

Winter 2022

GEOG 2023: Cities, Inequality and Urban Change

Department of Geography and Environmental Studies, Carleton University

Lecture Time and Location: Tuesdays 12:35pm-2:25pm, Mackenzie Building 3275

Instructor: Dr. Jennifer Ridgley

Email: jennifer.ridgley@carleton.ca

Tutorials:

Tuesdays 2:35pm-3:25pm, Loeb A410

Tuesdays 4:35-5:25, Loeb A410

Tuesdays 6:05-6:55pm, Loeb A410

Wednesdays 8:35-9:25, Loeb A410

Course Description

This course explores geographical perspectives on the uneven power relationships and politics that shape urban lives and urban space. It provides an introduction to Critical Urban Geography and examines how factors such as gender, class, dis/ability, race and sexuality shape city life and city form. It will also investigate how urban residents, social movements, and policy makers have attempted to address key urban issues such as inequality, health, safety, livelihoods, mobility and sustainability.

Prerequisites

GEOG 1023, or second-year standing, or permission of the department.