CGSC 3004A
Philosophy and Cognitive Science

OUTLINE AND COURSE OBJECTIVES
This course examines the role that Philosophy plays in Cognitive Science. We will approach this issue first by reading Clark’s recently revised classic, Mindware. Clark looks at various topics in Cognitive Science from the critical perspective of Philosophy of Mind, and we will supplement our discussion of his text with a number of additional philosophical articles (to be made available via Brightspace). Second, we will examine a recent trend in Philosophy called Experimental Philosophy, or X-Phi, in order to determine whether or not it can make a contribution to the field of Cognitive Science.

Students will write weekly critical response papers, and will also make a seminar presentation focusing on one of the course topics. There will be no final exam.

Materials Required

Additional readings will be made available on Brightspace.

REQUIREMENTS

1. Attendance and Participation
You are expected to attend the seminar regularly, keep up with scheduled readings, and participate in class discussions. In other words, you should be prepared to contribute something when we meet. This doesn’t mean that I expect you to come to class with all the answers, but it does mean that you should be prepared to engage in intelligent discussion.

2. Weekly Response Papers
Each week you will be expected to hand in a two page (400-500 words) response to one of that week’s readings. Your response will consist of a brief summary of some portion of the reading as well as a critical commentary or response to an issue or issues raised by the reading. Since these response papers make up a large percentage of your mark for this course they should be carefully thought out, well-written, well organized, and should represent your best effort to come to terms with that particular reading. Over the course of the term you will be required to hand in EIGHT commentary sheets. See “Weekly response paper handout” for more details.

3. Seminar Presentation
You are expected to make one class presentation. The purpose of the presentation is to take a particular issue in Cognitive Science and explain it clearly to the class. As the presenter, you are responsible for choosing and presenting one article or chapter from the class reading list. During your presentation you are expected to begin by providing the class with an overview of the reading (i.e., highlight the main points of the paper, present a few key quotes), introduce some discussion topics (e.g., problems, unclear points, connections to previous readings, ideas for improvement, etc.), and helping to run the discussion for that portion of the class. Your presentation plus discussion will last approximately 20 minutes. You are required to meet with me the week before your presentation – more details to follow. Presentations will start in Week #3. I am also willing to allow you to work with a partner, and will have more to say about this option during our first class.

Assignment Deadlines and Deferral Policy

If, for extraordinary reasons, you miss an assignment deadline, you must notify me as soon as possible after the deadline.

A deferred assignment will be permitted under only two conditions: illness or bereavement. Documentation is required in order to schedule a deferral. If no documentation is provided, you will receive a 10% penalty per day for the assignment. This policy will be strictly enforced.

If you know that you will have trouble meeting a due date (e.g., because of other tests/assignments due on that day), contact me in advance to see if we can work out a reasonable solution (e.g., a short extension without penalty). If you do not do this in advance, then the above policy applies.

COURSE WEB PAGE (Brightspace)

The course outline and readings will be made available within Brightspace. Student grades will be distributed in Brightspace, and not through emails. Students who do not already have access their Brightspace account should learn to do so [for student support, go to https://carleton.ca/brightspace/students/]. Please note that I will update the website throughout the term. What you can find on the Brightspace course website:

- Course Outline with a breakdown of topics and a (approximate) reading schedule
- Details of the written assignments and presentation
- A drop box (to be used to submit responses)
- General discussion forum (not monitored)
- Other resources for the course in general (links to interesting and relevant videos, articles, papers, etc.)

A note about the discussion forum: The forum is meant to give you a tool to communicate with your peers. The forum will not be monitored, so if you have a question that requires an answer from me, please email me directly. However, remember that posting on the discussion forum is not done anonymously. Be respectful of your colleagues.

PLAGIARISM

The University Academic Integrity Policy defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentionally or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This includes reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source. Examples of sources from which the ideas, expressions of ideas or works of others may be drawn from include but are not limited to: books, articles, papers, literary compositions and phrases, performance compositions, chemical compounds, artworks, laboratory reports, research results, calculations and the results of calculations, diagrams, constructions, computer reports, computer code/software, material on the internet and/or conversations.

Examples of plagiarism include, but are not limited to:
- any submission prepared in whole or in part, by someone else, including the unauthorized use of generative AI tools (e.g., ChatGPT);
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, paraphrased material, algorithms, formulae, scientific or mathematical concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings without appropriate acknowledgement;
- submitting a computer program developed in whole or in part by someone else, with or without modifications, as one’s own; and
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s work and/or failing to use quotations marks.

Plagiarism is a serious offence that cannot be resolved directly by the course’s instructor. The Associate Dean of the Faculty conducts a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of “F” for the course.
