Course Description

Does the law play a role in perpetrating and contributing to racism in Canada? The course will explore issues of race, law and the criminal justice system within a Canadian context. Guided by the tenets of critical race theory (CRT), the course will survey empirical research as well as relevant case law that examines debates regarding issues of racial bias, systemic racism, and anti-Indigeneity in the Canadian criminal justice system. Particular attention will be paid to Indigenous and Black peoples in Canada.

The course will also explore counterarguments to the bias perspective and examine empirical research that argues the Canadian criminal justice is guided by statutes protects all individuals from unfair and bias practices. Various legal entities--including police, the courts, and corrections – will be considered throughout.

Upon completion of this course, students should be able to:

- Become familiar with an examination of race within the Canadian criminal justice system through a historical and contemporary context.
- Have a working understanding of Critical Race Theory and how it relates to the Canadian legal system
- Have the ability to openly discuss the historical colonization of Indigenous populations and its current impact on Indigenous people within the criminal justice system

- Have the ability to openly discuss the role of racism in the criminalization of racialized populations, including Black peoples in Canada
- Have an understanding of the debates regarding systemic racism and settler colonialism in the criminal justice literature and system.

Note on Class

We will be discussing controversial issues that are affecting racialized peoples in the Canadian criminal justice system. You may or may not be aware of some of the topics and problems that we will be discussing. These matters may make some of you feel uncomfortable. However, the goal of this course is to not steer away from this discomfort, but in fact confront it. Dr. Rita Shah (Associate Professor of Criminology at Eastern Michigan University) acknowledges that “discomfort [arises] because such rethinking (even when you reaffirm your views and beliefs) can be uncomfortable, and sometimes frightening”. However, she views this as “Productive Discomfort” as such unease is meant “ to challenge yourself, what you think, what you believe”.

In my classroom, you are in a safer space that promotes respect. We will affirm to be respectful of each other. We are going to learn from one other and unpack how our values and perspectives on the criminal justice system is greatly influenced by our social environment. If for any reason, you feel that you cannot express your thoughts, please do not hesitate to speak to me in private.

Course structure

The class will mainly be synchronous to facilitate discussion in a seminar format. Class 2 (January 18th) however will be asynchronous (recorded) due to its theoretically based content. Therefore, for most classes, we will meet online via Zoom for group discussions (Zoom link will be provided in cuLearn). Course materials (syllabus, assignment details, most required readings, and dropboxes for assignments) will also be available on cuLearn.

Course Requirements and Assessment

Total		100%

Participation

Twenty-five percent (25%) of your grade will be based on class participation. Interaction between students, instructor, and guest lecturers is expected to facilitate a fruitful learning environment. To gain the most out of this class experience, one should come to class prepared to discuss each week's topic and readings. Please note, interaction MUST always be respectful of one another's differences in opinions. In Canada, we are blessed with the privilege to "agree to disagree" without dire repercussions, thus you are expected to commit to respectful discourse during our time together. As such, you will be expected to attend every class, volunteer your ideas, and make reasoned, thoughtful, and an informed contribution to classroom discussions and debates.

To demonstrate your commitment to class discussion, each student will be required to provide 2-3 discussion questions for ONE class. Discussion questions must be posted on CULEARN by 6 pm every Sunday (before class). We will decide together as a class who is responsible for each class discussion. The quality of your discussion questions will be taken into account when assessing your participation mark.

Reflection Paper

You will also be required to complete two (2) reflection papers (2-4 pages in length, double spaced) exploring class readings. The first is due by January 22, 2021. The second is due on a week of your choice. Each reaction paper is worth 10% of your final grade (20% total). Reflection papers should raise questions or provide critical commentary on the required readings for a specific week. There is no right or wrong answer. Papers should demonstrate that you are critically engaging with the course material.

Take-home test

There will be one in class test worth 25% of your final grade. This test will be held on February 22, 2021. The test will consist of short and long answer questions. The test will cover all course material (including assigned readings, lectures, a guest lecture, and video clips) from January 11th to February 8th. The test will be made available to you on February 22nd at 8:35 am. You have until 4:00 pm, same day, to upload your test. Every hour after the deadline will result in a 5% deduction.

Final Assignment

There will be one assignment. This assignment is worth 30% of your final grade. The assignment will be written either as an essay (approximately 10-15 pages in length, double-spaced) or an "e-pamphlet". Details of the assignment will be handed out later in the term.

The assignment will be handed in electronically through the course website on CULEARN.

Please note: Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

In accordance with the Carleton University Undergraduate Calendar, the letter grades assigned in this course will have the following percentage equivalents:

A+ = 90-100	B+ = 77-79	C+ = 67-69	D+ = 57-59
A = 85-89	B = 73-76	C = 63-66	D = 53-56
A - = 80-84	B - = 70-72	C - = 60-62	D - = 50-52	F=Below 50

Policies

Late Work

You are expected to take responsibility for making appropriate judgements to ensure your assignments are submitted by the due date. It is also your responsibility to back up your work either electronically or by photocopying the work for your own reference. Please alert me to any difficulties that you may be experiencing with course work in a timely manner so that I can provide appropriate assistance and/or direct you to someone who can.

Late Reflection Papers - There are 10 weeks in which to hand in 2 reflections papers. Students who do not hand in a reflection paper by the last class will not be given an opportunity to hand in a late reflection paper.

Late Final Assignments -- Final assignments are due on April 12, 2021. Thus, you can hand in your paper (via CULEARN) by 11:59 pm that day. Late essays will not be accepted after April 19, 2021. Students acknowledges that their mark will be deducted by 5% per day, after the formal due date.

Students who claim illness, injury or other extraordinary circumstances beyond their control as a reason for missed term work are responsible for informing you as soon as possible and for making alternate arrangements to complete the missed work. In all cases this must occur no later than three (3) working days after the term work was due. The alternate arrangement must be made before the last day of classes in the term as published in the academic schedule.

Email Correspondence

Do not hesitate to reach out to me by email between Monday to Friday from 9 am to 4 pm. You will receive a response within 48 hours. If you would like to schedule a time to meet outside of virtual office hours, I will do my best to accommodate your request.

Academic Accommodation

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or Faculty of Public Affairs 20 Teaching Regulations 2020-21 as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details click here.

Religious obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details click here.

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable).

Survivors of Sexual Violence

As a community, Carleton University is committed to maintaining a positive learning, working and living environment where sexual violence will not be tolerated, and where survivors are supported through academic accommodations as per Carleton's Sexual Violence Policy. For more information about the services available at the university and to obtain information about sexual violence and/or support, visit: <https://carleton.ca/equity/sexual-assault-support-services>

Accommodation for Student Activities

Carleton University recognizes the substantial benefits, both to the individual student and for the university, that result from a student participating in activities beyond the classroom experience. Reasonable accommodation must be provided to students who compete or perform at the national or international level. Write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. <https://carleton.ca/senate/wp-content/uploads/Accommodation-for-Student-Activities-1.pdf>

STATEMENT ON PLAGIARISM

The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentionally or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs."

Plagiarism is a serious offence that cannot be resolved directly by the course’s instructor. The Associate Dean of the Faculty conducts a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of "F" for the course.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY & COPYRIGHT

Classroom teaching and learning activities, including lectures, discussions, presentations, etc., by both instructors and students, are copy protected and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s). All course materials, including recorded lectures, PowerPoint presentations, outlines, and other materials, are also protected by copyright and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s). Students registered in the course may take notes and make copies of course materials for their own educational use only. Students are not permitted to reproduce or distribute recorded lectures, voice over PowerPoints, lecture notes, or any other course materials publicly for commercial or non-commercial purposes without express written consent from the copyright holder(s).
