

DIGITAL HUMANITIES SPECIALIZATION FORM

The Collaborative MA in Digital Humanities specialization gives students the opportunity to explore the ways in which digital technologies are changing how we understand art, film, music, literature and popular culture, how we develop new forms of collective memory, and how we create global communities and intercultural dialogue. Students will learn to think critically by undertaking original research involving the latest theories, methods and technologies, while collaborating with other students and faculty across Carleton and with community partners. Learn more: <http://carleton.ca/dighum>

Note: Only students who are interested in being considered for this specialization must complete this form and upload it in Carleton Central. This document will be reviewed and assessed with your other required documents.

Applicant Name:		Carleton User ID:
To which participating master's program are you applying?
Using the box below, please outline your proposed area of research and describe how it intersects with issues of digital culture and/or the technologies and methods of Digital Humanities. (You may only use the space provided, approximately 4500 characters)			