Students who believe they have taken a similar background course or courses from another university must provide appropriate documentation to the Department of Economics Undergraduate Administrator, Renee Lorte.

3 Course Description

The course is an introduction to industrial organization (IO). At a very high level, IO studies industry structure and firm behavior when the assumptions of perfect competition do not hold. We will review and extend some basic results for monopoly and study the strategic interaction among a small number of firms and how such interaction affects market outcomes. Examples of the topics that we will cover include price discrimination, product variety, price and quantity competition, entry, collusion, and mergers. We will do so using models from microeconomics and game theory. We will also discuss how public policy affects market structure and firm behavior.

6 Evaluation

Each student's grade will be calculated using the following instruments and weights:

Instrument	Weight
1st mid-term exam	25%
2nd mid-term exam	25%
Final comprehensive exam	50%
Total	100%

Mid-term exams: The 80-minute in-person mid-term exams will take place on Feb-15 and Mar-22. Note that these are tentative dates. If you miss a mid-term exam for a documented compelling reason, the assigned weight will be added to the final exam. No makeup mid-term exams will be offered. Note also that you are allowed to miss only 1 mid-term exam and have its weight added to the final exam.

Final comprehensive exam: The 3-hour in-person final exam will take place during the formal exam period at a time and location set by the university. Students who do not write the final exam due to circumstances beyond their control may apply to write a deferred final exam. In order to write a deferred final exam, students must contact the Registrar's Office (for further details, see Section 4.3 of the Academic Regulations of the University in the Undergraduate Calendar). In the event that a student writes a deferred exam, the deferred exam will carry the same weight as the final exam in determining the course grade.

Note: Every week, I will provide practice problems that will help you understand better the material covered in the lectures and prepare for the mid-term and final examinations.

7 Satisfactory Performance Criteria

Students must fulfill all of the preceding course requirements in order to achieve a passing grade (D- or higher). Failure to write the final examination when the student has achieved satisfactory performance during the term will result in a grade of "F" until an appeal to write the deferred final exam, if granted by the Registrar's Office. A change of grade will be submitted when the deferred final exam has been written and the marks are available. See Academic Regulation 2.3 for the official meanings of the grades, and note that it stipulates that no course grades are final until approved by the Faculty Dean. Application to write a deferred final examination must be made at the Registrar's Office in writing no later than three working days after the original final examination was scheduled.

8 Regrading

Students seeking reappraisal of their graded assignment or mid-term examination should contact the instructor within a week after they receive their grades. Students are required to send e-mail to the instructor with the subject "ECON 4301-REQUEST FOR REGRADING" explaining the reason(s) for requesting a reappraisal of their graded work.

Note: Reappraisals that do not conform to this standard will not be considered.
