

Presentation skills are essential for students and young professionals to stand out and get ahead, and the skill to tell a story and visualize data effectively is important to thrive in an economics career.

- Do you know how to get your point across and give informative and engaging presentations?
- Are you able to communicate in a clear and concise manner?
- Do you know how to capture your audience within the first few seconds of your presentation?
- Can you read the room and tailor your message to your audience?

To learn strategies and tips for giving presentations and visualizing data from seasoned economics professionals join the Ottawa Economics Association (OEA) for a Presentation Skills 101 Event for students and young professional in the economics field on February 8, 2018. This event will also include time for informal networking and is made possible with funding support from the Canadian Association for Business Economics (CABE).

FREE
FOR GRAD
STUDENTS

WHEN:
Feb 8th from 5:30 to 8:30 PM

LOCATION:
115 Séraphin-Marion Pvt, Room
107, Ottawa

PRESENTATION SKILLS 101

SPONSORED BY CGES
FOR TICKETS CONTACT
GUSTAVOJURADO@CMAIL.CARLETON.CA