

Biographies

Satya Brink has her doctorate from Purdue University (USA) and has worked in social policy research at universities, for government, for international organizations and as a consultant. She is currently Director, National Learning Policy Research, Learning Policy Directorate at Human Resources and Social Development Canada, Government of Canada. She was previously the Director of Child, Youth and Social Development Studies, a unit publishing about 30 social research reports a year. In her current position, her responsibilities include the development of evidence for policies related to human capital and lifelong learning from early childhood to later adulthood. She is widely published.

Email: satya.brink@hrsdc-rhdcc.gc.ca

Webpage: <http://www.hrsdc.gc.ca>

Joan DeBardeleben is Director of the Centre for European Studies and Professor of Political Science and of European and Russian Studies at Carleton University in Ottawa. After completing a B.A. in Russian Language and Literature, she received her PhD in political science from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Dr. DeBardeleben's research has focussed on East German and Soviet/Russia politics, including environmental politics, public opinion, elections, and federalism. Since 2000 she has turned her attention to EU enlargement and EU-Russian relations. Recent publications include: (editor and contributor) Soft or Hard Borders: Managing the Divided in an Enlarged Europe (Aldershot: Ashgate, 2005); 'Russia', in M. Kesselman, J. Krieger and W. A. Joseph, eds. Introduction to Comparative Politics, 4th edition (Boston: Houghton-Mifflin, 2006); and (co-editor and contributor, with Vladimir Yadov and Svetlana Klimova) The Formation of Labour Relations in post-Soviet Russia (Moscow: Akademicheskii Proekt, 2004, in Russian).

Email: joan_debardeleben@carleton.ca

Webpage: <http://www.carleton.ca/eurus/Faculty/DeBardeleben.htm>

Christina Gabriel's specific research interests focus on gender, citizenship and migration, North American regional integration and globalization. She has co-authored (with Yasmeen Abu-Laban) Selling Diversity. Immigration, Multiculturalism, Employment Equity, and Globalization (2002). She currently holds a three year SSHRC grant (2006-2009) with Dr. Laura Macdonald and Dr. Rianne Mahon for a joint study, "Social Citizenship in North America".

Email: cgabriel@ccs.carleton.ca

Webpage: <http://www.carleton.ca/polisci/Faculty/list/gabriel.html>

Policy Workshop: "Social Policy and Labour Market Integration in Canada and the EU"
September 8, 2006

H.E. Eric Hayes has been Head of Delegation of the European Commission to Canada since October 2002. He started his career at the British Steel Corporation, London in 1971. His service at the European Commission began in 1974. Since then he has held appointments with various units within the European Commission, including:

- 1974-76: Directorate General for External Relations (Australia/New Zealand Desk)
- 1976: Private Office of Sir C. Soames, Vice-President for External Relations
- 1976-79: Private Office of Mr. C. Tugendhat, Member responsible for Budgets, Personnel and Financial Institutions
- 1979-82: Directorate General for External Relations (Anti-Dumping Division)
- 1982-88: Economic Assistant to Director-General for External Relations
- 1988-90: Deputy Head of EFTA Unit, Directorate-General for External Relations
- 1990-93: Head of Unit for Bilateral Relations with the Scandinavian countries, Finland, Iceland, Austria and Switzerland (and EC Chairman of EEA Negotiating Group on Flanking and Horizontal Policies)
- 1993-95: Head of European Commission Delegation in Finland
- 1995-99: Head of Unit for Relations with the USA, CANADA, External Relations DGI
- 1999-2000: Head of Unit for Relations with the USA, CANADA, NAFTA Directorate-General for External Relations (DG RELEX)

Email: mailto@delcan.cec.eu.int

Webpage: http://www.delcan.cec.eu.int/en/about_us/welcome/

Jane Jenson was awarded the Canada Research Chair in Citizenship and Governance in 2001 at the Université de Montréal, where she has been a professor of Political Science since 1993. Between June 1999 and 2004, she was the Director of the Family Network of Canadian Policy Research Networks, Inc., a policy think tank located in Ottawa. She is also Editor of Lien social et Politiques - RIAC, a social policy journal.

Jane Jenson earned her B.A. Honours from McGill University and her Ph.D. from the University of Rochester in 1974, and then taught at Carleton University until 1993. In 2005 she was named a Fellow of the Trudeau Foundation and in 2004 a member of the Successful Societies programme of the Canadian Institute for Advanced Research. She has been a Visiting Professor at a number of European universities, including the Universität Augsburg, Freie Universität Berlin, the European University Institute in Florence and the Université libre de Bruxelles. At Harvard University she held the William Lyon Mackenzie King Chair in Canadian Studies for the 1989 calendar year. She was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada in 1989.

Her current research interests and publications cover a wide spectrum, including social policy, social movements, the relationship between Quebec and the rest of Canada, citizenship, diversity, and gender studies. She was named a member of Quebec's Conseil supérieur de la langue française by the Government of Quebec in 2002. Further information and some publications see www.cprn.org, www.cccg.umontreal.ca.

Email: jane.jenson@umontreal.ca

Web Site: http://www.pol.umontreal.ca/Jane_Jenson.htm

Policy Workshop: "Social Policy and Labour Market Integration in Canada and the EU"
September 8, 2006

Barbara Haskel's interests are in comparative and international politics, and political economy, with particular emphasis in recent years on the European Union. She has taught courses on political integration for many years. Her current work focuses on political, institutional, and policy aspects of the Bologna Process to create a European Higher Education Area, and follows earlier research on the politics of domestic and foreign policies in Scandinavia, for example "Paying for the Welfare State: Creating Political Durability", (reprinted in Sven Steinmo (ed.), Tax Policy; "Disparities, Strategies, and Opportunity Costs", (International Studies Quarterly, 18:1); and The Scandinavian Option. Opportunities and Opportunity Costs in Postwar Scandinavian Foreign Policies, (Oslo: Norwegian Universities Press). Barbara Haskel holds a PhD from Harvard and is Associate Professor of Political Science at McGill University.

Email: barbara.haskel@mcgill.ca

Website: <http://www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/faculty/haskel/>

Kurt Hübner is the Director and Professor at the Institute for European Studies, the University of British Columbia. He has a PhD in Economics and Political Science from the Free University of Berlin. Until 2004 he was Acting Director of the Centre for German and European Studies at York University. Prior to that he held positions at the University of Mannheim and the Free University of Berlin, and was a Visiting Professor at the University of Economics in Vienna. In 2004-2005, Professor Hübner co-directed (with Mark Webber) the Bridge Project, which was a research initiative that created a comprehensive inventory of academic mobility arrangements between post-secondary institutions in Canada and the Federal Republic of Germany. This work was supported by both the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) and the Standing Committee for German as a Foreign Language (StADaF). Results of this research can be found at <http://www.cges.yorku.ca/The-Bridge-Project.html>

Email: khuebner@interchange.ubc.ca

Webpage: <http://www.ies.ubc.ca/faculty/visitors.html>

Michael Krashinsky is a Professor of Economics and the Chair of the Department of Management on the Scarborough Campus of the University of Toronto. He was born in Montreal and went to Boston in 1964 to do his undergraduate work at M.I.T. He graduated in 1968, and after spending a year teaching Engineering at Loyola (now Concordia) in Montreal, he went to Yale University to pursue doctoral studies in Economics. Professor Krashinsky received his Ph.D. in 1973 and came to the University of Toronto, where he has been a Full Professor since 1989. His research examines the ways in which economic theory can be brought to bear to understand government involvement in economic policy. He has authored or co-authored five books and numerous articles. His primary research interest is early childhood education and care, and his most recent work (with Professor Cleveland) includes a study entitled Fact and Fantasy: Eight Myths About Early Childhood Education and Care and a report to the OECD Directorate for Education entitled Financing ECEC Services in OECD Countries. He is currently completing a paper entitled "The Nonprofit Advantage: Producing Quality in Thick and Thin Child Care Markets".

Email: krash@utsc.utoronto.ca

Webpage: <http://www.utoronto.ca/~krash/>

Policy Workshop: "Social Policy and Labour Market Integration in Canada and the EU"
September 8, 2006

Stanley Kustec is a Senior Research Officer with the Research and Evaluation Branch, Citizenship and Immigration Canada in Ottawa. A major part of Stan's work centres around the economic performance and outcomes of immigrants. Stan has also worked on the analysis of the first wave of the Longitudinal Survey of Immigrants to Canada, as well as the intended occupations of immigrants. Prior to coming to Citizenship and Immigration Canada, Stan worked as an economist for the Applied Research Branch of Human Resources Development Canada (2000-2003) producing occupational projections, and for the Forecast Services Group of Informetrica Limited (1990-2000) producing macroeconomic projections for the Canadian economy. He has a BA in Economics from Carleton University (1989).

Email: stanley.kustec@cic.gc.ca

Webpage: <http://www.cic.gc.ca/>

Rianne Mahon is Director of the Institute of Political Economy and a member of the School of Public Policy and Administration and the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at Carleton University in Ottawa, Canada. While her earlier work focused on unions and labour market restructuring in Canada and Sweden, over the past decade she has produced numerous articles and book chapters on the politics of childcare. Her most recent publications are "Rescaling social reproduction: child care in Toronto/Canada and Stockholm/Sweden", (International Journal of Urban and Regional Research) (June 2005) and "Constructing a new urban citizenship? Childcare politics in Toronto in the 1970s and 1980s", (Canadian Historical Review) (June 2005). "Of scalar hierarchies and welfare redesign: childcare in 3 Canadian cities" will appear later this year in (Transactions of the Institute of British Geography). She wrote School-Aged Children Across Canada: A Patchwork of Policies for the Canadian Policy Research Network and, together with Sonya Michel, edited Child Care Policy at the Crossroads: Gender and Welfare State Restructuring. She is currently working on a co-edited collection on the political economy of scale with Roger Keil and another on the OECD with Stephen McBride. Her current interest is in the social policy implications of the emergence of new relations among local, provincial, national and supra- or international governance structures. Her new research project looks at the OECD and "policy learning" in Canada, Korea, and Sweden.

Email: rienne_mahon@carleton.ca

Webpage: <http://www.carleton.ca/socanth/faculty/mahon.html>

Peter Moss is Professor of Early Childhood Provision and Executive Head of the Thomas Coram Research Unit at the Institute of Education University of London. His research interests include early childhood and other services for children; the children's services workforce; leave policy; and the relationship between employment, care and gender. Much of his work has been cross-national, in particular within the EU. From 1986-96, he was coordinator of the EC Childcare Network; and he is currently co-coordinator of the international network on leave policy and research and editor of Children in Europe, a magazine published in 8 languages in 8 European countries. From 2001-5, he co-directed an EC-funded study Care Work in Europe. He is the co-author of Beyond Quality in Early Childhood Education and Care: Postmodern Perspectives (with Alan Pence and Gunilla Dahlberg); From Children's Services to Children's Spaces (with Pat Petrie); and Ethics and Politics in Early Childhood Education (with Gunilla Dahlberg).

Email: Peter.Moss@ioe.ac.uk

Webpage: http://ioewebserver.ioe.ac.uk/ioe/cms/get.asp?cid=470&470_0=7872

Policy Workshop: "Social Policy and Labour Market Integration in Canada and the EU"
September 8, 2006

Pasi Patokallio is Ambassador of Finland to Canada. Mr. Patokallio was born on 29 September 1949 at Kangasala, Finland. Prior to his posting to Ottawa in September 2004, Mr. Patokallio spent a year as a Fellow at Harvard University's Weatherhead Center for International Affairs studying and speaking on issues relating to the Middle East. Previously, he served as Finland's Ambassador to Israel for more than five years (1998-2003). In Helsinki, his posts have included those of Deputy Director-General for Multilateral Affairs at the Finnish Ministry for Foreign Affairs as well as of Director for Arms Control and Disarmament. He has participated in numerous international conferences relating to conventional arms as well as WMD. In the 1990s Mr. Patokallio served for a year as chairman of the Nuclear Suppliers Group and chaired two preparatory meetings of the NPT review conference. He has also been closely involved with the emerging issue of small arms proliferation, serving twice on a UN panel on small arms. In July 2005 he chaired the UN Second Biennial Meeting on small arms in New York. Besides Ottawa and Tel Aviv, his foreign postings have included Washington, Tokyo, Geneva and New York. Educated at Tampere University in Finland, he holds a master's degree in international relations.

Email: Pasi.Patokallio@formin.fi

Webpage: <http://www.finland.ca/en/>

Hélène Pellerin is an Associate Professor and Associate Chair in the School of Political Studies at the University of Ottawa. She received her Ph.D. from the University of York.

She has published numerous articles on international migration and governance. Her most recent publications include: 'Enlargement And EU Border Policies: Migration and border controls in the EU: economic and security factors', in J. DeBardeleben, ed. in Soft or Hard Borders: Managing the Divided in an Enlarged Europe (Aldershot: Ashgate, 2005); The global governance of international migration in the 1990s (forthcoming); Neoliberal regionalism and the management of people's mobility (2001), and Crisis? What crisis? The politics of migration regulation in the era of globalization (2003).

Her research interests include, among others, international politics and transnational relations, international political economy, migratory movements, and regionalism in Western Europe and the Americas.

Email: hpelleri@uottawa.ca

Webpage: <http://www.socialsciences.uottawa.ca/pol/eng/profdetails.asp?login=hpellerin>

Isabelle Petit is the Executive Director of the McGill University-Université de Montréal Institute for European Studies. She is also a visiting scholar at the Université de Montréal's Department of Political Science where she teaches two courses (POL.3851 – European Integration and POL.2350 – European Political Systems). Isabelle Petit, who holds a bachelor in Law from the Université de Poitiers (France), defended a doctoral thesis entitled De la volonté de créer une identité euro-communautaire. Une étude des discours et des interventions de la Commission européenne dans le secteur de l'éducation, 1955-1995. She has published articles in the Canadian Journal of Political Science, in the European Law Journal as well as in Eurostudies and Globe. She is pursuing research on the development of a euro-identity, European education policy, the EU and the federal model as well as on the Founding fathers of Europe.

Email: isabelle.petit@umontreal.ca

Website: http://www.iee.umontreal.ca/ladirectionfr_fichiers/Page-Personnelle-IEE2006.pdf

Policy Workshop: "Social Policy and Labour Market Integration in Canada and the EU"
September 8, 2006

Valerie Preston is a Professor of Geography at York University. She received her PhD in Urban Geography from McMaster University and is an expert on gender and urban labour markets, immigration in Canadian cities, and social geography. Her recent publication in the area of immigration and labour markets include: "Gender, Immigration and Labour Market Integration: Where We Are and What We Still Need to Know," with E. Tastsoglou, Atlantis, 30, 1: 46-59. 2005; "Immigrants' Economic Status in Toronto: Stories of Triumph and Disappointment," with L. Lo and S. Wang in P. Anisef and M. Lanphier (eds.) Worlds in the City (Toronto: University of Toronto Press), 192-262. 2003; and "Immigration and Canadian Cities: Building Inclusion," with M. Wong in C. Andrew, K.A. Graham, and S. D. Phillips (eds.) Urban Affairs, Back on the Policy Agenda (Montreal & Kingston: McGill - Queen's University Press), 23-44. 2002.

Email: vpreston@yorku.ca

Website: <http://www.yorku.ca/geograph/Faculty/Profiles/Preston.htm>

Brian Ray is an Associate Professor in the Department of Geography at the University of Ottawa. His research focuses mainly on the diverse ways that urban people organize their everyday lives in multi-ethnic cities. For the most part, Brian's work examines different aspects of immigrant integration in North American cities. His research projects have emphasized the following issues: the importance of cultural identity and gender in integration processes among new immigrants, housing affordability and homeownership trends among refugees and ethno-cultural groups, the social networks of immigrant women, the spatial segregation of immigrant and ethnic groups in large cities, geographies of employment and social mobility, and the social construction of 'race' and racist practices.

Brian arrived at the University of Ottawa in July 2004 after several years in the United States where he worked in Washington (DC) at the Migration Policy Institute as a researcher/policy analyst. Prior to working at MPI, Brian was a senior analyst with the Metropolis Project and the Strategic Planning, Policy and Research Division (Department of Citizenship and Immigration), the Research Manager at the National Secretariat on Homelessness, and a professor at McGill University in Montréal.

Email: bray@uottawa.ca

Website: <http://www.uottawa.ca/academic/arts/geography/prof/ray.htm>

Oliver Faust Schmidtke is the Associate Professor in Political Science at the University of Victoria, European Studies Scholar, Acting Director of European Studies Program, and former President of ECSA-C (European Community Studies Association Canada) His main teaching and research interests include comparative politics (immigration politics, globalization, citizenship, regionalism, xenophobia and racism), EU Politics, and political sociology. In 2005, Professor Schmidtke, together with Karin Schittenhelm, Arnd Nohl und Anja Weiss, received a grant from the Volkswagen Foundation for the project "Cultural Capital during Migration. A comparative study on the labour market integration of immigrants." The project is scheduled to run from 2005 to 2008 and has the budget of Euro 650.000.

His most recent publications addressing migration issues include: "Cultural Capital during Migration—A Multi-level Approach to the Empirical Analysis of Labor Market Integration amongst Highly Skilled Migrants" (together with Nohl, Arnd-Michael; Schittenhelm, Karin; & Weiß, Anja), in Forum Qualitative Sozialforschung / Forum: Qualitative Social Research [On-line Journal], 7(3), Art. 14. [54 Absätze]. 2006; and Forum Qualitative Sozialforschung / Forum: Qualitative Social Research [On-line Journal], 7(3), Art. 14 "Re-mapping Europe: Collective memory and identity in an enlarged European Union," EUROSTUDIA. Transatlantic Journal for European Studies. Vol. 1, No. 1. 2005. Professor Schmidtke is currently working on an edited volume Governing Migration in the Age of Globalization (co-edited with S. Ozcurumez). Aldershot: Ashgate (scheduled for Winter 06/ spring 07).

Policy Workshop: "Social Policy and Labour Market Integration in Canada and the EU"
September 8, 2006

Email: ofs@uvic.ca

Webpage: <http://web.uvic.ca/europe/dynamic/schmidtke.html>

Ingeborg Tömmel is a Professor of Political Science and Jean Monnet Chair in European Politics at the University of Osnabrück. She received a Diploma in geography, a Ph.D. in political science, and a Habilitation (postdoctoral) degree at the Free University of Berlin, where she was also a lecturer in Human Geography. Dr. Tömmel is the author of six books, five edited volumes, more than a dozen articles in academic journals and more than 35 book chapters. Her research focuses on governance, policy-making and system-building in the EU, including the Open Method of Coordination. From October 2005-September 2006 Dr. Toemmel has held a John G. Diefenbaker Award (Canada Council for the Arts) at the University of Victoria, where she has been working closely with Dr. Amy Verdun, Jean Monnet Chair in European Integration on issues related to EU governance.

Email: ingeborg.toemmel@uni-osnabrueck.de

Webpage: http://data.sozialwiss.uni-osnabrueck.de/wcms/html.php?page=1604&doz_id=129%20

Lynne Westlake is a Special Advisor in the Social Policy Development Directorate, Human Resources and Social Development Canada. She has been working in federal policy and program development related to children and families since 1988. Lynne has been involved in the development of federal early learning and child care policies since 1995, including joint federal-provincial-territorial initiatives such as the National Children's Agenda and subsequent agreements on early learning and child care. Prior to joining the federal public service in 1988, Lynne worked for fifteen years in the voluntary sector at the community and national levels, primarily in child care policies and programs.

Email: lynne.westlake@sdsc.gc.ca

Webpage: <http://www.hrsdc.gc.ca>

Acknowledgements

This event is supported by the European Commission; the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, SSHRCC (Strategic Research Cluster Design Grant); and . the Strategic Research Cluster, Europe Matters: What Canada Needs to Know, which is housed at Carleton University, involving partner universities housing EU centres and institutes (also University of British Columbia, Université de Montréal/McGill University, University of Toronto, and University of Victoria).