

Short-Term Visiting Scholar – Carleton University, Ottawa, Competing regionalism in Eurasia (May-June 2025)

The Jean Monnet Chair at Carleton University (Ottawa, Canada) invites applications for a position of short-term visiting scholar for a period of three weeks in May/ June (during the period May 5 – June 17). The position will include teaching a module on the EU’s regional cooperation mechanisms, which involves six three-hour sessions, consultations with students, constructing the course outline for the module, and evaluation of student written and oral work. The module is part of an advanced undergraduate/graduate level course entitled The EU, Russia and China: Competing Regionalism in Eurasia. The course is provided by the Institute of European, Russian, and Eurasian Studies (EURUS) at Carleton University. In addition to teaching, the visitor will be expected to consult with students and give one research lecture at the Centre for European Studies on a topic related to the EU as a regional actor.

Applicants must be based at an academic institution in an EU member state. We are seeking applicants with a completed Ph.D. in a relevant field and with a record of publications, relevant teaching experience, and an active research program. The short-term visitor will receive a stipend to cover travel and accommodation expenses, as well as a fee for teaching the module. Travel expenses (economy airfare, ground transportation to/from Ottawa airport, work permit/visa fee) will be reimbursable up to CAD$2500, with receipts. Subsistence expenses (accommodations and meal per diems, local ground transportation) will be reimbursable up to a maximum of up to CAD$7000.

Applicants should include a letter of application explaining their interest in the position, a curriculum vitae, the name and contact details of two academic references, and a copy of a recent publication relating to a topic of relevance to this competition. Please submit required materials electronically to crina.viju@carleton.ca. All materials should be included as attachments in a single email with the title line “Short-term visitor, YOUR NAME”. Consideration of applications will commence on February 15, 2025.

For further information, potential applicants may email Prof. Crina Viju-Miljusevic, Jean Monnet Chair, Centre for European Studies, at crina.viju@carleton.ca.
