Introduction
Telling the Carleton story in a clear, consistent and compelling way

Carleton University was founded in 1942 to serve the community and educate returning Second World War veterans. In the years since, Carleton has grown into one of the most resourceful and productive hubs of learning and growth. Consistently ranked as one of the best comprehensive universities in the country, Carleton is a research-intensive school with exciting programs and a strong community of more than 35,000 staff, faculty, and students.

While members of our community know of Carleton’s great achievements, there are many who are unfamiliar with all the exciting things happening here. To ensure Carleton creates and maintains a strong profile and reputation with key audiences, we must tell our story clearly, consistently and in a compelling way. We must be bold in highlighting our achievements and stay true to our values.

This document provides guidance on how to tell and reflect the Carleton story in an authentic and engaging way. Through the use of consistent visuals and language, we will build brand equity and solidify a strong reputation for Carleton.

Just as Carleton has changed over the years, the Carleton brand will continue to evolve. Over time, these guidelines will be updated to reflect that.
Brand
What is a brand?

Simply put, a brand is how people feel about an organization or institution. It is the sum of knowledge and experiences somebody has that determines the place Carleton holds in their mind.

The guidelines in this brand guide are intended to create a shared understanding of exactly what the Carleton brand is, and protect our brand equity.
BRAND GUIDELINES

This is the vision from Carleton’s Strategic Integrated Plan that the brand must support.

Carleton University will leverage the power of higher education to be a force for good.

PROMISE

A brand promise communicates what others can expect to experience when they engage with us.

To be a smart, caring community that inspires and empowers change leaders to positively impact our world.

We will create change we are proud of.

Our brand personality informs how we look, sound, and behave. Consider the following personality traits we try to demonstrate in communications for Carleton.

Smart
INSIGHTFUL | RESOURCEFUL | EFFECTIVE

Compassionate
GENEROUS | EMPATHETIC | INCLUSIVE

Down to earth
HONEST | AUTHENTIC | ACCESSIBLE

Dynamic
ACTIVE | ENGAGING | VIBRANT
Brand → Tone-of-voice

An important part of how we present Carleton to the world is through the language that we use. Everything we say should reflect our brand and feel like it’s coming from the same place. The following tone of voice characteristics describe how Carleton sounds when it speaks — both in writing and aloud.

Confident & engaged

At Carleton, there are a lot of exciting things happening that are positioning us to lead purposeful change. We shouldn’t shy away from proudly sharing these stories with our audiences.

Warm & welcoming

A defining part of Carleton is the strong community of staff, faculty, and students. We are a welcoming place where people from different backgrounds can feel at home. How we speak must reflect this.

Hopeful & inspiring

There are great challenges in the world and we will inspire and develop solutions that will contribute to meaningful change. As a place that’s tackling today’s tough problems, Carleton can be a beacon of meaningful change. How we communicate should inspire others to join us in making an impact.

Clear & accessible

Carleton is committed to becoming the most accessible university in Canada — that includes our communications. To have our messages be as accessible as possible to all audiences, we must use language that is clear, concise and easily understood wherever possible.
Our visual identity is composed of all the most visible parts of the Carleton brand. Our logo, typography, colours, photography and graphic elements all work together to create the visual expression of our brand.
Logo

Our logo is often the first touchpoint people have with our brand and it appears on most of our communications. It is a primary visual representation of the university — a visual cue that embodies the story of who we are, where we came from, what we do and why we do it.
Logo → University

Carleton’s logo has evolved during the university’s rich history. The current version of the university logo provides a contemporary, streamlined look that encapsulates our brand personality — accessible, authentic, honest, inclusive, active and vibrant — while honouring our past by incorporating traditional symbols, colours and elements appearing in previous versions.

Wordmark and Name

Our logo’s text uses the font Roboto Slab. Modern, bold and reflective of the gravitas of a university, the serif face provides a distinct wordmark for Carleton.

Maple Leaf

Appearing in a vibrant red, this traditional nod to the Canadian flag ties Carleton to our nation’s capital.

Shield

This shield shape represents tradition and strength — it has been modernized to provide a bold, sleek look.

Waves

This pattern symbolizes the pages of a book and the knowledge it contains, alludes to the waterways that border our campus, and suggests the wings of a raven. Its shape signifies vibrant, forward momentum.
Logo → Horizontal format

This is the preferred version of the university logo and is to be used wherever possible. Full colour is preferred as red is such a powerful component of our identity. The single colour versions should only be used when full colour is not an option.
Logo ➔ Vertical format

The vertical stacked version can be used if the horizontal version doesn’t fit well or if the layout calls for a symmetrical look. Full colour is preferred as red is such a powerful component of our identity. The single colour versions should only be used when full colour is not an option.
BRAND GUIDELINES

Introduction / Brand / Visual identity / Typography / Colours / Photography / Graphic elements / Sprott brand / Ravens brand

Logo → Clear space and minimum size

The following guidelines apply to all versions of the logo, including faculty, department, school, program, partner and co-branding lock-ups (the combination of logo and words, such as department name, to create a unified graphic).

CLEAR SPACE

To ensure our logo is visible, it is important to maintain a clear space around the logo. Place the logo on an uncluttered background away from any other graphic element. This clear space is defined by the width of the shield in the logo and extends from the furthest edge in each direction.

DOWNLOAD LOGOS

Click this link to find and download print and digital versions of the logo.

MINIMUM SIZE

To ensure it is easy to read and recognize, the logo should not be applied smaller than the widths shown here. In logo lock-ups, these measurements apply to the Carleton wordmark and shield portion of the lock-up.

FOR SMALL DIGITAL EXECUTIONS

When the logo is being used in a digital execution that is small enough to pixelate the keyline, use this logo.

---

Print:
- 1.5" minimum width
- 1" minimum width

Digital:
- 108 px minimum width
- 78 px minimum width

---

Digital:
- 108 px minimum width for 1 px keyline
Logo Placement

Consistent use and placement of our logo helps reinforce the brand and make it immediately recognizable. In most applications, the logos should be placed at the bottom. This applies to all lock-up versions of the logo.

The exception is digital applications that involve scrolling. In this case, the logo should be placed at the top of the layout instead.
Logo → Improper usage
The integrity of the logo is critically important. The following are examples of what not to do with the Carleton logo in any of its formats.

- Do not rearrange logo elements
- Do not distort or stretch the logo
- Do not rotate the logo
- Do not embellish or add effects
- Do not alter the logo colours
- Do not place over busy backgrounds
Logo ➔ Templates for common usage scenarios

We have developed several user friendly templates for on-brand presentation of our overall visual identity, including social media, PowerPoint, reports and pull-up banners to name a few.

You can find these templates at carleton.ca/brand
Logo → Logo lock-up system

Faculties, departments, schools, programs and other units can use logo lock-ups when they need to designate or promote their unit.

In the case of a name that is 10 characters or fewer, use the larger font size as shown in the one-word name example.

Logo → Non-academic

Non-academic logo lock-ups can be used for non-academic offices or services in some cases, but use of the Carleton University logo on its own is preferred. Unit designations can be used elsewhere, such as in email signatures (see page 55).

- Multiple formats are available
- Use the version needed to provide the right context for your audience
- Use the horizontal lock-up whenever possible
- Follow all logo usage guidelines
- The preferred logo for non-academic communications is the Carleton-only logo and "custom" logos are not to be used
Logo → Co-branding, sponsorships and partnerships

When the Carleton logo appears alongside other logos to indicate co-branding, sponsorship or partnership arrangements, or when more than one university unit is involved, follow these guidelines to ensure all logos are properly represented.

WHEN APPEARING WITH ONE OTHER LOGO:

- Use the university logo in its preferred horizontal version
- Separate the logos by a space the same width as the shield
- Separate the logos by a vertical line the full height of the logo

WHEN APPEARING WITH MULTIPLE OTHER LOGOS:

- Use the university logo in its preferred horizontal version
- Place the university logo bottom right or left in accordance with placement guidelines
- Place the other logos in an equally spaced row along the bottom of the layout
- Add text to provide the partnership or sponsorship context above the logos
Logo → Social Media Icons
Brand consistency across all platforms is critical to increase the awareness of the Carleton brand.

Adhering to the social media guidelines will help Carleton become more easily recognized. Due to the limited size of profile icons and ensuring accounts are AODA compliant, all academic and service units are to use the official Carleton University shield as their profile image for social media. The shield icon with the white background represents the official flagship accounts (Fig. 1), while other social media accounts are to use the shield with the red background (Fig. 2).

The profile icons can be downloaded here, with versions for most major platforms.

ACADEMIC AND SERVICE UNITS
Academic and service units are encouraged to display their full name in other areas of their social channel (i.e. account name, banner image, post titles within the social feed).

Any images, colours and fonts used on social pages should follow the university’s guidelines to help establish brand consistency.

PERSONALITY-BASED ACCOUNTS AND SPECIFIC CHANNELS
Personality-based accounts (i.e. @president_cu or @RodneyRaven) are encouraged to use a profile picture representing the individual or personality.
Logo → Custom logos

A very limited number of external-facing units, such as named schools, can use a customized logo containing their unit’s name. These units must meet the following criteria:

- Named schools, centres and institutes that compete in the external marketplace for specific target audience attention and have a need to establish/maintain a distinct awareness and reputation
- Donor-required units

Custom logos are not otherwise permitted.
Logo → Swag
Informal versions of our logo can be created for use exclusively on promotional merchandise such as apparel, bags, mugs and pens. Use of official logos is preferable and should be used when suitable. These informal logos should not be used on any other communication materials — and all guidelines for proper usage should be followed.

IMPRINTS/EMBROIDERING
To ensure our logo is clear and properly printed in all reproduction situations, Imprint and embroidery specific versions can be made available.

The Carleton University imprint logo can be found here.

SHIELD BACKGROUND
This version is all white, with only a white outline around the shield so b/g colour shows through. Used for printing with a single colour (black or white) where b/g is not black.

EMBROIDERED WORDS
Small text is enlarged compared to normal logos to ensure visibility with embroidery.
Logo → Events
Events aimed at internal audiences should use the Carleton logo and visual identity. However, event logos may be created to promote significant events and conferences targeted toward external audiences such as community and professional groups. Organizers of external-facing events can work with the Department of University Communications to determine if an independent event brand is suitable, and then request a new logo.

The following guidelines apply to external event logos:

• Incorporate the Carleton University wordmark, unless the event logo is used in conjunction with the Carleton logo
• Use approved brand fonts for all typography
• Use approved brand colours as appropriate

Logo → New logos
Permission is required to design and use a new logo. To request a new logo, get approval from the head of the appropriate department and then submit a requisition to the Department of University Communications.

Before submitting a logo request, please read the guide section on logos to see if a “custom” logo is permitted.

Logo → French executions
There is no French version of the Carleton logo. Within text, Carleton University can be translated to Université Carleton / L’Université Carleton / l’Université Carleton. Depending on the context or usage, it’s best to check with a translator.
Coat of arms

The coat of arms was presented to the university by His Excellency The Right Honourable Ramon John Hnatyshyn, Governor General of Canada, on November 15, 1992, as part of Carleton’s 50th anniversary celebrations.

Coat of arms → Clear space and minimum size

The following guidelines should be followed to ensure visibility of the Carleton coat of arms.

MINIMUM SIZE
The coat of arms should not be applied smaller than the widths shown here.

Print: 1” minimum width
Digital: 96 px minimum width
Typography

Typography is a visual expression of our brand voice. Our brand includes two brand fonts and two alternate fonts that allow us to create a distinct look while providing flexibility in documents and designs.
Typography → Brand fonts
The brand fonts should be used for marketing collateral and branded communications, as they are the purest visual expression of the Carleton brand voice, and help ensure communications coming from us are recognized as ours.

Colours

Colour is an important part of our brand. It reflects our brand personality, helps make us instantly recognizable and is a great way to add depth, personality and vibrancy to our communications materials.
Colours → Primary palette

Our primary colour palette reinforces traditional Carleton colours — with the red evolving to appear more vibrant than ever. It aligns with Ottawa’s colours and Canada’s national colours, as well as to our raven mascot. The primary palette is vibrant and strong, bold and optimistic.

Colours → Accessibility

Our colour palettes have been chosen with accessibility in mind. The following combinations of text and background colour achieve AA accessibility standards in all text sizes and weights.
Photography

Photography is an important part of the Carleton brand because it can tell a story and reflect who we are in an authentic way. A well-chosen image can engage audiences, create context, add colour and texture, capture nuance and help articulate the essence of the Carleton experience.
Photography → Guiding principles

Engaging original photography should be used where possible. To accurately tell our story and reflect the Carleton brand, there are four guiding principles to consider.

SELECTED IMAGES SHOULD BE:

Bold

Carleton is an exciting place doing exciting things. Photography should be confident and distinctive, not quiet and generic.

Active

There's a lot going on in every part of the university. Our subjects should be captured either taking action or taking a brief break from what they’re doing to interact with our audience.

Authentic

Photography must reflect the actual story of Carleton. We should capture real students, faculty and staff in environments that reflect Carleton. We have a unique story to tell, so must emphasize this through the imagery we use.

Inclusive

The Carleton community is diverse in every way. Photography should proportionately represent diversity in all forms.
Photography → People

Carleton is a close-knit community. People are the centre of our stories and our successes, so featuring up-close and personal photography is important. Images of people can demonstrate a sense of belonging while creating an intimate connection with our audiences.

SELECTED IMAGES SHOULD:

- Show positive, determined, confident-looking people — representative of Carleton’s diversity
- Be candid and not posed — showing people caught in an authentic moment
- Be in-situ — showing people caught in the action, taking on challenges
- Feature tight composition so the entire frame feels full and colourful
- Vary between eye-contact with audience and focused on their task
- Tell an interesting story — using angles and foreground items to create visual interest
Photography → Place

Our campus, Ottawa and the surrounding geography, and the locations our studies and work take us are an important part of the Carleton story. Place images anchor our brand, showcase our campus and architecture, speak to strength and permanence, and can create strong and lasting impressions.

SELECTED IMAGES SHOULD:

• Be interesting — use architectural features, angles and lighting to gain attention and make a connection

• Bring the campus to life — show variety in time of day, seasons, lighting and weather conditions

• Include people — where possible, show students, staff, faculty and alumni engaging with the space
Photography → Impact

Having an impact is central to the Carleton story — it woven throughout all elements of the brand. It is part of our positioning, our promise and our vision. Impact images make for very compelling storytelling that places what we do in context and allows our audiences to see and imagine themselves making a real difference. They can be used to communicate more abstract or complex concepts that would be difficult to capture in a single image of people and places.

SELECTED IMAGES SHOULD:
• Be easy to understand — show the difference Carleton and its people are making in the world in a tangible or highly visible way if possible
• Be editorial and evocative — images should provide important context and support the story being told
• Use original photography or carefully chosen stock images — try to be unique in either case
Photography → Style
A photographic style establishes a consistent quality, look and feel throughout the brand. Adhering to the principle of authenticity, photography should be developed to be as close as possible to what the eye would see.

SELECTED IMAGES SHOULD:

- Have the same level of saturation, shadows and highlights as any others appearing in the same publication or series
- Have skin tones be as close as possible to natural
- Be well lit with no excessive bright or dark areas
- Bring a single, strong focus of attention; photo collages dilute the story and create a weak centre of attention

Photos that run dark may need to be adjusted for shadows and highlights

Presenting proper skin tones is key in authentic and inclusive photography

Oversaturated photos need to be adjusted to make them more natural and appealing
The Carleton brand incorporates a variety of graphic elements to add different dimensions to our branded communications. They can be used for visual interest, to structure or unify designs, to break up or highlight content and to help communicate abstract or complex ideas and information.
The wave

The wave is an elaboration of the pattern from our logo. It is our primary graphic element. It gets attention and creates a sense of flow and momentum as Carleton charts a path toward an exciting future. The shape is not fixed — portions can be used and variations can be created as long as they are clearly recognizable as waves and appear only in Carleton red or black. The wave is versatile. It can be used to add visual interest, provide a focal point, highlight content or provide structure to designs.
The Wave → Improper usage

The integrity of the wave is critically important. The following are examples of what not to do with the wave in any of its formats.

- Do not distort or stretch the wave
- Do not rotate the wave
- Do not alter the wave colours

→ White space

White space is simply the space between — and sometimes within — other design elements. It is an important consideration in any layout and should be applied generously where possible within the Carleton design system. White space can be used to balance designs, organize and enhance visibility and readability of content, provide a clear space for logos and other elements, or convey a certain mood. White space is not necessarily white. It can be any colour or texture so long as it provides room for a design to breathe.
Graphic elements → Icons

Icons are a good way to simplify and categorize information. In order to maintain a consistent branded look, adhere to the following guiding principles when selecting or creating icons.

- Use flat design — icons should appear flat with no sense of depth or forced perspective
- Keep it simple — icons should be simplified down to the minimum amount of detail
- Create a unified set — icons should appear as outlines using the same line thickness everywhere

ICONS TO DOWNLOAD

You can find a premade set of icons for many academic uses at this link.

→ Infographics

Infographics are a good way to gain attention and showcase data. In order to maintain a consistent branded look, adhere to the following guiding principles when creating infographics.

- Make it clear and easy to understand — infographics can combine numbers, icons and recognizable symbols to make the data simple to grasp.
- Use colour generously — use primary or secondary colour palettes to bring life to the infographic and help categorize data.
- Keep it easily digestible — infographics are most effective when content is broken up into smaller chunks, categorized and visually separated.

Publico is our brand serif font, only for use in longer form materials, such as in-depth reports. It makes long blocks of text easier to read.
