

Climate Change Seminar Series

Climate Storytelling

Dr. Nadia Bozak
Carleton University

Nadia Bozak's seminar, "Climate Storytelling," will discuss the ways in which writers are currently engaging with narrative (fiction, personal essays, hybrid forms) as a way to respond to climate crisis, as well as to imagine and enact ecologically sustainable modes of human existence .

---

Monday, April 03

417 St. Patrick's Building

10:00am-11:00am EST

Registration required

10:00-10:40am Presentation

10:40-11:00am Q&A

---

Nadia Bozak is the Associate Professor of English and Coordinator of the Creative Writing Concentration at Carleton University. Her research and publications have engaged with intersections between climate change, narrative, and forms of artistic expression since her book The Cinematic Footprint: Lights, Camera, Natural Resources was published in 2012.