

NSCI 1000 & 2000

Seminar in Science

Open to all students in the Faculty of Science, these courses provide students with the transferrable skills required to excel in their degrees and beyond

NSCI 1000	NSCI 2000
 Provides new students with an orientation to the study of science at the university level	 Focuses on applying interdisciplinary approaches to solving scientific problems
 Focuses on academic integrity issues	 Fosters critical thinking skills through inquiry-driven assignments
 Discusses EDI issues in science, with the goal increasing awareness and retention in STEM	 Engages students in the FoS community through seminars and events
 Practical skills include writing in the sciences, oral presentations, and peer review	 Experiential learning including journal publishing and community outreach

Offered Fall, Winter, and Summer Terms

Offered Winter term only