

CFICE

CFICE is a participatory action-research project that studies how communities and academics work together to achieve community goals. We want to answer the question: How can community-campus partnerships be designed and implemented to maximize the value created for non-profit, community-based organizations?

CFICE's objective is to strengthen Canadian communities through partnerships between community and academics that put communities first.

For CFICE, being community first means equitably prioritizing community and academic needs when conducting research and creating plans to address community issues.

What does CFICE do?

Through community-driven projects, we test different ways of being community first to build reciprocal, more democratic, and longer-lasting community-campus relationships.

Phase I (2012 – 2015)

Project work is divided into two phases

Phase II
(2016 – 2019)

Working in and studying partnerships in these sector-specific areas:

Sharing research to improve partnerships through these working groups:

Poverty Reduction

Community Food Security/
Food Sovereignty

Community Environmental Sustainability

Violence Against Women

Knowledge Mobilization

Aligning Institutions for Community Impacts

Tools for Community-First
Community Campus
Partnerships

Community-Campus
Engagement Brokering

Student Pathways for Community Impact

Evaluation and Analysis

CFICE'S Partners

