

Academic Unit:	Arthur Kroeger College of Public Affairs
Field of Specialization:	Global and International Studies
Rank/Position Title:	Visiting Professor
Start Date:	September 1, 2018 or January 1, 2019
Closing Date:	Consideration of complete applications will begin on February 15, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

About the Position:

The Bachelor of Global and International Studies (BGInS) program at Carleton University invites applications for a Visiting Professor position for a semester-length appointment to be taken during the 2018-19 academic year, either in the Fall (September to December 2018) or Winter (January to April 2019) semester. The program is interested in a candidate who is working on a project of global and international significance that is linked to at least one of its seventeen specializations. Regional expertise is open; however, we are particularly interested in applicants who can demonstrate expertise in the Middle East or East Asia. The successful candidate is expected to be in residence in Ottawa, Canada during the semester of the appointment. The appointment will involve delivering one public lecture, teaching one fourth-year honours seminar in an area of global concern, and general participation in the BGInS intellectual community. The award is for $30,000 CAN.

About the Academic Unit:

Launched in 2015, the BGInS program is an interdisciplinary program jointly sponsored by the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences and the Faculty of Public Affairs. It is housed administratively in the Arthur Kroeger College of Public Affairs. Over 120 Carleton faculty members, from 19 different academic units, are affiliated with the program. The BGInS program is unique in Canada in that it offers students and faculty a comprehensive multi- and inter-disciplinary space for teaching, learning, research and policy engagement on issues related to globalization in our contemporary period. For more information on BGInS, please consult the program website: <https://carleton.ca/bgins/>.

Qualifications:

The position is an Open-rank position. Applicants should demonstrate a strong teaching and research record and have a Ph.D. in hand at the time of application.

Application Instructions:

Applications should be sent electronically in one PDF file and should include a cover letter, a full curriculum vitae, and a short description of the proposed honours seminar. Applications should also include a list of three confidential referees. Applications should be sent to the attention of Professor Chris Brown, Program Director, Bachelor of Global and International Studies. Please submit applications via email to jenelle.williams@carleton.ca. Consideration of complete applications will begin on February 15, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.
