

COSC 2017 Newsletter

COSC 2016 in Guelph

The 9th Scientific Meeting of the Canadian Oxidative Stress Consortium was held at the University of Guelph in Guelph, Ontario from June 1st to 3rd, 2016. The meeting was organized by two of our young and enthusiastic members, Dr. Scott Ryan and Dr. Jim Uniacke, along with seasoned traveler Dr. David Josephy. The meeting was a great success with over 100 attendees from Canada and the U.S. covering diverse areas in oxidative stress research. There were 46 talks including seven student talks and two Keynote speakers: Dr. Alicia Kowaltowski (Sao Paulo, Brazil) and Dr. Christine Foyer (Leeds, U.K.). Over a dozen trainee travel awards and poster prizes were given out during the Banquet held in the historic Creelman Hall.

Keynote speaker Dr. Alicia Kowaltowski, Brazil

Keynote speaker Dr Christine Foyer, U.K.

Left to right: Dr. Scott Ryan, Chris Czaniecki – 1st place poster, Asad Lone - 3rd Place poster, Mohamed Gatie - 2nd place poster, Vanessa Lundsgaard-Nielsen - 1st place oral presentation, Dr. Jim Uniacke, Dr. Bill Willmore.

Students discuss their posters

COSC 2018 in Edmonton

Conference organiser: Dr. Arno Siraki, Faculty of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences (FoPPS), University of Alberta

Planning is well underway for the COSC's 10th scientific Meeting that will be held at the University of Alberta in Edmonton, Alberta. Please mark your agenda for our three-day meeting from May 30 until June 1, 2018. We have two international plenary speakers confirmed: Dr. Ronald Mason (National Institute of Environmental Health Science/NIH) and Dr. Christine Winterbourn (University of Otago). A Canadian plenary speaker will be confirmed shortly. Conference information will be available soon on our COSC website <https://carleton.ca/cosc/>.

Located within driving distance to the beautiful Canadian Rockies, Jasper National Park, Lake Louise and Banff, Edmonton is a popular place! Edmonton also boasts the new Rogers Place arena, iconic glass pyramids of the Muttart Conservatory, one of the largest urban river valley park systems and of course, the largest mall in N. America (West Edmonton Mall). Our meeting will also be back to back with two other conferences that will surely interest many of our members:

The 9th Biennial Canadian Conference on Ovarian Cancer Research will be held in Edmonton from May 26-29, 2018: <http://www.ccocr.org/>.

The 101st Canadian Chemistry Conference and Exhibition will be held in Edmonton, from May 27-31, 2018: <http://www.csc2018.ca/>.

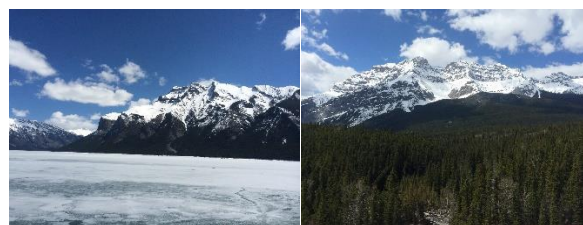

The Katz Atrium, University of Alberta.

Local Organizing/Scientific Committee:

Arno Siraki (FoPPS), Elaine Leslie (Dept. Physiology, FoMD), Lynne Postovit (Dept Oncology, FoMD), Andrew Morgan (PhD student, FoPPS), John Seubert (FoPPS), Dinesh Babu (PDF, FoPPS), Ayman El-Kadi (FoPPS).

We hope to see you in 2018 when the COSC celebrates its 10th meeting!

Dr. Diana Averill-Bates, Montréal, Canada.
On behalf of the COSC executive committee.

