

Contract Instructor Opportunities FALL/WINTER 2017-2018

FYSM 1607 C: Cognitive Science: Thinking and Knowing [1.0 credit, Fall/Winter]

COURSE DESCRIPTION: Interdisciplinary examination of discoveries in linguistics, psychology, philosophy, and computer science concerning the question “What is cognition”? Specific issues may include the mind-brain controversy, the role of language in thought, and artificial versus natural intelligence.

Course Prerequisite(s): normally restricted to students entering the first year of a B.Cog.Sc. or B.A. program. Classes and seminars three hours a week.

Pursuant to Article 16.3(c) of the CUPE 4600 Unit 2 Collective Agreement, subject to Article 15.2, expressions of interest are invited from member of the CUPE 4600 bargaining unit and other interested persons to teach the aforementioned cognitive science course during the 2015-2016 Fall/Winter terms. Offers of employment and replies to these offers are subject to Articles 15.4 and 15.5 respectively.

Applicants should be either near completion in a Ph.D. program in Cognitive Science, or hold a Ph.D. in Cognitive Science and have teaching experience in Cognitive Science at the university level. Qualified candidates must be able to demonstrate research expertise in the area of empirical cognitive science.

Applicants are asked to submit a Curriculum Vita that includes a listing of all courses taught within the CUPE 4600 Unit 2 bargaining unit at Carleton University and a contract instructor application form (see link below). Applicants who are not incumbents should also submit a brief teaching dossier, highlighting information that is relevant to the course, and teaching evaluations, if available, from other courses taught. Please send the material by June 1st, 2017 electronically to:
