FOOD STUDIES: Matter, Meaning & Movement
Edited by David Szanto, Amanda Di Battista & Irena Knezevic

Food Studies will be published as an open educational resource (OER) through the Rebus Community, a non-profit initiative that supports open publishing with resources, a project management platform, and a community of people dedicated to making knowledge openly accessible.

To be part of the Food Studies project, you will need to register on the Rebus Community website and join the project team, so that we can maintain contact over the course of the publishing process. There is no cost to register.

TO REGISTER:

1. Go to https://www.rebus.community/
   - In the upper right corner, click on the LOG IN button to create an account.
   - Please use your institutional email address (if applicable).
2. Once logged in, scroll down on the main page and click on OPEN TEXTBOOK DIRECTORY. (You may also want to explore other areas on the Rebus site.)

3. In the Directory search window, type in “Food Studies” (or if the project is already visible, click on it to go to the project home page).
4. Once on the Food Studies homepage, click on FOLLOW to become part of the project team.

5. At any time, you can update your account and profile details by clicking on the icon in the upper right corner of the Rebus Community main page. (To reach this page from anywhere on the site, click on the Rebus logo in the upper left corner.)