About the Position:

The Department of Economics at Carleton University invites applications from qualified candidates for a Tenure-track faculty position in the field of empirical microeconomics at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning July 1, 2019.

The main criteria for selection are evidence of high-quality research and good teaching potential in empirical microeconomics.

About the Academic Unit:

The Department of Economics is housed in Carleton University’s Faculty of Public Affairs. It offers the Bachelor of Economics (General and Honours), as well as the International Economic Policy and Global Development specializations in the Bachelor of Global and International Studies to approximately 1000 students within the Faculty of Public Affairs. The Bachelor of Economics allows students to pursue a number of concentrations including computational analysis, economic theory, financial economics and natural resources, environment and the economy. The Department also offers an M.A. in Economics, and in partnership with the University of Ottawa, a Ph.D. in Economics through the Ottawa Carleton Graduate School of Economics. Academic positions in Economics offer opportunities for interaction with excellent colleagues. Our faculty members have edited top field journals, have published recently in top general and field journals, and are involved in the NBER. Naturally, such positions also offer opportunities for interaction with the students in our Ph.D. program. Location in close proximity to the Bank of Canada, Statistics Canada, Finance Canada, and the University of Ottawa provides many advantages. Further information about the Department is available at carleton.ca/economics.

Qualifications:

Candidates should hold (or expect to complete prior to the date of appointment) a doctoral degree, or the equivalent, in economics and have a record of high-quality research and good teaching potential.

Application Instructions:

Applicants should apply via https://www.econjobmarket.org/. Applications must include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, job market paper, a statement of teaching interests and experience, and samples of research papers. Applicants should also arrange to have three referees upload letters to https://www.econjobmarket.org/.
Please indicate in your application if you are a Canadian citizen or permanent resident of Canada.

The Department anticipates interviewing at the Canadian Economics Employment Exchange (CEEE) in Toronto on December 7-8, 2018 and at the AEA Annual Meeting in Atlanta on January 4-6, 2019. Short-listed candidates will be invited for a campus visit to take place early in 2019.

About Carleton University:

Carleton University is a dynamic and innovative research and teaching institution with a national and international reputation as a leader in collaborative teaching and learning, research and governance. Over 30,000 students study and more than 900 academic faculty work at Carleton, with the support of over 1,000 staff members.

Ottawa is a cosmopolitan city of close to a million people. It is ideally situated just a few hours’ drive from Toronto, Montreal and the United States. The city has an international airport and is well serviced by inter-city buses and trains. Ottawa is also one of the most beautiful capital cities in the world, with plentiful neighbourhood parks and tranquil green spaces, waterways that wind through the city, and historical and architectural landmarks. Elegant shops, international restaurants, movie theatres, nightclubs and a bustling farmers’ market flourish in a dynamic downtown core situated in the shadow of Canada’s majestic Parliament buildings. Consistently ranked as one of Canada’s most livable and safe cities, Ottawa is part big city, part small town.

Carleton University is strongly committed to fostering diversity within its community as a source of excellence, cultural enrichment, and social strength. We welcome those who would contribute to the further diversification of our University including, but not limited to: women; visible minorities; First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples; persons with disabilities; and persons of any sexual orientation or gender identity and expressions.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. All positions are subject to budgetary approval.
