute of Interdisciplinary Studies at iis@carleton.ca