Course Description:

This course is designed for students who have successfully completed LATN 2200 or the equivalent. It is a continuation of the study of grammar and reading Latin texts. In the first classes, we will complete the material in Wheelock's Latin, chapters 38-40; we will then have covered all the main Latin grammatical constructions. For the rest of the semester, we will read a selection from Latin epic poetry: book 14 of the Punica of Silius Italicus, which deals with an episode from the second Punic war, M. Claudius Marcellus' conquest of Syracuse. The chief goal is to develop a facility with translating passages of Latin; to this end we will read about 30-50 lines per class (less at the beginning and more at the end of the semester). In addition we will examine the poetic style and the historicity of the account, especially in the light of Silius' models, Vergil and Livy. In order to understand the context, bibliographical material will be assigned. This course is the prerequisite for LATN 3900 in which students continue their learning of Latin through the reading of ancient authors.

Required Texts:

Wheelock's Latin, by Frederic M. Wheelock, revised by R. LaFleur 7th ed. rev. (New York, Harper Collins, 2011)

A Latin Dictionary, such as: An Elementary Latin Dictionary, Charlton T. Lewis, Oxford University Press, 1891 / 1984 (ISBN 0199102058)

Selections from the Punica will be provided by the instructor.

Evaluation: The final grade components are:

Class participation, class work	10%
January 23 Test	20%
February 13 Test	20%
March 13 Test	20%
April Final Examination	30%

Class participation includes attendance and preparation of 30-50 lines of Silius per class, as well as an active engagement with the interpretation of the text. We will practice reading Latin at sight with Vergil and Livy. Students will be asked to investigate literary and historical topics such as the Punic Wars, earlier Latin epics on the Punic wars, ancient Sicily, and the siege of Syracuse. Testing will include translation, commentary, scansion of the dactylic hexameter, identification of grammar and syntax, historical questions, synopsis of a verb, translation of an unseen passage at sight and essay questions, such as a comparison of Livy and Silius on the fall of Syracuse.

NOTES

1. Regular class attendance and participation, together with prior preparation and subsequent review are necessary to ensure success.
2. Information, assignments and mid-term grades will be posted on the course Web CT page.
3. Be sure to read the attached sheet headed Regulations Common to All Humanities Courses. This contains much important information, including a detailed definition of plagiarism.
4. All homework to be graded for class participation must be done independently, without collaboration. If two homework assignments are found to have been done in collaboration, then the students involved will be penalized in accordance with Carleton's Academic Integrity Policy.
5. There will be oral exercises and practice in every class. If you have a good reason for not participating in this oral work, it is possible to arrange alternative evaluation.
6. Alternate arrangements for missed tests or exams will only be made where there is evidence of a valid medical certificate or similar documentation.
7. Requests for Deferred Final Exams must be directed to the Registrar's Office. In order for your request to be considered, you must have at least 50% of the maximum marks for the other course assignments.

COPIES OF WRITTEN WORK SUBMITTED

Always retain for yourself a copy of all essays, term papers, written assignments or take-home tests submitted in your courses.

PLAGIARISM

The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in “substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.”

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of “F” for the course
