Fall 2021 (September – December)

CRCJ 1000N [0.5 credit]

Introduction to Criminology and Criminal Justice

Overview of the field, including the foundational approaches of criminology and criminal justice, crime as an object of study; criminal law and criminality in Canada; (neo) classical, aetiological and social reaction perspectives; alternative criminologies.

Lectures three hours a week.

Required Academic Qualifications and Skills: Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in a related field and have a record of publications in criminology-related journals. Interdisciplinary expertise across psychology, sociology, and law/legal studies will be strongly preferred.

Teaching Competence: Candidates are required to have experience teaching at the university level in a related area. Candidates who provide evidence of success in teaching at the introductory level will be strongly preferred.

If public health restrictions allow, the planned mode of delivery for this course will be in-person face-to-face lectures. The University may require that all or part of this course be delivered remotely, including online.

A note to all applicants: As per Articles 16.3-16.4 in the CUPE 4600-2 Collective Agreement, the posted vacancies listed above are first offered to applicants meeting the incumbency criterion.
