Instructions

The aim of this activity is not to provide a specific answer but to provoke reflections on this topic.

2) Discussion & Synthesizing: By analyzing the brainstormed sticky notes, discuss connections, emerging themes, and/or reflections. As main themes emerge, you may have multiple. Write your main ideas on the sticky notes in the yellow box on the right. (10 mins)

Remember:

- This is an intensive brainstorming session, so please be mindful of the time.
- Use sticky notes to fill in each field, use as many sticky notes as needed.
- Change font size if necessary.
- Colours of sticky notes can be changed and used to connect ideas, along with arrows.
- Change the size of the big teal and yellow boxes if necessary.

How can research choices (theoretical and methodological) be representative of the local context? (5 mins)

Think about the question, and place any ideas related to how research choices are representative of the local context (characteristics of context, how do the choices relate to context, etc...) below using sticky notes. The sticky notes can be connected using arrows or by grouping sticky notes together. Add as many sticky notes as needed.

to how research choices are representative of the local context (characteristics of context, how do the choices By analyzing the brainstormed sticky notes, discuss connections, emerging themes, and/or reflections. You may have multiple themes. Write your main ideas on the sticky notes below.

Research choices represent local context... (10 mins)

