CALENDAR COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course explores justifications and practices of punishment and social control from a socio-legal perspective. Rationalizations and justifications for punishment are considered. Different forms of punishment and control within the law will be examined as well as different theoretical perspectives of punishment.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

A great deal of legal theory is devoted to justifying punishment, in particular reconciling the use of coercion with liberal commitments to the idea of individual freedom and autonomy. We use legal rationalities – which often depend on specifically liberal notions of individual agency and responsibility – to articulate limits on the power to punish; however, on closer examination we see that punishment is shaped not only by these rationalities but by a wide range of historical, institutional, cultural and social forces.

This course will focus on punishment in the criminal justice context. We will examine traditional theories that provide justification for punishment and contemporary sentencing practices, and the extent to which their claims can be maintained in light of some of the larger – and largely contingent – forces affecting punishment and policy. We will also consider the intersection between punishment, therapy, rehabilitation and reconciliation, and the frequent slippages between these concepts. Finally, we will consider whether reform movements might distract us from the alternative of decriminalization, and the penal abolitionist movement.

REQUIRED TEXTS

A course pack will be available at Octopus Books at 116 Third Avenue. The syllabus includes a number of selections that are not in the course pack but which students can access electronically through the MacOdrum Library database. Cases and additional materials will be posted on CuLearn.
EVALUATION
(All components must be completed in order to get a passing grade)

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Department and of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Department and the Dean.

Two Reflection Papers, 15% each:
Students will be asked to submit two papers, 600 to 900 words in length, discussing the readings. The first reflection paper can be on any of the readings covered in class from January 16th to February 6th, inclusive, and must be submitted by February 13th at the latest. The second reflection paper can be on any of the readings from February 13th to April 3rd, and must be submitted by April 9th at the latest. Students may submit their reflection papers prior to the final submission date, and are encouraged to do so as early in the term as possible.

Mid-term take-home assignment, 30%
A take home assignment, consisting of a choice of essay questions, will be distributed on February 13th, and will be due on February 27th. Students will be responsible for all the readings and material covered in class up to and including February 13th.

Final take-home exam, 40%
A final take home exam, consisting of a choice of essay questions, will be distributed on April 3rd, and due on April 27th.
