

WGST 5906 A:

This course explores various feminist theoretical perspectives on women's oppression, gender relations, social inequalities, and prescriptions for social change. The readings in this course will explore foundational texts, critiques of those texts, and contemporary scholarship, which include critical transnational, decolonial, and postcolonial perspectives.

The seminars in this course will be face-to-face.