ENGLISH

We pay respect to the Algonquin people, who are the traditional guardians of this land. We acknowledge their longstanding relationship with this territory, which remains unceded.

We pay respect to all Indigenous people in this region, from all nations across Canada, who call Ottawa home.

We acknowledge the traditional knowledge keepers, both young and old.

And we honour their courageous leaders: past, present, future

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course provides an overview of the field of criminology, including foundational approaches of criminology and criminal justice. During this course, we will also explore competing and complementary criminological theories, raising questions around, and competing understandings of, definitions of ‘crime’, the pursuit of crime control, approaches to (and critiques of) practices of criminal justice, as well as the interrogation of social and historical structures within which these approaches to crime, deviance and harm are presented. We will interrogate the socio-political, economic, and ideological influences that make analytical and prescriptive efforts to govern the criminal question possible. We will explore varying definitions of crime, disagreements on the extent or distribution of crime, deferring visions of social order, the causes of crime, and numerous theories regarding the criminal justice system. Throughout the course, students are encouraged to develop the analytical skills needed to think about crime and criminology theoretically and from an interdisciplinary perspective.

→ Please see the detailed course schedule at the end of this syllabus

COURSE ORGANIZATION

- This course is offered fully on-line, asynchronous.
- A narrated PowerPoint Presentation (PPT) will be made available on Brightspace every Tuesday by 5:00 PM. Each PPT will correspond with the assigned readings for that day.
- For each class, students will be required to do the corresponding readings (see readings schedule below). In addition, students will be asked to watch documentaries and read relevant news stories (links included in the PPT or in Brightspace).
- Please see the evaluation section below for a complete breakdown of the various components of evaluation.
- Please note that quizzes and exams are based on both PPT content (including documentaries, clips, and news stories), AND the textbook / readings. Therefore, students are strongly encouraged to keep up with the readings each week.

REQUIRED TEXTBOOK:

Criminology: A Canadian Perspective, 9th Edition, by Rick Linden

Where to purchase the textbook: Carleton University Bookstore

The Ruddell reading on sentencing, for week 3 will be available in ARES RESERVES (under Tools) on Brightspace

EVALUATION

Students are responsible for all course material, including assigned textbook chapters, other readings, PowerPoint lectures, including any news articles, film or other media clips.

WEEKLY ON-LINE QUIZZES (20%)

There will be 5 on-line multiple-choice quizzes, each worth 5% for a total of 20% (the lowest quiz grade will be dropped; or students can choose to skip one quiz, with no penalty). Each Tuesday at 5:00PM, a quiz will be made available. You will have until the next Monday at 11:59PM to complete it (exception: the last quiz closes that Friday; please see class schedule in this syllabus).

Once you start a quiz, you will have 20 minutes to complete it (accommodations will be made for students registered with PMC to receive more time).

GRADED DISCUSSIONS (10%)

There will be two graded discussions, each worth 5% for a total of 10%. The class will be divided into groups, and you will participate in the group discussion to which you have been assigned. Discussions will open on Tuesdays at 5:00PM and close on the next Monday at 11:59PM. Please note that you will NOT be required to do group work for the discussions. You will be writing your own post, and responding to another group member's post.

Specific instructions will be provided for each discussion. Please read the instructions carefully before posting.

Evaluation of the discussion posts will be based on the quality of the participation, and not necessarily the quantity. However, as each post is worth 5% of the final grade, students are encouraged to write approximately 500 words for each post; each post should mobilize course content and demonstrate that the student has actively engaged with the course material. Each reply post should be well-thought, make reference to course material, and bring something new to the conversation, while also being respectful and should be approximately 250 words.

MID-TERM EXAM (30%)

The exam will open on Monday, October 16 at 3:00PM and close Friday, October 20, at 11:59PM

Please note: Once you open it, you have 2 hours to complete it. You can only attempt writing the exam once. Accommodations will be made for students registered with PMC to receive extra time.

Includes: medium-length answer questions (no multiple choice).

More information on the exam, including a study guide will be provided at least a week in advance.

NOTE: Students who miss the mid-term exam due to illness, or other circumstances beyond their control are required to contact the professor as soon as possible. Please note that no accommodations will be made for students who miss an exam due to work or travel plans.

FINAL EXAM (40%)

The final exam will take place on-line, during the final exam period, scheduled by the university. The final exam will include multiple-choice questions and medium-to-long answer question. The exam is cumulative, meaning that students are responsible for all the material covered during the course.

The final exam period for fall courses will be December 10 – 22, 2023. Please make sure that you do not make work or travel plans that will prohibit you being able to write the final exam (make sure you will have reliable internet).

More information on the final exam will be provided by the last week of the course.

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

PLAGIARISM

The University Academic Integrity Policy defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentionally or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one's own.” This includes reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else's published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one's own without proper citation or reference to the original source. Examples of sources from which the ideas, expressions of ideas or works of others may be drawn from include but are not limited to: books, articles, papers, literary compositions and phrases, performance compositions, chemical compounds, artworks, laboratory reports, research results, calculations and the results of calculations, diagrams, constructions, computer reports, computer code/software, material on the internet and/or conversations.

Examples of plagiarism include, but are not limited to:

- any submission prepared in whole or in part, by someone else, including the unauthorized use of generative AI tools (e.g., ChatGPT);
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, paraphrased material, algorithms, formulae, scientific or mathematical concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another's data or research findings without appropriate acknowledgement;
- submitting a computer program developed in whole or in part by someone else, with or without modifications, as one's own; and
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another's work and/or failing to use quotations marks.

Plagiarism is a serious offence that cannot be resolved directly by the course's instructor. The Associate Dean of the Faculty conducts a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of "F" for the course.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Classroom teaching and learning activities, including lectures, discussions, presentations, etc., by both instructors and students, are copy protected and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s). All course materials, including PowerPoint presentations, outlines, and other materials, are also protected by copyright and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s).

Students registered in the course may take notes and make copies of course materials for their own educational use only. Students are not permitted to reproduce or distribute lecture notes and course materials publicly for commercial or non-commercial purposes without express written consent from the copyright holder(s).

STATEMENT ON STUDENT MENTAL HEALTH

As a University student, you may experience a range of mental health challenges that significantly impact your academic success and overall well-being. If you need help, please speak to someone.
