Contract Instructor Opportunity, Winter 2019
Institute for Comparative Studies in Literature, Art and Culture
Curatorial Studies

ICSLAC is seeking a qualified contract instructor for the Winter 2019 academic term. Applicants must hold at least an M.A. in an appropriate discipline, have previous university level teaching experience in the subject area, and demonstrate familiarity with curatorial practices. Preference will be given to applicants holding a Ph.D.; teaching experience at the graduate level will also be an asset. The course for which a contract instructor is currently being sought is:

Winter Session, January - April 2019

CURA 5002 [0.5 credit]
Curatorial Studies Pro-seminar (Hands on Disciplinary Training)
This course, taught in collaboration with an institution in the National Capital Region, assists students to develop practical and professional competencies. The course focuses on issues specific to curatorial practice in natural and cultural history museums, interpretation/discovery centres and science centres.
Lectures once a week for 3 hours.

Application Procedures and Deadlines:
All applicants must apply to the Institute Director in writing (by email):
