Invest in your future.

Carleton University's Faculty of Public Affairs brings together diverse academic units that prepare graduates to address regional and global challenges with the aim of fostering informed citizenship and building better societies.

Hiring a Carleton co-op student creates a positive business-education partnership as well as an investment in your future. As your organization looks to grow, adapt and innovate, consider the skills, perspective and energy that Carleton co-op students bring — the potential to help your business thrive.
