1. Avertissement/Disclaimer

Language is fundamental to the human experience, and literature reflects an unlimited potential of human experiences. In our studies of French language and French-language literatures, we are exposed to a diversity of human realities from the past and present. Human realities range from the sublime to the horrendous. For the latter, we need only think of genocide, slavery, racism, sexism and other forms of discrimination, exploitation and persecution, all of which are products of humanity. To hide these would be to present an untrue picture of humanity and human history, which would be anathema to the academic enterprise. In our courses, there is sometimes content and language that are emotionally and intellectually challenging to engage with. You should be aware of this. When this happens (and it may be the case in our body of works, since the concept of normality has changed quite a bit in the Western world since the 18th century), we take a scholarly approach to the problem and define and contextualize it, together as a community of learning. As a department, we are committed to maintaining a safe space of intellectual growth for all students, and co-discovery with course instructors.

2. Communication

Du lundi au vendredi entre 8h30 et 17h, les communications par courriel reçoivent généralement une réponse dans les 48 heures. Le courriel devrait être utilisé surtout pour les questions administratives ou pour aborder votre situation personnelle. Toute communication électronique devra être faite par l'intermédiaire de l'adresse @cmail.carleton.ca de l'étudiant-e ou via Brightspace. L'étudiant-e peut aussi participer aux heures de bureau prévues ou, au besoin, prendre rendez-vous.

3. Learning Outcomes (texte officiel)

LO5. Determine and apply an appropriate methodology or analytical approach to interpret literary text or solve a linguistic problem and formulate simple hypotheses.

LO6. Gather, evaluate, synthetize, and present quantitative and/or qualitative information on a topic in literature or linguistics independently and collaboratively.

LO8. Explain key concepts and use specialized terminology in French and francophone literary studies and theories, such as literary movements, authors and works from diverse historical periods including the present, and from different regions of the Francophone world.

4. Description et objectifs

En Europe, le siècle des Lumières fut longtemps célébré, tant pour ses apports à la réflexion philosophique, à la littérature et aux arts. Sans doute ancrée dans le réel, l'obsession des penseurs pour le progrès et la liberté donne l'impression que la Révolution française était prévisible. Aujourd'hui, l'universalisme des Lumières est critiqué. Aux États-Unis, l'année 1776 et ses figures fondatrices résonnent dans la culture populaire (The Patriot, 2000). Au Canada, en revanche, sauf peut-être au Québec, le 18^e siècle est presque absent des mémoires. Approche comparative, de nature historique et littéraire (France-Canada).

Ce séminaire s'articule autour de trois objectifs principaux. Tout d'abord, nous prendrons connaissance d'autres discours portant sur le 18^e siècle (France, États-Unis). Ensuite, nous réfléchirons au statut complexe et problématique de ce corpus colonial dans l'histoire littéraire du Canada (surtout en français). Enfin, fort de ces réflexions, nous lirons des textes issus du 18^e siècle canadien, y compris des articles publiés dans les premiers journaux (notamment dans la Gazette de Québec et la Gazette littéraire de Montréal).

5. Évaluation

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Students are expected to be available for the duration of a course including the examination period. Dates and deadlines are made available to students in the Carleton University Undergraduate Calendar well in advance of registration. No formal examinations will be informally accommodated.

Le programme intégral des modules est ou sera disponible sur Brightspace.

9. Plagiarism (texte officiel)

The University Academic Integrity Policy defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentionally or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one's own.” This includes reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else's published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one's own without proper citation or reference to the original source. Examples of sources from which the ideas, expressions of ideas or works of others may be drawn from include but are not limited to: books, articles, papers, literary compositions and phrases, performance compositions, chemical compounds, artworks, laboratory reports, research results, calculations and the results of calculations, diagrams, constructions, computer reports, computer code/software, material on the internet and/or conversations.

Examples of plagiarism include, but are not limited to:

- any submission prepared in whole or in part, by someone else;

- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, paraphrased material, algorithms, formulae, scientific or mathematical concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another's data or research findings without appropriate acknowledgement;
- submitting a computer program developed in whole or in part by someone else, with or without modifications, as one's own; and
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another's work and/or failing to use quotations marks.

Plagiarism is a serious offence that cannot be resolved directly by the course's instructor. The Associate Dean of the Faculty conducts a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of "F" for the course.

→ À cela j'ajoute la traduction automatique et l'intelligence artificielle (du genre ChatGPT). Je préfère mille fois vos erreurs humaines aux bêtises de robots : ils sont forts, certes, mais leur prose sent encore le métal et la puce électronique... Je ne priverai pas de vous le dire. Voici le texte officiel de Carleton à ce sujet :

Generative Artificial Intelligence (e.g. ChatGPT)

Unless explicitly permitted by the instructor in a particular course either generally or for a specific assignment, any use of generative AI tools to produce assessed content is a violation of academic integrity standards.

→ Je ne permets ni la traduction automatique, ni le recours aux outils d'intelligence artificielle.
