Overview

This seminar will explore the world which was created by the campaigns of Alexander the Great. The term ‘Hellenistic’ refers to this particular period in world history (i.e. 323 BCE, the death of Alexander, to 31 BCE, the defeat of Antony and Cleopatra at Actium), but also to its cultural and political attributes. We will begin by examining the wars of the successors to Alexander, which did much to alter the political map of a swathe of territory running from Greece to Afghanistan, and which also made fundamental changes to the nature of kingship and political rule. We will then look at the different kingdoms which arose in the aftermath of the wars of the successors, including those of the Ptolemies, in Egypt; the Seleucids, in the Near East; the kingdom of Pergamum; that of the Antigonids, in Macedonia; and we will also look at the kingdom of Bactria, modern Afghanistan. The seminar will explore culture, religion, art history, and other subtopics, and we will finish by thinking about the period in terms of the history of the Roman Republic.

Oral presentations

Each week we will be having class discussions based on the readings assigned for that class. Each student will, over the term, offer one formal essay and one formal response. See sheet on CULearn for specifics.

Research Essay

Later in the term each student will complete a research essay of 10-15pp. More details about the essay will be provided in class in due course.

Abstracts of research essays will be circulated amongst the group in late November for feedback and discussion in class. This is to encourage a collegial approach to your work (a major part of academic life!) so as to facilitate dialogue between your different projects. Useful feedback will result in better papers! An exact schedule for each student will be determined in October.

Reading Journal. Each student, unless they are presenting that day, will write a short response, maximum one page, on the assigned readings. These will be submitted at the end of each class and will be used to assess participation and general engagement with the course material. The best five will be used to make up your mark.

Provisional timeline

September:
- The world of Alexander – history, geography, politics
- The wars of the Successors and the formation of the Hellenistic kingdoms

October:
- Ptolemaic Egypt
November:
The Greco-Bactrian kingdoms
The coming of Rome

December:
Discussion of research projects, and Hellenistic-World-themed Secret Santa!

Note: standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Other Notes

1. Please see the final page, “Regulations common to all Humanities courses”, for information on plagiarism, requests for academic accommodation, etc.

2. If you cannot complete an assignment due to illness or other unforeseen circumstances, it is your responsibility to inform me so that alternative arrangements can be made. Documentary evidence of your reason for missing an assignment must be provided.

3. It is your responsibility to come to class prepared. This includes doing the readings.

4. Late papers will not be accepted. There are NO exceptions, unless you have a compelling reason why you cannot submit your paper on time (illness, emergency etc.), in which case it is YOUR responsibility to inform me so alternative arrangements can be made.
COPIES OF WRITTEN WORK SUBMITTED
Always retain for yourself a copy of all essays, term papers, written assignments or take-home tests submitted in your courses.

PLAGIARISM
The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs."

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of “F” for the course.

PETITIONS TO DEFER
If you miss a final examination and/or fail to submit a FINAL assignment by the due date because of circumstances beyond your control, you may apply a deferral of examination/assignment. If you are applying for a deferral due to illness you will be required to see a physician in order to confirm illness and obtain a medical certificate dated no later than one working day after the examination or assignment deadline. This supporting documentation must specify the date of onset of the illness, the degree of incapacitation, and the expected date of recovery.

If you are applying for a deferral for reasons other than personal illness, please contact the Registrar’s Office directly for information on other forms of documentation that we accept.

Deferrals of assignments must be supported by confirmation of the assignment due date, for example a copy of the course outline specifying the due date and any documented extensions from the course instructor. Deferral applications for examination or assignments must be submitted within 5 working days of the original final exam.
