COURSE DESCRIPTION

What are the political, social, ethical and cultural implications of living in an age where human activity has become the dominant force shaping the planet’s environments? Our aim this semester is to think critically about this question as we consider how societal institutions respond to environmental concerns, how various stakeholders understand environmental questions, and how environmental priorities are implemented in social, political and economic decision-making. To achieve this objective, we will take a deep analytical dive into the meaning and politics of “the Anthropocene.”

ENST 4000 is an advanced seminar designed to give you an opportunity to build upon and apply the analytical skills and disciplinary expertise that you have acquired throughout the course of your university career.

You should expect the following from our work this semester:

- Active Discussion: This class is designed to be a discussion-based seminar. It is critical that you do the readings in advance and come to class prepared to discuss their contents. The success of this course hinges on active in-class engagement. The significant weight given to participation (25%) as a portion of the final grade is a reflection of this fact.

- Challenging material: The weekly readings (generally about 50-75 pages in length) are usually challenging. You should start reading at least a few days in advance of the seminar. Ideally, all readings should be consulted twice.

- Timely feedback: I will do my best to return all assignments within two weeks of submission.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

- To develop an in depth understanding of the idea of the Anthropocene, and its contested status
- To engage with cutting edge /contemporary research in the field of Environmental Studies
- To consider the political implications of human-driven environmental and climatic changes
- To build a classroom community of comradely exchange and develop professional communication skills

REQUIRED TEXTS

Required texts are available online (via the Ares portal on our class cuLearn page) and/or at the MacOdrum Library reserve desk. </tbody>
Please note:

- Late assignments will be penalized by 3% per calendar day (to a maximum of 25% total); no assignments will be accepted after two weeks beyond the original deadline (unless an alternative arrangement has been made).
- All assignments must follow the style guidelines outlined in the Chicago Manual of Style (16th edition or later); citations can be formatted in either the “notes and bibliography” or “author-date” style, so long as one of these options is used consistently throughout the document; there is a quick Chicago-style citation guide available here: http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools_citationguide.html
- All assignments will be assessed on the overall quality of presentation, including citation format, spelling, grammar, coherence of argument, etc.
- Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor, subject to the approval of the faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Carleton University demands academic integrity from all its members. The Academic Integrity Policy (available at https://carelton.ca/registrar/academic-integrity) governs the academic behaviour of students. Academic Integrity is defined as:

“A commitment even in the face of adversity to five fundamental values: honesty, trust, fairness, respect, and responsibility.” – Centre for Academic Integrity (1999)

Academic dishonesty, in whatever form, is destructive to the values of the university, and risks harming the university’s reputation as place of learning and innovation. Furthermore, it is unfair and discouraging to those students who pursue their studies honestly.

The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentionally or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs."

Plagiarism is a serious offence that cannot be resolved directly by the course’s instructor. The Associate Dean of the Faculty conducts a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of "F" for the course.
ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy

For exams

Early in the term, identify your needs for exam accommodations to an Equity Advisor in Equity and Inclusive Communities and fill out an Exam Accommodation Form.

For in-class accommodations ONLY

If you anticipate you will only require in-class accommodations, discuss them directly with your course instructor. If your request is denied, contact Equity and Inclusive Communities for assistance.

For detailed information on pregnancy and parental leave policies please visit our website at: carleton.ca/equity/accommodation/student_guide.html

Parental leave

Either parent may request up to three terms of leave, which must be completed within 12 months of the date of birth or custody or request for leave for health-related family responsibilities. For detailed information on pregnancy and parental leave policies please visit our website at: carleton.ca/equity/accommodation/student_guide.html

Students with religious obligations

1. As soon as you receive your course syllabus, identify any potential conflicts between your religious obligations and course requirements.

2. Make a formal written request to your instructor indicating the nature of the religious obligation and suggest possible alternative dates and/or means of satisfying the academic requirements. NOTE: Such request should be made during the first two weeks of the term, or as soon as possible after a need for accommodation is known to exist, but in no case later than the second last week of classes for that term. Even if you are unclear as to the exact date of the obligation (e.g., when waiting for a moon sighting) you are still expected to notify your instructor of the potential conflict and explore accommodation options.

3. If your request for accommodation is denied you may contact Equity and Inclusive Communities and request assistance in an informal review of the decision. For detailed information on Religious Obligations please visit our website at: carleton.ca/equity/accommodation.

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

If you have a documented disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact the Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation or contact your PMC coordinator to send your instructor your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term. You must also contact the PMC no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with your instructor as soon as possible to ensure accommodation arrangements are made.

Survivors of Sexual Violence

As a community, Carleton University is committed to maintaining a positive learning, working and living environment where sexual violence will not be tolerated, and where survivors are supported through academic accommodations as per Carleton's Sexual Violence Policy. For more information about the services available at the university and to obtain information about sexual violence and/or support, visit:

Accommodation for Student Activities

Carleton University recognizes the substantial benefits, both to the individual student and for the university, that result from a student participating in activities beyond the classroom experience. Reasonable accommodation must be provided to students who compete or perform at the national or international level. Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist.
