

New Scholar Workshop
Thursday June 20, 2019
River Room, 2nd level, Richcraft Hall, Carleton University
Ottawa, Canada

Brian Ogolsky (University of Illinois) will serve as the moderator for the workshop

8:00-11:00 am	Light breakfast (e.g., granola, yogurt, bagels & spreads, cereal & soy milk, fruit, tea & coffee will be available during this window of time)
8:30-10:45 am	*Effective Collaborations Sara Algoe and Andrea Hussong (Univ. of North Carolina at Chapel Hill) The Love Consortium is a digitally-connected community of researchers engaged in the advanced scientific study of high-quality social connections. Love Consortium members aspire to facilitate such research through collaborative opportunities that emerge from archived data. In the first portion of this workshop, Sara Algoe will introduce researchers to the goals of the consortium and resources available. In the second portion, Andrea Hussong will give a workshop on Integrative Data Analysis, which is a powerful method for pooling data from across studies that have common constructs (Hussong, Curran, & Bauer, 2013). It has many advantages for theory testing that could be capitalized upon through collaborations developed via the Love Consortium. *Note. Effective Collaborations is an optional workshop (hosted by the Love Consortium) that will occur before the New Scholar Workshop begins. All New Scholar Workshop registrants are welcome and encouraged to attend (no additional cost).
10:50-11:00 am	Welcome and introductions for the New Scholar Workshop
11:00am-12:00pm	Open Science Practices for New Scholars Samantha Joel (University of Western Ontario) John Sakaluk (University of Victoria) William Chopik (Michigan State University)
12:00-1:00 pm	Lunch with Mentors (soup, salad, sandwiches)
1:00-2:00 pm	Getting and Maximizing Postdoctoral Opportunities Emily Impett (University of Toronto) Sara Algoe (University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill) Jessica Maxwell (Florida State University)
2:00-2:15 pm	Break
2:15-3:15 pm	Successfully Balancing Teaching, Service, and Research Francesca Righetti (VU Amsterdam) Amy Muise (York University) Geoff MacDonald (University of Toronto)
3:15-3:30 pm	Tea and coffee break with dessert
3:30-4:30 pm	Question and Answer period with all panel members

Cheryl Harasymchuk, Amy Muise, and Emily Impett (organizers of NSW)

IARR (sponsor)

