Academic Accommodation You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or Faculty of Public Affairs 20 Teaching Regulations 2019-20 as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details

Religious obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details, click here.

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613- 520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable).

Survivors of Sexual Violence

As a community, Carleton University is committed to maintaining a positive learning, working and living environment where sexual violence will not be tolerated, and where survivors are supported through academic accommodations as per Carleton's Sexual Violence Policy. For more information about the services available at the university and to obtain information about sexual violence and/or support, visit: <https://carleton.ca/equity/sexual-assault-support-services>

Accommodation for Student Activities

Carleton University recognizes the substantial benefits, both to the individual student and for the university, that result from a student participating in activities beyond the classroom experience. Reasonable accommodation must be provided to students who compete or perform at the national or international level. Write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Welcome to CRCJ 3200-A. There are looming concerns regarding social harm, racial discrimination, and the contemporary over-representation of Indigenous people within state institutions such as the criminal justice system. This course will enable students to understand significant aspects of the issues and challenges faced by Indigenous peoples, focusing on Indigenous scholarship and perspectives on criminology and crime. This course will provide students with an opportunity to engage with concepts and theories informed by the intellectual work of Indigenous and settler-allies. The course is divided into two subsections: First, students will be introduced to Indigenous criminology as a field of study. We will cover the topics of Indigenous worldviews, Indigenous ways of knowing and Indigenous legal concepts. The course then moves to the theoretical concepts of western imperialism, racialization, coloniality and patriarchy as a socio-historical, conceptual framework. We will later apply this lens to understand an array of issues related to Indigeneity, coloniality and crime. We will explore the topics of traditional Indigenous justice approaches, community healing and wellness.

 This is an asynchronous course offered completely online with course materials, links, announcements, and assignment submission accessible through Brightspace. All course content will be organized into weekly modules on Brightspace. You will be able to watch short lectures, narrated PowerPoint presentations and conversation style videos and take reading quizzes. There will be an optional 45-minute live zoom e-portfolio question/answer session on Monday, November 22nd. In this zoom session you will have an opportunity to ask questions and discuss your ideas regarding the E-portfolio assignment.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

By the end of this course, successful students will have demonstrated their ability to:

- Describe and identify key theories, concepts and epistemological dimensions of Indigenous perspectives on criminology and crime
- Summarize and discuss Indigenous historical, theoretical and methodological contexts and current issues and challenges
- Practice absorbing, transferring knowledge and experiences learned from readings, course materials into own critical thinking and written analysis
- Collect, organize, critically examine, and synthesize course and credible external sources from multiple relevant texts, digital and/or images and audio into creating an e-portfolio using the Brightspace platform
- Apply self-assessment skills and integrate analytical reflections to support why their chosen materials/sources in their e-portfolio effectively communicates their learning process throughout the course

COURSE EVALUATIONS

Quizzes (1% x10) =10%

Reflection paper	15%
Critical Essay	35%
E-Portfolio	40%

Please submit assignments using the drop box feature located on Brightspace. Assignments are due by 11:59 pm on the due date. All assignments must be completed to receive a passing grade.

REQUIRED TEXT

Monchalin, Lisa. 2016. The Colonial Problem: An Indigenous Perspective on Crime and Injustice in Canada. University of Toronto Press: Toronto, Ontario.

You can purchase new or used copies of this book through the Carleton University bookstore. The book is also available on Amazon.ca

All other course readings will be available on ARES through the Brightspace page.

LATE ASSIGNMENTS

All assignments are due on the specified date on Brightspace by 11:59 pm. Every effort should be made to make prior arrangements for an extension with the professor or teaching assistant in advance of assignment due dates. If an assignment is handed in after the due date (up until three days after), for any reason, it will be accepted, but the mark will be reduced by 3% for each late day. If you are ill, in the case of personal injury, or in other extraordinary circumstances beyond your control, there will be no late marks. There will not be opportunities for supplemental/grade-raising assignments so ensure you give yourself the necessary time needed to complete assignments. Please do not email late assignments.

Please be advised that standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until the Dean has approved them.

REQUESTS FOR RE-GRADING OF ASSIGNMENTS

Occasionally, mistakes are made because of the large number of assignments Professors and Teaching Assistants are evaluating. If you wish to have your work re-assessed, please email a brief detailed statement (1-2 paragraphs) directly to the person who graded your work, either the Professor or Teaching Assistant, and explain the error. Requests for re-assessment of assignments must be made within one week after you receive your graded assignment back. Remember that re-assessment/re-grading requests are to correct substantial errors and are not intended for negotiating or arguing for a higher grade. A re-assessment is a closer, second reading of the entire assignment. After the work has been re-assessed/re-graded, your grade may increase, decrease, or remain the same.

ONLINE QUIZZES 10%

There are 10 short quizzes. The quizzes will consist of 10 multiple-choice/true and false questions based on the assigned weekly readings presented in the modules on Brightspace. All quizzes will be due following the assigned week on Sundays at 11:59 pm. You will have 1 hour to complete the quiz. Quizzes not completed within the allocated time will receive a zero for that week. Each weekly quiz is worth 1% of your final overall quiz grade. (Please make a note of quiz due dates on Brightspace)

REFLECTION PAPER 15%

You will submit a (3-page double spaced 12 font Times Roman) reflection paper due September 27th as a word document on Brightspace by 11:59 pm. In this reflection paper, you will write about your learning goals, background knowledge, and experiences on the course topics. Reflect on what you are learning in the modules of weeks 1-2 by drawing on your course materials, lectures, and readings. You can discuss concepts, theories, and ideas about your learning process. The purpose of this assignment is to make insightful connections between your learning and course content in a critical and detailed way. You must have a clear, organized focus and writing needs to be more analytical rather than descriptive. You should have an overarching argument/approach in your paper. Include in-text citations as appropriate and reference texts when needed. Any citation is acceptable. You should maintain a formal academic tone, but you can write in the first person, and personal anecdotes can be used. The reflection paper will be evaluated based on mechanics, organization, depth and analysis. The goal is to write a concise, organized, and sharp analytical written piece. (Rubric will be posted on Brightspace)

CRITICAL ESSAY 35%

You will submit a (7-8 page, double spaced 12 font Times Roman) critical essay related to the themes of the course due November 8th as a word document by 11:59 pm. You are expected to incorporate at least 4-5 course readings, and this can additionally be supplemented by external academic sources but is not required. You are advised to start early and strongly encouraged to book a zoom office meeting with me to discuss the direction of your essay and/or your essay outline. This paper will enable you to demonstrate your working knowledge on Indigenous perspectives on criminology and aspects of Indigenous historical, theoretical and methodological contexts, current issues and challenges. Writing in criminology entails constructing a well-supported argument/analysis. You should include an introduction, thesis statement, body and conclusion. Limit each paragraph to one main idea. Be sure to include appropriate in-text citations and credit all sources, even when paraphrasing. Further instruction will be posted on Brightspace well in advance of the deadline. (Rubric will be posted on Brightspace)

E-PORTFOLIO 40%

You will submit a CuPortfolio on Brightspace, due December 6th, by 11:59 pm.

CuPortfolio enables you to showcase your cumulative active learning process from the beginning to the end of the course. For this assignment, your e-portfolio needs to include: 1) an introduction, 2) an about me section that includes a (150-300 word) biographical statement, 4) four sources best representing your learning from the course (i.e. picture, video, article) with a brief description of its significance to your learning process including a 300-500 word written analysis or 3-4 minute audio recording clip on each source 5) Any other sources or aesthetic you want to include to meaningfully complement the presentation of your e-portfolio such as (course assignments, digital art, twitter link, youtube, music or audio) 6) a 300-500 word written conclusion that addresses the following two questions: identify a topic that seemed most important to learn about in this course. Briefly explain why. AND What would you need to do if you wanted to continue improving your effectiveness as a learner on this topic? (Rubric will be posted on Brightspace)

Course Etiquette

Students are expected to carefully read the syllabus and fully engage with the course materials in the modules on Brightspace. Students are responsible for keeping up with the readings, course announcements, making note of deadlines and completing the quizzes within the allocated timeframe. Ensure your correspondence via email to the Professor and Teaching Assistants are respectful, courteous, and formal in tone. You should be checking into Brightspace and your email at least once or a few times a week. Remember, you are doing this learning for you, not the professor. You want to get as much learning out of the course as you can.

Email policy: Emails will be returned within 48 hours (excluding weekends). Please include the course title as the subject of your email (CRCJ 3200-A). Please wait 24 hours before sending emails regarding grades after an assignment is returned to you. If your question is not private or personal, you are strongly encouraged to post your question in the ‘ask your professor’ forum on Brightspace so all students in the class can benefit from the information.

Ask Your Professor Forum: Please post all course and content-related questions in the ‘ask your professor’ forum on the Brightspace course page. Your peers in the course may have the same question or benefit from the question/answer exchange. A response to your question will be provided within 48 hours (excluding weekends).

STATEMENT ON PLAGIARISM

The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentionally or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment; using another’s data or research findings;

- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another's works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs."

Plagiarism is a serious offence that cannot be resolved directly by the course's instructor. The Associate Dean of the Faculty conducts a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of "F" for the course.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Classroom teaching and learning activities, including lectures, discussions, presentations, etc., by both instructors and students, are copy protected and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s). All course materials, including PowerPoint presentations, outlines, and other materials, are also protected by copyright and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s).

Students registered in the course may take notes and make copies of course materials for their own educational use only. Students are not permitted to reproduce or distribute lecture notes and course materials publicly for commercial or non-commercial purposes without express written consent from the copyright holder(s).
