

Sociology 5806F/ WGST 5901D
Critical Disability Studies
Professor Kelly Fritsch
Fall 2020

Course Description: This seminar engages contemporary disability theory, culture, and activism to consider bodily difference and its relation to the workings of power and social control, accessibility, normalization, ableism, and medicalization. Students will gain an understanding of the contemporary debates, theories, and methodologies of critical disability studies.

Online format: Blended

Readings: All readings for this course will be available on cuLearn.