

GEOG 3009C
Special Topics in Human Geography: Emotional Geographies
Winter Term 2026

Department of Geography & Environmental Studies

Instructor: Sophie Tamas

Schedule: Thursdays 1135-1325

E-mail: Sophie.Tamas@caleton.ca

Description:

Emotional geographies aim to learn from and with feeling as it manifests within bodies and places and lends them meaning. This course is organized around examining the way emotion and affect shape academic spaces and practices. How does university feel? Why? Where? For whom? and what does that do? Through lectures, activities, and assigned readings, we will learn about the conceptual tools used by emotional geographers and collaboratively map our local academic emotional geographies, with particular curiosity about how AI is changing academic structures of feeling.