Local Economic Development from the Peripheries

2019 Regional Studies Association – Latin America Division Conference
Institutions, Governance and Regional Development:
Rethinking Local Economic Development from the Peripheries
30th September – 1st October 2019, Universidad de los Andes, Bogotá, Colombia https://www.regionalstudies.org/events/2019latinamericadivision/

Organised by the Regional Studies Association in partnership with the Universidad de los Andes, Centro Interdisciplinario de Estudios Sobre Desarrollo – Cider, Bogotá, Colombia

The 2019 RSA Latin American Division Conference in Bogotá will focus on understanding the formal and informal institutional processes through which local economic development occurs. It will have a particular emphasis on peripheral regions and small and medium-sized cities, both in the global North and the South, as well as on how the relationship between areas with large agglomerations, both domestic and globally, affect their opportunities for development.

Conference themes therefore include:

- Institutions and Local Economic Development
- Universities and Regional Development
- Uneven Development Dynamics in Peripheral Regions
- Extractivism, Biodiversity and Local Economic Development
- Rural-urban Linkages
- Place-leadership and Territorial Development
- Urban and Regional Politics and Governance
- Infrastructure and Regional Development
- Innovation and Cluster Policies in Peripheral Regions
- Global Value Chains and Global Production Networks
- Creative Districts and Displacement
- Post-Development and Post-Colonial Approaches to Local Economic Development
- Decentralisation and Urban and Regional Planning
- Class, Race, Gender and Local Economic Development
- Place-based and Place-sensitive Policies

The conference will have sessions in English, Spanish and Portuguese, and we welcome abstracts in these three languages.
