Course Overview

What is the right thing to do? How ought we live? This course will explore global issues (development, justice, war, migration, peace, climate change,) from the perspective of Global Ethics. We will analyze theories and theorists that have attempted to provide guidance regarding how we might answer these ethical challenges. This course will prepare you to navigate difficult global challenges while being able to critically assess diverse positions and articulate your own.

Learning Outcomes

- Understand what Global Ethics are and how they relate to contemporary issues
- Explain the key ideas of ethical traditions and their leading theorists
- Apply ethical approaches to contemporary global issues
- Examine contemporary debates and identify ethical theories in them
- Critically assess diverse positions and articulate your own

Structure

The course will consist of a combination of online lectures and online tutorial groups. There will be two lectures per week, booked into your calendar for Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:35-11:25. While these lectures will be delivered as recorded modules and can be viewed at any time once they are posted, it is recommended that you use the set lecture slots for viewing them as a device for maintaining structure and rhythm in your studies. Tutorials will take place through 'live' online tutorials and will be held once a week per the topic schedule below.

Ethics is a class that is ideally taught in an interactive manner, which creates some challenges in the current COVID-19 environment. While the optimal approach would be to run the lectures as interactive sessions, this is not logistically feasible with the current technology. Rather than relying on face-to-face interaction for the lecture component, a series of 'loops' will be set up where findings from the tutorials are reported back to the course director, who in turn will report back to the wider class and use these findings as the basis for starting ongoing dialogues through a mobile platform, most likely a WhatsApp discussion group restricted to class members.

In order to facilitate an active approach to learning in the tutorials the course will make use of case studies and simulations that will not only require your active involvement during the class, but prior preparation and planning as individuals and as groups. The results of these tutorial sessions will be reported back to the course instructor by the tutors and used to guide a reflective component of the lecture program. Further details on the tasks for specific tutorials will be posted on the course CULearn page.

Ethics is ideally a highly interactive subject. Completing the "Reflective TO Exercises" in the course textbook before class and tutorials will help prepare you to engage in the conversations. Tutorials will be held once per week, led by your respective TA. The exercises in the tutorials will not work if you do not do the necessary preparatory work.

Course Support

The instructor and the TAs are eager to help you with any questions, challenges and problems you encounter with the course. Due to COVID-19 face-to-face office hours are currently ill advised and so consultations will be by zoom or phone. Office hours are recorded on the course outline in order to give you a planning slot for making appointments. If you are unavailable at these times, contact the course instructor or your tutor to make alternate arrangements. It is highly recommended that you take advantage of these supports that are available to you. Do recognize that there are many students in this course, and that your instructor and TA have other responsibilities. We will do our best to reply promptly, but do not expect an instant reply.

NOTE: The instructor and the TAs will not be available for 48 hours before assignment due dates. Emails sent during these time periods will not be responded to. Emails will not be answered on Saturday or Sunday.

Required Readings

The course textbook is Global Ethics: An Introduction, 2nd Edition (2018) by Kimberly Hutchings, published by Polity Press in 2018. It is available through multiple sources, including the University Bookstore, Haven Books, and various online retailers.

You will also be required to purchase series of case studies for the tutorial sections. These documents cost about USD4.00 each and are required for participating in tutorials. Details on where to acquire the case studies will be posted on the course CULearn page and will be announced in class.

Readings in this class present challenging, complex issues. Understanding the content often requires grappling with the ways in which our own choices are connected to the violence inflicted upon others. The readings presented in this course are only the beginning – the issues are much deeper and opinions about them much more diverse. The objective of the readings is to present some positions about the challenges encountered. I hope that you find the reading informative, interesting and thought-provoking. Your instructor and TA are more than willing to point you toward additional reading material, if you are interested to seek out additional reading material on any of the topics presented in the course.

Evaluation

All assignments are to be submitted electronically through the course CULearn page. Late assignments will incur a penalty of 5% per day or portion thereof. Assignments will not be graded if they are more than ten days overdue. The tutors do not have the authority to grant extensions; only the course instructor can grant an extension and this will only be done under exceptional, documented circumstances. Planning the use of your time and meeting known advance deadlines is a crucial professional skill to develop at university.

Assessment of the course has been restructured to encourage a sustained process of engagement and discussion. Rather than relying on traditional exams and essays, the course requires completion of a series of practice-oriented written assignments. Chief amongst these is the 'briefing memorandum', a style of writing that is central to the policy process as well as work in other related fields such as business and media. Completion of the briefing memorandum will allow you to reflect upon the chosen issues and demonstrate fluency in your understanding of course material while simultaneously developing a key applied skill for your professional life. The assignment has been structured so that you can 'specialize' on subcomponents within this survey course. Detailed terms of reference and guidance documents on writing a briefing memorandum will be posted on the course CULearn page. The briefing memos are approximately 1,000 words in length (three pages in total -- two pages single spaced with a one page cover).

The examination essay will require you to apply the theories and lessons of the course to answer one of a set of questions set in the context of a specific documentary, the details of which will be announced in class and posted on the course CULearn page. You will have the entire semester to work on this assignment. The essay will be due at the end of the April examination period.

The written word is a fundamental aspect of social sciences and public policy, which are the areas in which the approach to this course fits. A central part of your assessment will consequently be the effectiveness of your skill as a written communicator. You should consequently ensure that you give yourself plenty of time to engage in proofreading and revision of your prose. Ideas and principles for honing your writing will be posted on the course CULearn page.

Course assignments	Percent of final grade
Tutorial Participation	10%
Briefing Memorandum 1 (Based on Weeks 2 & 3; due Feb 12th)	20%
Briefing Memorandum 2 (Based on Week 4 or 5; due March 12th)	20%
Briefing Memorandum 3 (Based on Week 6, 7 or 9; due April 5th)	20%
Documentary Movie Examination Essay (due April 27th)	30%

Specific terms of reference for the individual assignments will be posted on the course CULearn page.

All assignments must be submitted through the course CULearn portal in MSWord or .rtf format.

Bonus marks:

Complete the online multiple-choice tests with an average of at least 75% and earn a bonus of 2% on your final overall grade

Tutorial attendance and participation are mandatory. If you must miss a tutorial, advance notice must be provided to your TA. Additional detail is provided regarding academic accommodations below the weekly course reading schedule. A high participation grade (in the 'A' range) will reflect a well-informed, thoughtful and respectful student engagement, throughout the majority of tutorial sessions.

Academic Accommodations: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-5206608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable).

Accommodation for Religious Observance: Students requesting accommodation for religious observances should apply in writing to their instructor for alternate dates and/or means of satisfying academic requirements. Such requests should be made during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist, but no later than two weeks before the compulsory academic event. Accommodation is to be worked out directly and on an individual basis between the student and the instructor(s) involved. Instructors will make accommodations in a way that avoids academic disadvantage to the student. Instructors and students may contact an Equity Services Advisor for assistance (www.carleton.ca/equity).

Accommodation for Pregnancy: Pregnant students requiring academic accommodations are encouraged to contact an Equity Advisor in Equity Services to complete a letter of accommodation. Then, make an appointment to discuss your needs with the instructor at least two weeks prior to the first academic event in which it is anticipated the accommodation will be required.

Survivors of Sexual Violence: As a community, Carleton University is committed to maintaining a positive learning, working and living environment where sexual violence will not be tolerated, and where survivors are supported through academic accommodations as per Carleton's Sexual Violence Policy. For more information about the services available at the university and to obtain information about sexual violence and/or support, visit carleton.ca/sexual-violencesupport.

Accommodation for Student Activities: Carleton University recognizes the substantial benefits, both to the individual student and for the university, that result from a student participating in activities beyond the classroom experience. Reasonable accommodation must be provided to students who compete or perform at the national or international level. Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details, see the policy.

Plagiarism: The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They may include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of "F" for the course.

Intellectual Property: Student or professor materials created for this course (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the author(s). They are intended for personal use and may not be reproduced or redistributed without prior written consent of the author(s).

Submission and Return of Term Work: Papers must be submitted in electronic format (MS Word format) through the course CULearn page. Late assignments will incur a penalty of 5% per day or portion thereof. Assignments will not be graded if they are more than ten days overdue. The tutors do not have the authority to grant extensions; only the course instructor can grant an extension and this will only be done under exceptional, documented circumstances. The final exam essay is intended solely for the purpose of evaluation and will not be returned.

Grading: Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor, subject to the approval of the faculty Dean. Final standing in courses will be shown by alphabetical grades. The system of grades used, with corresponding grade points is:

Percentage	Letter grade	12-point scale	Percentage	Letter grade	12-point scale
90-100	A+	12	67-69	C+	6
85-89	A	11	63-66	C	5
80-84	A-	10	60-62	C-	4
77-79	B+	9	57-59	D+	3
73-76	B	8	53-56	D	2
70-72	B-	7	50-52	D-	1

Approval of grades: If you wish to appeal the grade given to your assignment by your tutor, you must submit a letter to the instructor clearly outlining why you feel the grade should be changed. The assignment will be remarked by the instructor, which carries the possibility that the grade may go down if the tutor is judged to have been too lenient. Final standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by an instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Carleton E-mail Accounts: All email communication to students from BGIInS will be via official Carleton university e-mail accounts and/or cuLearn. As important course and University information is distributed this way, it is the student's responsibility to monitor their Carleton and cuLearn accounts.

Official Course Outline: The course outline posted to the BGIInS website is the official course outline.
