1 Overview
In conjunction with ECON 1002, this course provides students with a broad survey of economics and teaches the economic literacy that will allow them to better understand the society in which they live. These courses also provide the introduction that will serve as a foundation for further study in economics.

1.1 Prerequisites and Preclusions
Precludes additional credit for ECON 1000 and FYSM 1003. A grade of C- or higher is required to qualify for ECON/MATH 1402, ECON 2009, ECON 2020, and ECON 3001. DEF(ferred final grade) status at the end of this course precludes (continued) registration in any other course for which the former is a prerequisite.

CULearn will also be used to send announcements to the class as needed. There will also be discussion forums in which students can ask (and answer) questions related to course administration and course content. If you have such questions please check the discussion forums before emailing the instructor or a TA. It maybe that your question has already been answered, meaning you can get an instant reply from CULearn. Please make sure that you are set up on CULearn prior to the course start date.

1.5 Email
If you need to email the Instructor or a TA please do so using your Carleton email address.
2 Evaluation
Student performance in this course is evaluated as follows:

2.1 Aplia Assignments (15%)
Economics is something that you learn by doing rather than just listening. Most weeks you will have an assignment that has the purpose of getting you to do more economics. Deadlines will become available as we move through the term. Assignments will be released to students during the term and you will have seven days to complete each assignment. Please make sure that you check Aplia and CULearn regularly. Further details will be posted on CULearn.

2.2 Random In-class Quizzes (5%)
There will be a number of in-class quizzes during the term. These will not be pre-announced and can take place at any time during the scheduled lecture or tutorial times. Make sure that you have paper and a pen with you at all lectures and tutorials. If you are absent (without a valid documented reason) then you will receive a mark of zero for that quiz. The fraction of your quiz marks with the lowest marks (including any zeros for missed quizzes) will be dropped when calculating your mark for this component of student evaluation. This fraction of quizzed to be dropped will not exceed 20%.

2.3 Written Assignments (15%)
You will be required to submit two short written assignments during the semester. Further details will be available later in the semester.

2.4 Two Midterm Exams (15% each)
The first midterm exam will take place in class on October 11th, 2018 and the second will take place in class on November 22nd, 2018. The topics to be covered in each midterm will be available later in the semester. Both exams will consist solely of multiple choice questions. Calculators are not permitted during midterm exams.

2.5 Final Exam (35%)
This will take place using the final exam period and will be common to all Fall 2018 sections of ECON1001. Coverage will be chapters 1-20 of the textbook. The exam will consist multiple choice questions and short written answer questions. Calculators are not permitted during final exam.

2.6 Centre of Student Academic Support Incentive Program (2% bonus marks)
This course has been registered in the Incentive Program offered through the Centre for Student Academic Support (CSAS). CSAS Learning Support Workshops are designed to help students cultivate and refine their academic skills for a university environment. 2.7 Missed Midterm/Assignment/Quiz

Students who are unable to write the final exam may be eligible to write a deferred final exam. An application to write a deferred final exam must be made at the Registrar’s office.

2.8 Late Assignments
Late assignments will not be accepted.

2.9 Documentation for a Missed Assignment or Midterm:
In order to have the weight of a missed assignment, quiz or midterm transferred to the final exam you must provide written evidence from an authority explaining your absence (e.g. a doctor’s note or a police report). Documentation provided by students for a missed assignment, quiz or midterm may be subject to verification and therefore you must submit this documentation along with the form Consent to Release Information to a Third Party which you can download from CULearn.
