

POLICY WORKSHOP

Public Attitudes and Environmental Policy in Canada and Europe

Friday, February 8, 2013

9:00 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

Room 608, Robertson Hall, Carleton University, Ottawa

This international workshop will explore public attitudes toward environmental issues and policies, focusing on Canada and Europe. Experts will analyze cross-national survey data from the International Social Survey Programme and explore mechanisms through which public attitudes may (or may not) have an impact on government policy.

To register (by February 4) and to view the program go to www.canada-europe-dialogue.ca

The workshop is free of charge.

KEYNOTE ADDRESS

“Canada and Europe: The Environmental Context and the Policy Environment”

Miranda Schreurs, Free University Berlin

INTERNATIONAL PRESENTERS

Russell Dalton (University of California, Irvine)
Markus Hadler (Marshall University)
Tom W. Smith (National Opinion Research Center and University of Chicago)

CARLETON PRESENTERS

Joan DeBardleben (Institute of European, Russian, and Eurasian Studies)
Susan Harada and Kathryn O’Hara
(School of Journalism and Communications)
Jon Pammett (Political Science)
Heather Pyman (Carleton University Survey Centre)

The Canada-Europe Transatlantic Dialogue is funded by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada under its Strategic Knowledge Clusters program.