

Biographies

Oswaldo Croci is an associate professor of International and European Politics in the Department of Political Science at Memorial University in St. John's Newfoundland. His most recent publications are: The European Union in the wake of Eastern enlargement. Institutional and policy making challenges (edited with Amy Verdun and published by Manchester University Press in 2005) and The transatlantic divide. Foreign and security policies in the Atlantic Alliance from Kosovo to Iraq (edited with Amy Verdun and published by Manchester University Press in 2006). His research has focused on transatlantic relations, the foreign policies of Italy and Canada, and the politics of international sport organizations. His work has appeared in various academic reviews (e.g. Storia Contemporanea, The International Spectator, European Foreign Affairs Review, Modern Italy, Journal of Modern Italian Studies, Études internationales, Peace Review, Slovene Studies, L'Europe en formation, Queste Istituzioni) as well as in edited collection of essays: Eastern Europe and the West (1992), Italian Politics: Ending the First Republic (1995), Globalization and its discontents (2000), Italian politics: the faltering transition (2000), The Euro: European Integration Theory and Economic and Monetary Union (2002), Turbulence and new directions in global political economy (2003), L'Investigazione come scienza (2004), The Economics and Management of Mega Athletic Events: Olympic Games, Professional Sports, and Other Essays (2004), Crossing the Atlantic: Comparative EU-Canadian Studies (2004), The Political Economy of Global Sporting Organisations (2004), Italy between Europeanization and domestic politics (2004), Il terrorismo internazionale e la sicurezza globale (2005), Sport e Società: contributi multidisciplinari (2005), Security governance: Threat Perception into the 21st Century (forthcoming).

Email: ocroci@mun.ca

Webpage: <http://www.ucs.mun.ca/~ocroci/>

---

Joan DeBardeleben is Director of the Centre for European Studies and Professor of Political Science and of European and Russian Studies at Carleton University in Ottawa. After completing a B.A. in Russian Language and Literature, she received her PhD in political science from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Before coming to Carleton University in 1991, she was on the faculty at Colorado State University (1978-80) and at McGill University (1980-1991). Dr. DeBardeleben's research has focussed on East German and Soviet/Russia politics, including environmental politics, public opinion, elections, and federalism. Since 2000 she has turned her attention to EU enlargement and EU-Russian relations. She teaches courses on social and political perspectives in Europe, on state-society relations in the Soviet successor states, and on interdisciplinary approaches and research methods in post-communist politics. Her current research projects deal with the EU-Russian interface at the regional level and the political significance of recent changes in Russian federalism. Recent publications include: (editor and contributor) Soft or Hard Borders: Managing the Divide in an Enlarged Europe (Aldershot: Ashgate, 2005); 'Russia', in M. Kesselman, J. Krieger and W. A. Joseph, eds. Introduction to Comparative Politics, 4th edition (Boston: Houghton-Mifflin, 2006); and (co-editor and contributor, with Vladimir Yadov and Svetlana Klimova) The Formation of Labour Relations in post-Soviet Russia (Moscow: Akademicheskii Proekt, 2004, in Russian).

Email: joan\_debardeleben@carleton.ca

Webpage: <http://www.carleton.ca/eurus/Faculty/DeBardeleben.htm>

Markus Kaim was born in Neuss, Germany and has an MA and PhD from Bonn University. He is currently a Research Associate with the “Europe and Atlantic Security” Unit of the German Institute for International and Security Affairs. Prior to this role, Dr. Kaim was Assistant Professor at FSU Jena’s Department of Political Science, where he taught students on a variety of topics including: the European Union as Actor in World Politics; Canada’s Foreign and Security Policy as a Middle Power in the International System; and European Security Organizations. He is the recipient of many grants, awards, and fellowships, and has worked both with the Canadian Institute for International Affairs and the Council for Canadian Security in the 21st Century. In addition, Dr. Kaim has written an impressive collection of books, academic articles, chapters, and working papers on a variety of topics related to transatlantic relations, including NATO, ESDP, and European Enlargement, to name a few.

Select Publications:

In Search for a New Relationship. Canada, Germany and the United States (Berliner Schriften zur Internationalen Politik), (with Ursula Lehmkuhl), Wiesbaden 2005

Conflicts in the Greater Middle East and the Transatlantic Relationship (with Helmut Hubel), Baden-Baden 2004

“Redefining the North Atlantic Triangle. Canada’s Role in the European Security and Defense Policy (ESDP),” in: Kaim, Markus/ Lehmkuhl, Ursula (eds.): In Search of a New Relationship. Canada, Germany, and the United States (Berliner Schriften zur Internationalen Politik), Wiesbaden 2005, pp.91 – 112

Zeit für einen Paradigmenwechsel. Die Iran-Politik der Europäischen Union ist in einer Sackgasse angelangt (Hessische Stiftung für Friedens- und Konfliktforschung; Raketenabwehrforschung International, Bulletin No. 51), Frankfurt am Main 2005: <http://www.hsfk.de/abm/bulletin/pdfs/kaimberg.pdf> (with mit Lars Berger)

“Complementarity, Not Competition – The Role of the European Union in the Middle East Peace Process,” in: Hubel, Helmut/ Kaim, Markus (eds.): Conflicts in the Greater Middle East and the Transatlantic Relationship, Baden-Baden 2004, pp.31 – 45

“Friendship Under Strain or Fundamental Alienation? Germany-US Relations after the Iraq War,” in: International Journal 59(2003-04), No.1, pp.127 – 143

"Common Interests" vs. "Common Values" – Die Rolle der Türkei in der NATO und gegenüber der EU, in: Kremp, Werner/ Meyer, Berthold (eds.): Religion und Zivilreligion im Atlantischen Bündnis (Atlantische Texte, Vol.14), Trier 2001, pp.307 – 321

Email: markus.kaim@swp-berlin.org

Website: <http://www.swp-berlin.org>

Sean Kay is associate professor of Politics and Government at Ohio Wesleyan University where he is Chair of the International Studies program and the first recipient of the Libuse L. Reed Professorship. He specializes in international security, globalization, international organization, and American foreign and defense policy. Dr. Kay is also a Mershon Associate at the Mershon Center, Ohio State University, and a Fellow in Foreign and Defense Policy at the Eisenhower Institute in Washington, D.C. He was previously a visiting assistant professor in the Government Department at Dartmouth College and assistant professor at Rhodes College. Sean Kay received his Ph.D. from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst in international relations. Prior to becoming a professor, Kay was a Visiting Research Fellow at the Institute for National Strategic Studies in the U.S. Department of Defense where he also served as an adviser to the US Department of State on NATO enlargement. He also worked previously for the NATO Parliamentary Assembly in Brussels, Belgium. He also lectures frequently in the United States and Europe on global security trends and their strategic implications. He is the author of numerous articles, book chapters, and opinion pieces in major newspapers, and does television and radio analysis on international security issues and is a member of the editorial board of Contemporary Security Policy. His books include NATO and the Future of European Security (Rowman and Littlefield) and

Policy Workshop: The Transatlantic Security Triangle: Where Does Canada Fit?
June 12, 2006, Foreign Affairs Canada

co-edited volumes NATO after Fifty Years (Scholarly Resources) and Limiting Institutions? The Challenge of Eurasian Security Governance (Manchester University Press) and Global Security in the 21st Century: The Quest for Power and the Search for Peace (Rowman and Littlefield).

Email: sikay@owu.edu

Webpage: <http://go.owu.edu/~politics/kaybio.htm>

---

Jeffrey Kopstein is Director of the Institute of European Studies and Professor of Political Science at the University of Toronto. Before moving to Toronto in 2002, he taught at Dartmouth College and the University of Colorado at Boulder after completing his PhD at the University of California, Berkeley in 1991. He has also held fellowships at Harvard University's Center for European Studies, Princeton University's Center of International Studies, and in 2001 was a visiting professor at the University of Munich sponsored by the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation. Kopstein's research interests are in the area of comparative, international, and European politics. He is the author of The Politics of Economic Decline in East Germany 1945-1989 and editor of Comparative Politics: Interests, Identities, and Institutions in a Changing Global Order. Recent articles have appeared in Comparative Politics, Political Theory, World Politics, Slavic Review, German Politics and Society, Theory and Society, The Washington Quarterly, and The Globe and Mail. Kopstein is currently writing a book on transatlantic relations. His article "The Transatlantic Divide Over Democracy Promotion" appeared in the March 2006 issue of The Washington Quarterly.

Email: jeffrey.kopstein@utoronto.ca

Webpage: <http://individual.utoronto.ca/kopstein/>

---

David Long is Professor of International Affairs in the Norman Paterson School of International Affairs (NPSIA) at Carleton University. With a PhD from the University of London, Long's research interests include the European Union and international theory.

Select publications include:

'NATO After Atlanticism', in Osvaldo Croci and Amy Verdun, eds., Storm Over the Atlantic, forthcoming 2006.

'Transatlantic Relations and Canadian Foreign Policy', International Journal, Autumn 2003.

'Europe and the Ban on Landmines: Compliance with Exceptions and Loopholes', in Bryan Macdonald and Richard Matthew, eds., Towards Human Security: A Study of the Transnational Effort to Ban Landmines, SUNY Press, 2003. (Co-written with Paul Chamberlain).

'The European Union and the Ottawa Process to Ban on Landmines', Journal of European Public Policy, 2002.

'The Euro and the Transformation of International Relations', in Patrick Crowley, ed., Before and Beyond EMU, Routledge, 2002.

'The Variables of EU Enlargement', in George MacLean, ed., Actor and Presence: The EU in International Security, University of Ottawa Press, 2001.

Email: david_long@carleton.ca

Alex Macleod is professor of political science, and director of the Centre d'études des politiques étrangères et de sécurité at the Université du Québec à Montréal. His most recent publications include: "Les études de sécurité: émergence du constructivisme critique", Cultures et conflits, 52, October 2004, "Just defending national interests? Understanding French policy towards Iraq since the end of the Gulf War", Journal of International Relations, 7, 2004, "Quand une question sociale se transforme en problème de sécurité : immigration et discours sécuritaire en France et en Grande Bretagne" (with Alexandre Ricard-Guay), in Bernard Jouve and Yann Roche (eds.), Des flux et des territoires, (Montréal, Les Presses de l'Université du Québec, 2006), and two edited books, Diplomaties en guerre. Sept États face à la crise iraquienne, (Montreal, Athéna Éditions, 2005), La lutte antiterroriste et les relations internationales (Brussels, Bruylant, 2006). His research interests include the European Security and Defence Policy, French foreign and security policy, and the question of the state of exception and antiterrorist legislation in Europe. He is working at present, with Dan O'Meara, of UQAM, on an introductory text to IR theory for French-speaking students.

Email: macleod.alex@uqam.ca

Frédéric Mérand became in 2005 Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science at the University of Montreal, following a short career with the Department of Foreign Affairs. In 2002-2003 he was a research fellow at the Institute on Global Conflict and Cooperation and the University of California Institute of International Studies. Dr. Mérand holds a PhD from the University of California, Berkeley. The title of his dissertation was "Soldiers and Diplomats: The Institutionalization of the European Security and Defense Policy, 1989-2003". It obtained an honorary mention for the 2004 Ernst. B. Haas Award for Best Dissertation in European Politics and Society of the American Political Science Association. Supported by SSHRC and FQRSC funding, Dr. Mérand currently works on European security and transatlantic relations; German, French and British defense policies; European integration and regional organizations; and the political sociology of international relations.

Publications:

Mérand, Frédéric. 2006. "Social Representations in the European Security and Defence Policy". Cooperation and Conflict. 41(2):131-52.

Mérand, Frédéric. 2005. « Les nouvelles relations transatlantiques en matière de défense : quel rôle pour le Canada? » .

Mérand, Frédéric. 2003. "Dying for the Union? Military Officers and European Defence". European Societies: Journal of the European Sociological Association. 5(3):253-82.

Mérand, Frédéric. 2003. "Les militaires français et la construction européenne, 1972-1998. Représentations sociales de l'Europe de la défense dans Armées d'aujourd'hui". Politique européenne 1(9):165-92.

Fligstein, Neil et Frédéric Mérand. 2002. "Globalization or Europeanization? Evidence on the European Economy Since 1980". Acta Sociologica. 45(1):7-22.

Mérand, Frédéric. Forthcoming, 2007. "Strategic Partners, Different Strategies: The United States and Canada in the Transatlantic Security Community", in Stefan Gänzle, Allen Sens. Europe Alone: European Security and Transatlantic Relations. London: Palgrave-Macmillan.

Mérand, Frédéric, Michel Fortmann. 2005. "Life in 3D: The Challenges Facing an Integrated Approach to Security Policy", in Denis Stairs. In the Canadian Interest? Assessing Canada's International Policy Statement. Calgary: Canadian Defence and Foreign Affairs Institute. p.44-50.

Mérand, Frédéric. 2003. "The Attitudes of European Officers toward European Defense", in Jean Callaghan and Franz Kernic. Armed Forces and International Security: Global Trends and Issues. Münster. LIT Verlag. p.339-45.

Mérand, Frédéric. « L'Union européenne, le Canada et la sécurité africaine ». European Studies Canada Network. www.eucaweb.ca <<http://www.eucaweb.ca>>. Décembre 2005

Email: frederic.merand@umontreal.ca

Webpage: <http://www.pol.umontreal.ca/FredericMerand.htm>

---

Charles Corrie Pentland was born in Montreal and holds a BA with Double Honours in Political Science and International Studies, UBC (1965); MA in Political Science, UBC (1966); and a PhD in International Relations, University of London, School of Economics and Political Science (1970). He joined the Department of Political Studies at Queen's in 1969 and has been a Full Professor since 1982. In addition to being Head of Department from 1987-92, he has held visiting positions at Institut d'Etudes Europeennes, Universite Libre de Bruxelles, 1975-6; Norman Paterson School of International Affairs, Carleton University, Fall 1981; Centre d'Etudes et de Recherches Internationales et Communautaires, Universite d'Aix-Marseille, 1983-4; University of Manitoba, Winter 1993; and University of Cambridge, 2004. Pentland was Co-editor of Journal of European Integration from 1977-84; and Co-editor of International Journal from 1984-92. Presently, he is Associate Director of Queen's Democracy Project for Ukraine and also Director of Queen's Centre for International Relations.

Dr. Pentland's current teaching covers international organizations and theories of international relations. He has also taught courses on the politics of the European Union, Canadian foreign policy, and international political economy. His current research concerns the political development and external relations of the European Union, in particular the security implications of its enlargement to include countries in Central and Eastern Europe, its role in the Balkans, and its development of a common foreign and security policy.

Some recent publications:

"The European Union and Civil Conflict in Africa". International Journal 60:4 (Autumn 2005) pp. 919-36

"Eastern Approaches: the EU Encounters the Former Soviet Union", in Joan DeBardeleben (ed) Hard or Soft Borders: Managing the Divide in an Enlarged Europe (Aldershot, UK: Ashgate, 2005)

"Odd Man In: Canada and the Transatlantic Crisis". International Journal 59:1 (Winter 2003-4) pp. 145-66

Bridges to Peace: Ten Years of Conflict Management in Bosnia-Herzegovina (Kingston: Queen's Quarterly Press, 2003).

"Brussels, Bosnia and Beyond: the EU's Search for a Role in South Eastern Europe" in Pentland, Bridges to Peace, pp. 145-63

Email: ccp@post.queensu.ca

Webpage: <http://www.queensu.ca/politics/pentland.html>

---

Allen G. Sens is a Senior Instructor in the Department of Political Science and Chair of the International Relations Program at the University of British Columbia. He specializes in international security and conflict management. He is co-author of Global Politics: Origins, Currents, Directions (3rd edition, 2005); co-editor of NATO and European Security: Alliance Politics from the End of the Cold War to the Age of Terrorism (2003); and author of "From Peacekeeping to Peacebuilding: The United Nations and the challenge of Intra-state War," in The United Nations and Global Security, edited by Richard Price and Mark Zacher (2004). Dr. Sens has served as a consultant to the Canadian government on peacekeeping, United Nations Rapid Reaction, and NATO enlargement. His current projects include a co-edited volume on the future of the EU and NATO (forthcoming from Palgrave Publishing) and a series of papers on peacekeeping in the Middle East.

Email: asens@politics.ubc.ca

Webpage: <http://www.politics.ubc.ca/index.php?id=2506>

---

Elinor Sloan is associate professor of international security studies in the Department of Political Science at Carleton University in Ottawa, and is a former defence analyst with Canada's Department of National Defence. Dr. Sloan received her B.A. from the Royal Military College of Canada, her M.A. from the Norman Paterson School of International Affairs at Carleton University and her Ph.D. in International Relations from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University in Boston. Dr. Sloan is author of three books: Bosnia and the New Collective Security (1998); The Revolution in Military Affairs (2002); and Security and Defence in the Terrorist Era (2005).

Email: Elinor\_Sloan@carleton.ca

Webpage: <http://www.carleton.ca/polisci/Faculty/list/sloan.html>

---

Joshua B. Spero, Fitchburg State College Assistant Professor of Political Science, also taught at Merrimack College (2000-2002) and Dartmouth College (2000-2001). Dr. Spero received his Ph.D. from the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies (2000) and is a member of: Council on Foreign Relations; American Political Science Association; International Studies Association; International Institute for Strategic Studies; and Women in International Security. He consults for various international affairs organizations and worked in the US Government: (1994-2000)--Senior Civilian Strategic Planner on the Joint Chiefs of Staff (European and NATO Division, J-5 Directorate for Strategic Plans and Policy); (1990-1994)--Visiting Fellow at the Institute for National Strategic Studies (National Defense University); (1988-1990)--Deputy Assistant for Europe and the USSR (Office of the Secretary of Defense). From 1988-1994, he also served as the Washington Liaison Officer to the Ft. Leavenworth, KS Foreign Military Studies Office.

In 2004 Dr. Spero's book Bridging the European Divide: Middle Power Politics and Regional Security Dilemmas was published by Rowman and Littlefield. Book chapters and peer-review journal articles on international relations and comparative politics include publications in Current History, European Security, Problems of Communism, Military Review, and Insight Magazine, as well as op-ed pieces for Boston Globe, Cleveland Plain Dealer, and Defense News. Media interviews include: New York Times; Washington Post; Washington Post.Com; London Sunday Times; Boston Globe, ABC News.Com, CNBC, U.S. News & World Report. On March 12, 2003, the fourth anniversary of Poland's joining NATO, Dr. Spero received the Knight Cross of the Order of Merit from the President of the Republic of Poland. He is also listed in Who's Who in America.

Email: jspero@fsc.edu

Web Site: <http://denali.fsc.edu/facultyprofiles/default.cfm?a=profile&ID=44>

---

Terry Terriff is Senior Lecturer in International Security in the Department of Political Science and International Studies at the University of Birmingham, UK, a Visiting Academic Lecturer to the NATO School (Allied Command Transformation) in Germany, and the former Editor of the international journal, Contemporary Security Policy. He has just completed a two year Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC) funded project on 'Closing the Gap: What Can European military organizations learn from the US Marine Corps?' and is currently writing a book, titled Mars Renascent: Military Change in the US Marine Corps since Vietnam. He is as well currently working on another ESRC funded two year project, 'The Transatlantic Diffusion of US Military Knowledge and European Military Transformation'. Dr. Terriff has published a book, journal articles and chapters in edited volumes on change in military organization, NATO and European security, and international peacekeeping.

Email: T.R.Terriff@bham.ac.uk

Webpage: <http://www.cssd.bham.ac.uk/staff/terriff.htm>

---

Amy Verdun (PhD, European University Institute (EUI) 1995) is Professor and Jean Monnet Chair at the University of Victoria (UVic), Canada. She is the Director of the “Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence”. Dr. Verdun has held positions at Leiden University, the University of Essex, the EUI and the Max Planck Institute in Cologne, Germany. Her current research interests include European integration and governance, including matters surrounding integration theory, policy-making, political economy, and security matters. She is the author or editor of eight books and has served as guest editor of four special issues of peer-reviewed journals. Her most recent books include The Widening Atlantic? Transatlantic Security Relations from Kosovo to Iraq, Osvaldo Croci and Amy Verdun (eds), (Manchester University Press, 2006); The European Union in the Wake of Eastern Enlargement: Institutional and Policy-making Challenges, Amy Verdun and Osvaldo Croci (eds), (Manchester University Press, 2006); Britain and Canada and their Large Neighboring Monetary Unions, Amy Verdun (ed.) (Nova publishing, 2006). She has published in peer-reviewed journals such as Journal of Common Market Studies, Journal of European Public Policy and Journal of Public Policy.

Email: averdun@uvic.ca

Webpage: <http://web.uvic.ca/polisci/verdun/>