

Canadian Studies at Carleton University

Our graduates and faculty play an essential role in shaping discourse, policy and research on Canada and its place in the world. The School is a key player in a flourishing network of Canadian Studies programs both within Canada and abroad.

Discover more at:
carleton.ca/canadianstudies

Our priorities include:

Formalizing the School's commitment to non-traditional and inclusive teaching and research practices; Fostering and expanding our local, national and international research and academic programs

Carleton
University

