Recruitment
1. In the past, NPSIA did not need to invest many resources in recruitment because it held a monopoly for the type of program that it runs. Continuing this	1 As of December 2019, NPSIA added one staff person – a MA Recruitment and Program Administrator -	Assign recruitment tasks to faculty members as part of their administrative responsibilities; update the website to aid recruitment efforts;	NPSIA Associate Directors (MA Program), NPSIA MA Recruitment and Program Administrator.	Hiring of MA Recruitment and Program Administrator was done in December 2019 and work	This has been fully implemented for over 2 years now. We have an Associate Director (MA Admissions and Recruitment) and an MA Administrator	N

strategy is a weakness in our opinion.	to oversee recruitment efforts. The current position of MA Administrator will focus on both admissions and in-program students. The School is currently restructuring its faculty administrative responsibilities to focus more on recruitment. In particular, the current position of Associate Director (MA Program) will be split into two positions: one person will manage in-program students and the other will oversee recruitment and admissions. This latter person will work directly with the MA Recruitment and Program Administrator. Recruitment content will be prioritized on the website, and in collaboration with FPA and FGPA, to see if we can leverage their recruitment activity.	collaborate more closely with FPA and FGPA to leverage their recruitment activity.		commenced in January 2020. We have also advertised the program more systematically on social media. Unfortunately, we've also had a lot of turnover for the PhD administrator position making it more difficult to plan recruitment activities.
3. There is an opportunity to increase the number and quality of its applicant pool by improving NPSIA's web presence and making professional and high-quality use of social media.	1 See above. Note that we are currently in the process of redesigning our website with FPA support.	See above (Recruitment #1)	See above (Recruitment #1)	See above (Recruitment #1)	We have redesigned our website and made better use of social media to promote our academic programs. We have also redesigned the Resource Centre position to that of "Coordinator, Communications and Resource Centre". This coordinator is responsible for our website and social media accounts.	N

4. There may be an opportunity to recruit more foreign students. NPSIA should look at charging higher fees to foreign students (?) and improve efforts to attract foreign applicants. There may be an opportunity to work with Graduate Studies to implement a foreign student fee differential.	2 Ideally, we would like more foreign students than we currently admit because of the nature of our programs and in fact receive a number of applications from foreign students every year. However, our MA program is already close to, and in some areas in excess of, capacity, due to very strong interest from domestic applicants, and foreign students do not count towards our yearly targets from FGPA. We cannot maintain program standards while adding a significant number of foreign students given our current faculty size. We have also not been able to exert any influence on fees in the past. Finally, we see little value or fairness in attracting international students without ensuring that they have				This remains a problem tied to funding and there is not much we can do unless there is more funding for international students.	N adequate financial support.

5. We see an opportunity to coordinate with the application process for SPPA masters' students.	4 We see little value in additional application or recruitment coordination with SPPA. We would be happy to discuss specific suggestions further but cannot think of any initiatives that would be of mutual benefit.					N
Funding
6. The financial assistance for students will be an ongoing challenge and opportunity for NPSIA as they continue to face increased competition from new and well-funded competing programs at other universities. Although the top MA students are well financed, the same is not true for PhD students. PhD students in the program	2 The funding issue for MA students will remain a challenge as some of our competitors continue to aggressively recruit students. We have initiated discussions with FGPA about a co-op option for the PhD program, and would like to move	Continue discussions with FGPA regarding implementing a co-op option for PhD students; Implement changes to program requirements to help shorten time-to-completion. By the end of Winter term 2020 we hope to have	Our MA students are receiving more competitive funding packages, thanks to the support of FGPA. We agree that students would benefit from increased financial support, but we are restricted in our financing budget and would require additional resources. We have already implemented several changes to the PhD program and procedures to speed up completion.			concluded discussions with FGPA regarding a co-op option in our PhD program, with implementation beginning 2021-22.	faster. Faculty are also doing their best to fund PhD students from their own research grants. However, appropriate funding remains a challenge for PhD students.
7. The primary concern expressed by students involves funding levels for PhD students. Current funding levels place PhD students below the Canadian poverty line, which is why many students leave the program.	2 As above. Funding levels are determined by the university and while faculty do their best to supplement graduate funding with their own research grants, there are no guarantees. A co-op option in the PhD program will help with both recruitment and funding, as will quicker completion.	See above (Funding #6)	See above (Funding #6)	See above (Funding #6)	See under #6 immediately above. More and more PhD students are graduating from the program regularly and fewer are leaving the program because of funding issues.	Y

8. There is an opportunity to improve communications on this front and possibly hold additional information sessions about funding options to make sure that students are aware of different opportunities.	1 The PhD program administrator (we are currently seeking a replacement for this position) will have communications duties that include identifying funding opportunities. It should be noted that this person is also our website administrator, that is her role consists of administering the PhD program and our website.	Ensure that the PhD program administrator assembles funding information and communicates it to PhD students.	NPSIA Associate Director (PhD Program); PhD program administrator.	To start as soon as a new PhD program administrator is hired.	We have changed our administrative structure so that the PhD Administrator position no longer includes website administration for the School. We are in the process of recruiting a full-time PhD Administrator, after more than one year of casual employees in that role.	N
University Structure
9. The university has an opportunity to provide better administrative support to NPSIA to improve its web presence, program promotion, and related events.	2 As discussed above, staff positions have been restructured to emphasize recruitment, website, and communications.	See above (Recruitment #1)	See above (Recruitment #1)	To start January 2020 and continue as new staff are hired.	As mentioned under #1, We have also reorganized our administrative structure and recruited a “Coordinator: Communications and Resource Centre”, who started in mid-August 2022. This person is responsible for our website and social media.	N

10. Some of the challenges for achieving proper resource allocations stem from university structures. For example, our understanding is that resource allocations come from line faculty while enrollment targets are set by the Dean of Graduate Studies. There is an opportunity for these decisions to be taken in an integrated fashion.	1 It would be useful to integrate discussions with FPA and FGPA regarding resourcing and enrolment targets.	Initiate discussions with Dean FGPA and Dean FPA on resources and enrolment targets	NPSIA Director	Winter 2020	We have not addressed this issue with FPA and FGPA and the recommendation is unclear. Our enrolment targets and funding envelope both come from FGPA. Other decisions such as faculty hiring is from FPA but the justification has at least recently been made in terms of enrolment numbers. It's not clear what else can be done on this issue.	N
11. There is a real opportunity to develop a public engagement strategy and determine how it fits within the broader university.	1 NPSIA's staff restructuring (see above) will provide an opportunity to enhance communications and public engagement. It will be useful to embed this strategy within the context of FPA and University strategies for communication and engagement.	Consult with FPA media specialist and Department of University Communications to enhance NPSIA's public engagement efforts.	NPSIA Director, NPSIA administrative staff	Efforts for communications and engagement to start with new staff appointments as of January 2020. Discussions with higher levels of the university to be determined.	As discussed, we have reorganized our administrative staff positions in addition to creating a new position of Associate Director (Admissions and Recruitment). We have also redesigned our website with FPA's support.	N

12. FPA has an annual award for public engagement, but we see an opportunity for Carleton University to develop additional strategies to reward this important behavior.	3 We believe that NPSIA has done reasonably well balancing the teaching, scholarship, administrative and public engagement dimensions of our work, especially with recent hires. We agree that public engagement can be encouraged further by ensuring it is properly reflected in our promotion and tenure guidelines. Other efforts will require FPA and CU involvement. With staff restructuring we will revisit the website strategy and emphasize it as part of staff responsibilities for the person that will be recruited as our PhD and Website Administrator (see above). We will discuss the regulatory constraints with FPA.	Examine NPSIA unit standards for tenure and promotion regarding public engagement; Initiate discussion with Dean FPA on ways to reward public engagement.	NPSIA Tenure and Promotion Committee; NPSIA Board; NPSIA Director	Unit tenure and promotion standards to be reviewed Winter 2020; begin discussions with Dean on this issue in July 2020.	Our revised unit tenure and promotion standards include “public outreach” under “service to the university”. One of our faculty members recently won a Public Commentary Award from FPA.	N
--	---	--	--	--	---	----------

13. We are concerned that NPSIA has not been allowed by higher level units to change their website template (unlike other FPA departments), something that is easily remedied. Administrative staff and time should be dedicated to improving web presence and effectively employing social media. This will require new resources and/or reallocation of current resources.	2 See above (Recruitment #1).	See above (Recruitment #1).	See above (Recruitment #1).	See above (Recruitment #1).	See under #1. We have redesigned our website with FPA's support. Our new "Coordinator: Communications and Resource Centre" started in mid-August.	N
Program- Structure & Delivery
14. There was not a lot of evidence that NPSIA has fully embraced the Learning Outcomes approach, which is a concern.	1 The University has only recently been promoting its Learning Outcomes approach as a top down exercise associated with the QA process. The NPSIA learning outcomes were also only recently developed for this program review exercise. Such a process takes time.	All of our course outlines now include learning outcomes that reflect those that were included in Volume I of the cyclical program review workbook. This is a process that faculty have adopted for a few years already, and will now be more focused given program learning outcomes developed as part of the review process. NPSIA will reinforce the	NPSIA (with OVPAVPA); EDC support)	Fall 2020	All course outlines are reviewed by the Director to ensure that learning outcomes are clearly identified. We have also organized teaching workshop for faculty and contract instructors at least once every semester to share our teaching experience. 15. International students may not have the same access to some internships and co-op positions (especially for MA students) (Concern).	1 We recognize that there are work restrictions placed on international students that limit co-op opportunities.	Continue to work with the Co-op office to identify opportunities for international students; Assign staff the responsibility of alumni relations to encourage our network of graduates and their contacts to build the demand for such placements.	Associate Director (MA Program)	Fall 2020	The issue of co-ops for international students is an ongoing conversation that we've had with the co-op office. Our new "Coordinator: Communications and Resource Centre" will be responsible for alumni relations. We have also organized speaking events where our graduates have spoken to in-program students about career options.	N
16. Students noted that the school needs a better process for allowing students to skip required classes if they have prior coursework in the area (Concern).	4 This matter has been discussed already and it was determined that the evaluation process would be too complex, and that students who had prior coursework would be able to practice their skills. In addition, we felt that					N not allowing advanced standing credits would build up a sense of community. Finally, we found that despite having previous courses done in an area, the acquired skills were often weak, there had been little application of these skills, and they were not used in the context of international affairs.

17. Faculty noted that the co-op is run without much faculty input, which we see as a concern .	1 We are already revisiting the co-op framework, including a revised co-op report grading structure, and the implementation of a regular review of lessons from the co-op reports.	Continue to assess the co-op framework, co-op report grading structure, and review.	NPSIA Curriculum Committee	Review to commence in Winter 2020 with new procedures by Spring 2020.	A simpler and more efficient system has been established to ensure co-op reports are graded by faculty based on fields of specialization. Issues of importance to the Associate Director (MA Program) are flagged in those reports and then reviewed by them.	N
18. There is an opportunity to use the launch of the new Diplomacy and Foreign Policy area as a focal point for graduate recruitment.	3 As part of a new recruitment strategy all options, including new programs, will be considered to enhance	See above actions regarding recruitment.	See above	See above	The new Diplomacy and Foreign Policy field, anchored by a new faculty hire a few years ago, has proven to be quite popular among recent	N

19. NPSIA has an opportunity to leverage its large alumni base to increase its endowment through fundraising.	3 CU policy is seen as discouraging unilateral fundraising efforts by units, as the Development Office coordinates and controls access to the alumni database. However, we are willing to work with the Development Office to identify opportunities for the School's involvement in fundraising activities.	Initiate discussions with the Development Office to identify fundraising opportunities.	NPSIA Director	Winter 2020	Most of this has happened through the Department of University Advancement and we have provided assistance where needed.	N
20. There is an opportunity to consider offering more online and evening classes to better accommodate students working many hours while on co-op.	2 NPSIA has shifted some classes to the evening in light of registration patterns. We will continue to monitor and review this situation and will consider polling students regarding demand for evening	Survey students to assess demand for evening classes. N

	classes. We have discussed internally options for online courses, but these are resource intensive at the start-up phase, and we require resources and support to pursue this option.				Our internal surveys indicate that students want flexibility, and would welcome a few online courses on a regular basis.
21. Another concern is the costs that the university charges units to run events (e.g. paying for conference rooms). Some faculty host events at the University of Ottawa because it is cheaper, and this is obviously a concern because this provides fewer on-campus events for students to take advantage of.	3 We agree in principle with this comment. We know FPA has attempted to facilitate some events and absorbed room cost, but it is still prohibitive. We have no resources or authority to go further.	Seek financial support from FPA Dean to host NPSIA-run events at Carleton.	NPSIA Director	As needed.	There is not much we can do about this. Ultimately, the University must be able to offer competitive rates (or provide subsidies) towards the costs of events. FPA and others on campus have sometimes supported us financially but we also understand that it's not always possible to do so.	N
22. There is only one coordinator to advise all MA students and students cannot get timely responses from the coordinator and staff. We agree that the lack of email response is a	1 The MA program administrative duties have already been restructured to hopefully permit the staff and faculty involved in the program	Ensure dedicated administrative support to address in-program student concerns. weakness that must be addressed.	to be able to focus on students. In particular, one MA administrator will focus on in-program students while another will look after recruitment and prospective students.
23. Students raised a weakness about language training and the difficulty in getting access to seats in advanced language classes in other departments.	2 We agree that language training is important, and we need to support students in this process. We need additional resources to either provide classes specifically for NPSIA students, or the University must direct the language department to facilitate language training for our students.	Discuss language class delivery options with Dean FPA.	NPSIA Director	Winter 2020	This is an ongoing issue over which we do not have a lot of control. Our language coordinator has been in contact with other units on campus who have done their best to accommodate our students. We have also introduced a Rosetta Stone option for our students to complete the language requirement (in either French, German, Italian or Spanish).	N
24. Weakness in the scheduling of co-op placements, which is sometimes at odds with students' interests in placements that build experience with international issues.	2 We recognize many NPSIA co-op placements are with the government of Canada departments that do not focus exclusively on international issues.	NPSIA will begin discussions with the co-op office to explore the possibility of other 'non-governmental' placements with an international focus.	Associate Director (MA Program)	Winter/Spring 2020	Ongoing conversation with co-op office.	N

	These opportunities are greater than those in the private sector, NGOs and internationally. But that's largely a result of our location in Ottawa, which gives us a real advantage with respect to opportunities in government.
Program- MA
25. Masters students would like to see better flexibility for taking classes when doing co-op. The co-op policy is that students can't take classes during working hours, but that doesn't accord with the School's policy for course enrollment (concern).	4 It is unclear to us what "doesn't accord with the School's policy for course enrollment" means. The co-op office expects students to fulfil their co-op duties during normal working hours, and so do we. Students can then take courses in the evening. As noted above we will make an effort to offer sufficient evening courses.					N
26. Some students view the thesis option for the MA as problematic because it	4 It is not true that the MA thesis takes as long	Improve communication with MA students regarding	Associate Director (MA Program)	Winter 2020	We have been clearly communicating information about the MA thesis through	N

takes as long as the PhD (concern).	as the PhD thesis. An MA thesis may take up to three semesters (one year) to complete while the PhD thesis takes a few years. This seems to be a communication issue which we can resolve by providing better information to students. It is a generally inaccurate perception. The MA thesis is demanding but certainly doable.	the expectations for the MA thesis option.			program completion workshops.
27. Students argued that the MA Program is understaffed (concern).	1 As discussed above, we have reorganized our administrative positions (staff and faculty) and redefined the job descriptions for the various positions (existing and new). We expect understaffing to be less of a problem as a result.	See above (Recruitment #1).	See above (Recruitment #1).	See above (Recruitment #1).	We have reorganized our administrative staff and this issue has now been addressed.	N
28. One concern with the increasing size of the MA program is that compulsory classes have all students from the cohort (140-150 students). NPSIA may have	2 NPSIA has attempted to run the program as efficiently as possible, but the recent	Discuss with Dean of FPA the possibility of additional teaching resources for the MA core courses. to consider splitting some of the core classes into more than one section.	expansion is making the current model more problematic. We will discuss with FPA the possibility of new resources to split the core classes. This is an issue that we've already started discussing at the curriculum committee level. For example, one possibility would be to offer an additional (more advanced) statistics course in addition to the core one so that students can choose one of the two. Another option is to offer the same statistics course (0.5 credit) twice. In the case of the 0.25 credit courses (for which instructors get 0.5 teaching credit), they could be offered twice.				of 2022-23, there will be a mix of mostly in-person and a few online tutorials. Curriculum committee continues to explore course delivery options for statistics.	offered (e.g. an advanced statistics course)
29. We need to identify other specific areas of concern.				issue of additional co-op placements, especially non-governmental ones. However, our location in the nation's capital means that most of our placements are with the Federal Government.
Program Specific - MA/JD
30. A weakness of the MA/JD program is the complicated structure and the difficulty in attracting students.	4 The MA/JD program structure was revised significantly a few years ago to make it less complicated for the students to navigate. Meetings between program administrators and in-program students are held when students start the program at Ottawa U to answer all their questions. The number of students admitted into that program has remained fairly steady	NPSIA will continue to ensure that students are given the necessary information, both on the website, and in person.	Associate Director (MA Program); MA Program Administrators	Winter 2020 and ongoing	We plan to make more effort to recruit students into the MA/JD program, which has been considerably streamlined.	N

31. There are concerns about the MA/JD joint degree program in terms of course scheduling and the lack of knowledgeable advisors to assist students.	2 As discussed immediately above, both Schools – NPSIA and Ottawa U Law School - have made a lot of effort to ensure that students are properly advised. The same applies to course scheduling despite the complicated nature of the JD program when students have to take courses on exchange in their 3rd and 4th year.	NPSIA in consultation with current students and the Law School will continue to examine whether course scheduling can be improved and how – it is not clear whether this is a significant issue, but we can certainly look into it.	Associate Director (MA Program); MA Program Administrator	Winter 2020 and ongoing	Course scheduling has not been an issue recently. We also meet with the MA/JD students at the Ottawa U Law School in their first year to ensure that they are doing what's necessary to start their 2nd year at NPSIA.	N
32. We also see an opportunity to engage with current MA/JD students and recent graduates of the program to establish what is working and what is not working. We recommend that NPSIA leaders set up a series of meetings with Ottawa Law and do a big push on coordination on the small issues that remain, especially as NPSIA now has a second international law person on faculty.	1 NPSIA can certainly continue to meet with current MA/JD students and coordinate with the Ottawa U Law School to coordinate on issues that need to be addressed	Meet with current MA/JD students to determine program concerns; Meet with U of O counterparts to address concerns	Associate Director (MA Program); MA Program Administrator	Winter 2020 and ongoing	See under #31. We are meeting with MA/JD students before they begin at NPSIA, as well as U of O counterparts to address concerns.	N

33. Carleton and the University of Ottawa have an opportunity to work on recruitment and retention in the MA/JD. Remaining challenges to work out include the language requirement (and the French Law program) and funding issues that still arise as students try to navigate a law degree and an MA at NPSIA. This is an opportunity and may require a focused approach and close collaboration with University of Ottawa law.	2 As discussed earlier, recruitment will now be the responsibility of a dedicated administrative staff member in coordination with a NPSIA faculty member. While retention has not been a serious concern for the MA/JD program, we will continue to assist students who are admitted into the joint program. The language requirement and funding need resources (discussed earlier) while the French Law program is ultimately the responsibility of the Ottawa U Law School. It should be pointed out that the main concern of MA/JD students with funding arises from the lack of funding in law school (and relatively high fees), something that NPSIA and Carleton University cannot	See above (Recruitment #1).	See above (Recruitment #1).	See above (Recruitment #1).	As discussed, we are focusing more resources on recruitment, and this will include efforts to recruit students into the MA/JD program.	N

Program- PhD
34. Many NPSIA faculty have serious concerns about the PhD program. They discussed the problem with students not finishing the program in a timely fashion. Students' goals for working in the government after graduation also generated discussions about what value is added by getting a PhD.	1 As addressed in point 6 above, NPSIA is currently revising the PhD program and regulations to speed up the time to completion. We will also explore a new master's option that is research intensive and that might be a more appealing option for those not interested in a PhD, and examine co-op options.	See above (Funding #6).	See above (Funding #6).	See above (Funding #6).	The PhD program has been streamlined to help students complete the program faster. In fact, we are seeing more and more students graduate from the program every year. The research intensive master's option continues to be discussed by NPSIA's curriculum committee.	See above (Funding #6).
35. PhD completion rates are a serious weakness that must be addressed. Of the 4 students admitted in 2006, for example, only 1 student completed the PhD (in 9 years). To date, only 9 students out of 56 admitted	3 This observation about completion times is based on older data for the study period. It is also not accurate that all the students have taken 9 years or longer	See above (Funding #6).	See above (Funding #6).	See above (Funding #6).	As mentioned already, more PhD students are now graduating from the program regularly.	See above (Funding #6).

students have completed the PhD program and all of them have taken 9 years or longer. NPSIA's self-assessment recognizes that time to completion is a concern.	to complete the program. More recent data indicate a significant improvement in retention and completion times. We do agree this remains an issue, however, and have taken several program and policy changes to address these deficiencies.
36. There is an opportunity to help students interested in a PhD get the quantitative training necessary for success.	2 The PhD program already emphasizes quantitative and other methodological training. We are exploring further changes, but these may require additional resources.	Assess the options to provide supplemental empirical training for PhD students.	Associate Director (PhD Program)	Ongoing	Doctoral students are getting adequate quantitative training and quite a few are using a quantitative approach in their theses.	Possibly
