DESCRIPTION:

Feminist theorists, activists and legal reformers often identify sexuality as a key site of oppression, if not the quintessential linchpin to patriarchy. At the same time, feminists are in dispute with one another about the meaning of sexuality, which sexual practices are oppressive, and which strategies will best bring about equality and liberation. At stake in these debates is determining the feminist agenda for social change, along with identifying which "side" is entitled to claim the feminist position on the issues.

With an emphasis on the contemporary socio-legal context, this class surveys a number of "hot topics," including BDSM, pornography, sex work, sexual violence, and safe spaces. The goal is for us to engage with the substantive issues, consider the contrasting methodologies and theories employed to illuminate the issues, evaluate the various feminist approaches to social transformation, and explore the epistemic and ontological premises of different feminist positions. In the course of our work, we will grapple with various concepts including: agency, autonomy, consent, coercion, context, call out culture, rape culture, carceral politics, sex equality, socialization, material and structural constraints, desire, pleasure and empowerment.

This challenging class will require a high level of participation, substantial reading for most weeks, group work, and written assignments that must be completed in response to all the readings. While keeping up with the class material and weekly assignments, students are expected to be researching and preparing for their final assignment, a major paper or project that engages with the issues. In preparation for this assignment, students will submit a proposal and workshop the ideas with their peers during the final two weeks of class. Please be aware that the seminar delves into difficult and potentially triggering material.

TECHNOLOGY POLICY and DIGITAL ETIQUETTE (IN PROGRESS and open for discussion)

As this is a discussion-based and interactive seminar, during most of the class time together, we will be discussing the issues, listening to one another and engaging with the material. Cellphone use is not allowed at any time except in the case of receiving an emergency call. Laptops should generally not be used, except in the case of accommodations (accompanied by a letter from the Paul Menton Centre), or at designated times when, for example, our work could be enhanced by on-line research. The exception to this rule is that for each week, I will canvas 1-2 volunteers to take notes on a laptop of salient points, which will be shared and posted on CULEARN. PowerPoint presentations and facilitation notes will also be posted. In order to engage fully with the text, students should bring a print out of the week's readings to class.

EVALUATION:

Attendance and participation	10%	Includes weekly attendance and oral participation
Weekly assignments	10%	Short assignments/quizzes that engage the readings (Weeks 2-10)
Class facilitation	10%	Group work to facilitate one week's readings (one week assigned by the professor)
Proposal & annotated bibliography	10%	Proposal/outline + annotated bibliography for final paper
Proposal presentation and peer feedback	10%	Presentation of final project to the class (final 2 weeks of class)
Final Paper (or creative project with permission)	50%	Final assignment (4000-6000 words) DUE:

ATTENDANCE and PARTICIPATION (10%)

Attendance and participation are evaluated for every class. Your evaluation is based on your attendance record, showing up on-time, staying for the duration of the class, actively and respectfully listening to your peers, engaging in class discussions, linking discussions to class material and outside readings/theories, and demonstrating understanding of the material in your discussions.

You are allowed to miss one class without repercussion. Other than this, any absence will impact your attendance grade, unless you provide sufficient proof that you were absent for medical or other reasons that may require accommodation under the Ontario Human Rights Code.

WEEKLY ASSIGNMENTS/QUIZZES (10%)

For each week of readings, there is a reading assignment posted in CULEARN that you must complete by 11pm the night before class. The reading assignments vary, but can include an on-line quiz, answering a question about a concept, or summarizing the take-home message of the article. The reading assignments are posted one week before they are due.

Late assignments will not be accepted unless you provide sufficient proof that you were unable to meet the deadline for medical or other reasons that may require accommodation under the Ontario Human Rights Code.

CLASS FACILITATION (10%)

Students will be assigned a week where they are charged with leading the class discussion for all the readings. This includes a very short summary of the text (that will take between 3-5 minutes maximum), along with discussion activities. The facilitation will draw attention to the most salient points and central concepts, reflect on the methodology, and create exercises to unpack and analyze the texts.

See: <https://uwaterloo.ca/centre-for-teaching-excellence/teaching-resources/teaching-tips/lecturing-and-presenting/delivery/class-activities-and-assessment-flipped-classroom> for ideas.

For each week, the assigned students can decide how they would like to share the workload (either facilitating all the readings together, or dividing up the readings), but they will all receive the same grade. While the seminar will be student-led, I will sometimes provide broader historical and theoretical context either before, during or after the facilitations. The assigned group of students must together submit one class facilitation plan by no later than 11 pm the day before class. A class facilitation plan includes an outline of the "key themes" from the texts, a list of talking points/potential discussion questions, the objective of any activities planned, and the intended "take home" message for the class. The facilitation for all the readings should take about 2 hours of the class time.

Absence from a facilitation day will result in a "0," unless you provide sufficient proof that you were unable to attend the class for medical or other reasons that may require accommodation under the Ontario Human Rights Code.

PROPOSAL & ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY (10%)

A proposal is a general description of your final paper/project. It should identify the topic, your central argument, the main points you expect to address, the methodology, some background information on the issue, the theories and concepts you think you will draw upon, how the topic has been addressed by others, and how you will offer a unique perspective. It must be written in full sentences and should be between 800-1500 words.

An annotated bibliography is a list of citations (books, articles, cases, statutes, films, songs, poems, media stories, blogs...). At this stage, your annotated bibliography must include at least 6 references to outside readings, and 2 from the assigned readings. Each citation must include a brief descriptive and evaluative paragraph of about 100-150 words. The purpose of the annotation is to inform the reader of the relevance and quality of the source and how it relates to your project. In other words, please explain how the selected piece can help further enhance your research topic.

Late proposals and bibliographies will be penalized 5% per day, including weekends, unless you provide sufficient proof that you were unable to meet the deadline for medical or other reasons that may require accommodation under the Ontario Human Rights Code.

PROPOSAL PRESENTATION AND PEER FEEDBACK (10%)

All students must attend the last 2 classes to deliver a 5-minute presentation on their final papers/projects, to be followed by 5 minutes of student questions and feedback. Ideally, the presentation should not be read out loud. Rather, I want you to speak to your major points more interactively, while engaging your peers by making eye contact and using accessible language. You must also produce a written summary of your major points and submit this document to all students. Of the 10% of the final grade allocated to this presentation, 5% is based on your presentation and written summary, while the other 5% of your grade is based on the quality of verbal feedback you offer to other students. You must make at least 6 comments on other students' work during this discussion period over the course of the two weeks.

Absence from the presentation day will result in a "0," unless you provide sufficient proof that you were unable to attend the class for medical or other reasons that may require accommodation under the Ontario Human Rights Code.

FINAL PAPER/PROJECT (50%) submitted through CULearn

Your final paper/project must be on a topic that addresses sexuality debates and feminism from any vantage point or disciplinary perspective. The paper/project must draw upon at least 3 of the assigned readings in class, as well as at least 7 other readings or materials not assigned in class. The paper must be handed in through CULearn. As an alternative to a standard academic paper, I am open to creative interventions, including autoethnographies and multi-media pieces. However, all creative ideas must be approved by me at least 2 weeks before the proposal is due. In addition, all such assignments must include a 5-10 page written gloss that outlines how the creative project engages with the theories discussed in class, and makes an 'argument' about sexuality. Your final paper must include a cover page with an original title, word count and must specify which citation style is used (APA, Chicago, MLA...). You must also include a bibliography of all sources used. You are not required to include an annotated bibliography for the final paper.

Late papers/projects will be penalized 5% per day, including weekends, unless you provide sufficient proof that you were unable to meet the deadline for medical or other reasons that may require accommodation under the Ontario Human Rights Code.

WEEKLY READINGS and ASSIGNMENTS:

All readings are available on CULEARN and should be printed and brought to class, except for the book, Geimer, Samantha, Lawrence Silver, and Judith Newman, The Girl: A Life in the Shadow of Roman Polanski (2013), which will be available for purchase at Haven's Books (<https://www.havenbooks.ca/> 43 Seneca St.)

Academic Accommodation

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details see the Student Guide

Religious obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details see the Student Guide

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable).

PLAGIARISM

The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else's published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one's own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another's data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another's works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs."

Plagiarism is a serious offence, which cannot be resolved directly with the course's instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of "F" for the course.
